Marin Gets $700,000 Offer For Courthouse

Shop Mall Proposed – If City Approves

A Greenbrae developer is willing to buy the courthouse square in San Rafael for $700,000 cash and convert it into a closed-mall shopping complex with rooftop parking.

"It all depends on what the City of San Rafael does with zoning—how restrictive they want to make it," said developer Jerome Khan of 65 Via Cheparro today. "They have the key to the whole thing."

Khan declined to identify the businesses that would be going into the shopping mall but said there would be several retail shops. He said the entire development would cost about $3 million.

The $700,000 cash offer for the courthouse property was disclosed yesterday in a letter to Marin County Board of Supervisors by County Administrator Alan Bruce. The offer is conditional on the City of San Rafael giving its approval to construction and use plans.

ASSURANCE ASKED

The board of supervisors will be asked Tuesday to give the developer "reasonable assurance" the offer will be acceptable so he can begin detailed plans for submission to the city.

Although the offer is $200,000 less than a previous offer to the county for the courthouse, the net result in cash will be about the same, said Administrator Bruce.

The earlier offer fell through when San Rafael asked that it be allowed to make a deal of its own and appealed for a delay.

BRUCE'S VIEWS

Bruce, in his letter to the supervisors, said he believes the city may come to terms on this offer.

"In view of the economic benefit to the city, its residents and downtown interests from a major retail development in this strategic position, it seems reasonable to assume that such approvals will be granted in due course," he wrote.

Papal Plea Extends Cease-Fire

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied headquarters today announced a 12 hour extension in the 24-hour cease-fire in the Vietnam war for New Year's in accordance with Pope Paul's appeal to make Jan. 1 "a day of peace."

The pace of the war began scaling down in advance of the truce beginning at 6 p.m. Sunday, but the U.S. command reported two fierce battles earlier this week near the DMZ that killed 70 American Marines and announced the loss of two more planes over North Vietnam.

BODY COUNT

Marines in the DMZ fighting killed 60 Communists, field reports said.

An ominous development was reported in the Mekong River Delta where commanders said government forces captured a North Vietnamese rifleman—the first confirmation that Hanoi regulars were operating in the big rice bowl zone south of Saigon.

SECRET MEETING

The New Year's truce extension was announced after U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker made a 15-mile helicopter trip from Saigon to an American infantry base yesterday and conferred with President Nguyen Van Thieu. The meeting was cloaked in secrecy, prompting speculation that it involved a new peace initiative.

This speculation all but vanished today when the South Vietnamese government announced the 36-hour truce. The Allied cease-fire for Christmas lasted 24 hours.

Boat Burning Launches Hunt For Hoaxer

False Alarms Topped By Two Pre-Dawn Fires

A youth who has been phoning false fire alarms from Bel Marin Keys for the past month was sought today after fire destroyed a boat moored on the keys.

The boat fire followed by three hours a false report of a kitchen fire at a non-existent address and discovery of a bale of hay ablaze less than a block away.

The 25-foot pleasure boat, its cabin burned out by a very hot fire, was declared a near-total loss by its owner, Allen D. Brown of 145 Montego Key. The Brown family was awakened at 4:45 a.m. by a neighbor, who had seen the flames, pounding on their door.

Lt. Walter Nolan of the Novato Fire Department said firemen have been receiving false alarms for the past month from someone with "a teen-aged male voice," reporting fires on Montego Key.

At 1 a.m. today, Lieutenant Nolan answered the phone and the teen-aged male voice said "very clamly" that there was a fire in his kitchen at 190 Montego Key.

"I tried to pin him down," said Nolan, "and he said, 'My kitchen's on fire and I've got to get out of here.' "

A fire engine was dispatched to the address — but firemen

The body of a little San Rafael boy, who would have been four years old on Jan. 25, was found in an apartment house storeroom today, stabbed to death.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Jo Goodson, 36, of 725 Kerner Boulevard, Apt. 4, was held as the suspected killer. She was being quizzed at noon by Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa and Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw.

The killing of little Richard Anthony Goodson came to light at 9 a.m. when 14-year-old Sally Goodson, eldest of Mrs. Goodson's five children, knocked at the door of Police Inspector Gerald R. Green's apartment—which is Apt. 2 of the same building.

Sunday Won't Hinder New Year Festivities

NEW YORK (AP) — Those New Year's Eve celebrations—and New Year's Day hangovers—will cost just as much and maybe more than ever this year, and, in most states, won't be slowed down a bit by the fact that 1967 ends on a Sunday.

Last-minute legislation and issuance of special licenses will permit the sale of liquor in many places where alcohol normally can't be sold on the Sabbath. Other places will sell only beer and wine until midnight, then switch to hard liquor.

$100 PER PAIR

Nightclubs and restaurants, particularly in the large cities, report a brisk reservation business, even at prices close to $100 per couple. Many have been sold out for a week or longer.

Bargain-hunting would-be revelers can still celebrate and save their pocketbooks too, however.

In St. Louis, Mo., one place is charging only a $1 per person cover for which favors will be provided. New Haven, Conn., celebrants can pay $16.50 per couple for a buffet dinner and a show. And for $17.60 per couple, Pittsburgh residents can get dinner, see a stage play and dance. They also can drink, thanks to a special law passed by the state legislature.

At the other end of the scale are clubs in the big cities.

TIMES SQUARE

For those who are willing to brave the cold, there will be the traditional midnight lowering of a lighted ball from the Allied Chemical Co. Tower in Times Square. The city also has invited everyone to gather in Central Park for a gospel concert and post-midnight dancing under the stars.

Presidential Politics Seen In Legislature

By PAUL E. PETERZELL
(See editorial comment, pg. 12.)

A short legislative session for 1968 is forecast by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael — with a big "but" that it "may very well get bogged down in the undercurrents and overtones of presidential politics."

Bagley, in an interview with the Independent-Journal, ticked off two reasons that might make for a short session, perhaps ending by May. The session convenes Jan. 8.

First, this will be the first time the legislature will have a general session for a second year in a row. Until 1966, when voters approved a full-time legislature, generally brief budget sessions alternated with the longer general sessions. Now, every annual session is a general session.

The second reason, Bagley said, is that with only a few weeks off between the special reapportionment session and the regular session, there has been little time to prepare new legislation.

If Gov. Ronald Reagan should appear a likely presidential candidate, "there would be a hardening of the political arteries," said Bagley. That might prolong the session, he suggested.

Bagley said he had not had time to prepare legislation for the session, but outlined bills he expects to introduce and his stand on several issues:

TAX RELIEF — "No appreciable relief" for property taxpayers can be expected, and

Visiting Heart Expert Finds LBJ Is 'Very Fit'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— President Johnson returned to a busy New Year's weekend work schedule today after showing a famous South African heart transplant surgeon around the LBJ cattle ranch by car and helicopter.

It was purely a social call yesterday by Dr. Christian Barnard of Cape Town, but the surgeon's fitness report on the President was very favorable.

Johnson broke away from taxing problems for a few hours yesterday for a relaxing visit from Dr. Barnard and his wife.

The Cape Town surgeon, meeting newsmen later, said he was very impressed with the President and the plain but comfortable surroundings of his Texas ranch.

He said he thought Johnson looked "a little worried about things . . . a little tired."

"But as the day progressed, and we got among the deer and the cattle, I could see the real man there," Barnard added.

The 44-year-old doctor said Johnson had mentioned in passing that he had suffered a heart attack (in 1955) but is now "very fit."

"I must say he really appeared very fit when he got among the deer," said Barnard.

The heart specialist, who departs today for London en route home regaled reporters with his awed impressions of Johnson—"he has a very quick brain" and of the simplicity of the ranchhouse—"nothing flashy and nothing fancy."

Dr. Barnard said he had expected "diamonds and gold everywhere."

He was also impressed with Johnson's grasp of medical problems.

In the evening, the surgeon went to a Dixieland spot in San Antonio. The president went back to problems of state on the peaceful Pederanles River.

Sentences Meted Out In Mississippi Rights Killings

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—A federal judge decreed prison terms ranging to 10 years yesterday for seven white men convicted of conspiracy in the 1964 slayings of three civil rights workers. All seven were freed on bond pending appeal.

U.S. District Court Judge Harold Cox pronounced sentence to the seven men, the first whites ever convicted of a major civil rights crime in Mississippi. They were found guilty two months ago by an all-white jury in the alleged lynch-mob slayings of three young integrationists near Philadelphia, Miss., during the state's "long hot summer" of civil rights turbulence.

The stiffest penalties went to alleged Ku Klux Klan leader Samuel H. Bowers Jr., 42, of Laurel, and former Meridian nightclub bouncer Atlon Wayne Roberts. Each received 10 years, maximum prison term under the 1870 federal conspiracy law used to prosecute the case.

Six-year terms were handed to Neshoba County Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price and Billy Wayne Posey, 31, of Philadelphia.

The other three men convicted got three years each.

Cox also granted all but Bowers the right to file their appeals as paupers, putting the burden of court costs on the government. Bowers has filed a motion to appeal, but not as a pauper.

The seven were convicted Oct. 20 in the deaths of Michael Schwerner and Andrew Goodman, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, a Negro from Meridian.

Eight defendants were acquitted and mistrials were declared for three others because the jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

Convicted with Bowers, Roberts, Price, and Posey were Horace Doyle Barnette, 31, formerly of Meridian; Jimmy Arledge, 30, a Meridian steel worker; and Jimmy Snowden, 34, a Meridian laundry truck driver.

Court authorities said each defendant technically could become eligible for parole at any time after he began serving his sentence.

Schwerner, Goodman, and Chaney disappeared June 21, 1964, touching off the most intense FBI investigation in state history. Their bodies were found about two months later buried under a red clay dam in Neshoba County.

Pontiacs Recalled

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 500,000 Pontiacs manufactured between September 1964 and October 1965 are being recalled to check for a possible defect in the steering mechanism.

The Pontiac Division of General Motors said the steering idler arm assembly "in a few cases might separate and result in a pull to the right when brakes are applied."

Wallace Party Convention Seen For California

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Now that former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace has qualified for California's ballot, his American Independent Party is planning a state convention to work out plans for his presidential campaign in 1968.

William Shearer, California chairman of the party and the man heading Wallace's bid for a place on other state ballots, said yesterday "I think what you have seen . . . is the end of a political era and the beginning of a new one."

His comments came after the secretary of state's office reported Wallace has turned in more than enough certified voter registrations to qualify his party for the 1968 ballot.

With 66,056 registrants needed, said Assistant Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan, he has counted 79,001 from the state's 27 largest counties.

Wallace is expected to be officially certified for the ballot when the registrations close and are tallied in January.

Shearer said the party's California convention will take place next month. While it legally could appear on the June presidential primary ballot, thus pitting Wallace against President Johnson and a peace candidate in a popularity contest, the main effort will be toward the November election, Shearer said.

Wallace's main support in getting Californians to switch from their own parties to his conservative, segregation-oriented party came in the Los Angeles area from white, middle-class suburban communities, and in conservative Orange County.

Secretary of State Frank Jordan also said it appears the antiwar Peace and Freedom party won't succeed in its bid to get on the ballot.

Californian Denies Claim By Garrison

COMBINED AP & UPI

KERNVILLE (UPI) — Loran E. (Skip Hall, a bartender and former motel owner, denied flatly yesterday New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison's charge that he was "in a unique position to observe activities related to the assassination" of President John F. Kennedy.

Hall, 47, a former Cuban guerrilla fighter and gunrunner, was subpoenaed along with two others to testify in Garrison's wide-ranging investigation into the assassination. Garrison charged that Hall associated with Jack Ruby and David Ferrie and "engaged in CIA - sponsored guerrilla training conducted near New Orleans."

'ABSOLUTELY FALSE'

"The only thing I have to say is that these charges are absolutely false," said Hall, dressed in a sweater and slacks in the living room of his small home in Kern County.

Hall said he wants to go to New Orleans to testify.

"I'm going to make them extradite me, but I'm going to go because I think it's time the American people found out the whole truth about the Kennedy assassination."

Hall said he is a staunch anti-Communist. He said he had belonged to Fidel Castro's July 26th Movement in Cuba in 1958 and early 1959, but joined an anti-Castro organization called "La Sambra" in 1959 after discovering that Castro was a Communist.

On the date President Kennedy was assassinated, Hall said, he was at home in Monterey Park (Los Angeles County) where he then lived. He and his wife moved to Kernville in 1964.

Hall said he thought Garrison's investigation was "on the right track" but said he had "mixed emotions" about being subpoenaed.

'A DAMN SHAME'

"What I'd like to say is that it's a damn shame that a man like Garrison has to do the work that the government should have done in the first place. It's a shame that a man with axes to grind and a name to make for himself should do what an impartial board should be doing."

The others subpoenaed were identified as Lawrence J. Howard Jr., 32, of Elmonte, Calif., near Los Angeles; and Thomas Beckham, 27, of Omaha, Neb. They were directed to appear before the Orleans Parish grand jury on Feb. 1 and 2.

Garrison said the three, wanted as material witnesses in his investigation, had not been questioned by the Warren Commission which said Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in shooting the president.

Howard, a welder and fitter, was reported by his wife to be somewhere in Mexico and unavailable for comment.

Beckham, who lists himself as a bishop of the Universal Life Church and entertains with Western music under the name of Mark Adams, said he would not return to New Orleans.

"If I did, I would destroy myself," he said in Omaha. "If Garrison is sincere he can come up here and question me."

Beckham said he worked as an investigator for Garrison for about three months in late 1962.

The subpoenas said Hall and Howard were in Dallas in October 1963, one month before the assassination, and were in contact "with Jack Ruby and other individuals believed to be involved in the assassination and that they were in association with Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas."

Beckham was reported to have been "in active association with certain Cuban exiles in New Orleans in whose company Oswald was seen" and "that he subsequently was reported to be in Dallas in November of 1963 with one of the afore-mentioned Cuban exiles."

Pentagon Quizzed On Garrison

WASHINGTON (AP)— Physical disability has been cited by the Defense Department as the reason for New Orleans Dist. Atty. James C. Garrison's discharge from the Army in 1951.

The Pentagon said Friday it has been bombarded by newsmen for information about the military background of Garrison, the flamboyant prosecutor who says the Warren Commission erred in its conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, was the assassin of President John F. Kennedy four years ago.

An inquiry is being made to determine if conifdential material from Garrison's service files has been released without authorization, the Pentagon said.

The Defense Department refused to elaborate on the sort of physical disability that caused Garrison to leave the service in 1951, only three months after he had been recalled to active duty. He had served five years during World War II.

Wall Street Has Last-Day Rush; Nearly A Record

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange wound up 1967 with the second biggest trading day in its history.

Volume spurted to 14.95 million shares yesterday. This was topped only by the 16.41 million shares traded Oct. 29, 1929, the day of the historic market crash.

At the peak of the selling surge the New York exchange's ticker tape lagged by 17 minutes in reporting floor transactions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials advanced 7.28 points to 905.11, topping 900 for the first time since last Oct. 29.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 2.2 points to 322.3.

The advance capped a week-long traditional yearend rally.

A record number of issues were traded on the New York exchange for the third straight day. Of 1,546 issues traded, 822 advanced and 532 declined.

Brokers said the advance could be attributed in part to favorable business news and encouraging economic forecasts.

The automobile industry scheduled record production for July, and some big companies announced major capital spending plans, Secretary of Commerce Alexander Trowbridge predicted a gain of at least $50 billion in the gross national product in 1968.

Sam Houston, hero of Texas independence, was governor of Tennessee at one time.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

CIA Pipeline Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The postwar era of secret financing of private organizations by the Central Intelligence Agency ends officially at midnight tomorrow. What will follow is still a problem for the new year.

The State Department announced yesterday that, in line with the recommendation of a special panel named by the President, covert CIA funding of overseas activities of some private educational and voluntary groups "will in every instance be discontinued prior to Dec. 31, 1967."

"At the time of termination of support," the State Department announcement added, "some of the organizations received contributions to tide them over the period required to develop new sources of funds."

Medicare Hike Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of a nationwide citizens group says increasing the premium for the voluntary part of Medicare means the nation's elderly are "having to pay for the failure of Congress to prevent the escalation of doctors' fees."

"It's disgraceful," said William R. Hutton, executive director of the National Council of Senior Citizens, which claims to be the largest organization of the elderly in the country with 2 million members in 2,000 affiliated clubs.

The increase from $3 to $4 a month, announced yesterday and effective April 1, applies to the part of Medicare which pays doctor costs. It was expected. The government contributes an equal monthly amount.

Comment from the American Medical Association on the new rates was not immediately available.

Critics of Medicare say it has a built-in tendency toward higher costs because doctors are free to charge "reasonble and customary" rates.

Smoking Rise Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Affluence and military demands, factors that helped produce record cigarette consumption by Americans in 1967, are likely to bring an even higher figure in 1968, the Agriculture Department says.

Americans, including troops overseas, have puffed their way through 552 billion cigarettes this year, the department said yesterday.

Gary Vote Probe Jails Woman

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — A Democratic committeewoman who confessed she altered voting lists in an effort to prevent Democrat Richard Hatcher from becoming the first Negro mayor of this steel city was indicted yesterday for vote fraud.

Mrs Tokarski

Hatcher, bucking the Democratic machine, won a narrow victory. His law partner provided the $15,000 to free on bail Mrs. Marian Tokarski, 35, the wife of a filling station operator and the mother of three.

A second person was indicted, but no name was disclosed pending an arrest.

Mrs. Tokarski, had described at a federal court hearing how she and other added fictitious names to the voter rolls and names of persons she knew had either died or moved.

Hatcher, 34, commended Mrs. Tokarski for showing "extraordinary courage" in admitting her part in the alleged scheme.

U.S. May Give Mideast Jets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is still hesitant to become a major arms supplier in the Middle East, but it has decided to furnish Israel jet fighter-bombers and other modern equipment if it is unable to get them elsewhere.

Officials also indicated yesterday the United States has resolved to supply Jordan with some planes rather than let it acquire them from the Soviet Union.

In neither case, however, is a final decision likely to be announced in the immediate future, nor will any U.S.-made jets fly in the Mideast until the pilots get two years' training.

Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol is scheduled to confer with President Johnson in Texas Jan. 7-8. The request for U.S. planes and other arms is though to be high on the list of subjects Eshkol wants to discuss.

Israel has pressed its request for U.S. arms by pointing out that during the last six months the Egyptian and Syrian forces have been almost totally re-equipped by the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials maintain that while it may be true the arms level in the two countries is up to 70 or 80 per cent of the prewar level, Egypt and Syria are still far from able to renew hostilities on a major scale.

Mansion Site Set

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The group of private citizens intending to build a new home for California governors has paid $130,000 for a site in the Carmichael Colony area of northwest Sacramento.

This was revealed yesterday in a grant deed filed with the county recorder. The property on the American River was sold by the Charles W. Deterding family to Citizens for a Residence for California Governors, Inc.

Party Nears Goal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sherman Pearl, a spokesman for the Peace and Freedom Party, announced early today that the party needs just 13,000 more registrations to qualify for the California presidential primary ballot next June.

Pearl said a county-by-county tabulation showed the party had 53,375 registrants. It needs just over 66,000 to qualify for the ballot.

However, the signatures must be obtained by the Jan. 2, 1968 deadline in order to be valid.

Both Klansmen, Black Muslims Among Chicago's Police Force?

CHICAGO (UPI) — In the wake of disclosures that six city policemen belong to the Ku Klux Klan, police authorities today pressed an investigation into reports that some members of the force are Black Muslims.

It was disclosed yesterday that patrolman Donald Heath, 30, named by police investigators as ringleader of six police members of the KKK cell, also is head of Illinois' estimated 20,000 klansman.

Estimate was made by James R. Venable, Atlanta head of the National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc. He also said 50 policemen belonged to the local cell, but officials said his estimate was exaggerated to enhance the Klan's image.

Heath and three other policemen were named as members of the local cell after police raided Heath's home and found an arsenal, a plastic cross, KKK garb and hate literature.

Heath was suspended pending Police Review Board action and possible criminal charges that may be brought because of the weapons cache.

After the KKK involvement was disclosed, police and news media received tips that some policemen belong to the Black Muslims, as much an antiwhite organization as the KKK is anti-Negro.

Sgt. Einar Johnson of the police department's Internal Investigation Division, said his unit is checking out suspected members of the Chicago-based Black Muslims, but said the division had no firsthand knowledge of police membership in the black supremacy group.

Police said they would continue their investigation into possible police membership in any hate group.

"These kind of people don't belong on the police department and we will do our best to get rid of them," said Deputy Supt. John Mulchrone.

Mayor Richard J. Daley also warned yesterday that any city employees who are members of hate groups or violence-oriented organizations would be dismissed.

Venable described Heath as having been Grand Dragon of the Illinois organization for about 18 months. He said Heath's duties included holding Klavern trials and other meetings and said he was a good friend of Heath's.

RANCH INTERLUDE — President Lyndon B. Johnson, holding his grandson, Patrick Lyndon Nugent, chats with heart transplant surgeon Dr. Christian Barnard. The South African pioneer surgeon visited the Texas White House for several hours yesterday. (AP Wirephoto)

Visiting Heart Expert Finds LBJ Is 'Very Fit'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— President Johnson returned to a busy New Year's weekend work schedule today after showing a famous South African heart transplant surgeon around the LBJ cattle ranch by car and helicopter.

It was purely a social call yesterday by Dr. Christian Barnard of Cape Town, but the surgeon's fitness report on the President was very favorable.

Johnson broke away from taxing problems for a few hours yesterday for a relaxing visit from Dr. Barnard and his wife.

The Cape Town surgeon, meeting newsmen later, said he was very impressed with the President and the plain but comfortable surroundings of his Texas ranch.

He said he thought Johnson looked "a little worried about things . . . a little tired."

"But as the day progressed, and we got among the deer and the cattle, I could see the real man there," Barnard added.

The 44-year-old doctor said Johnson had mentioned in passing that he had suffered a heart attack (in 1955) but is now "very fit."

"I must say he really appeared very fit when he got among the deer," said Barnard.

The heart specialist, who departs today for London en route home regaled reporters with his awed impressions of Johnson—"he has a very quick brain" and of the simplicity of the ranchhouse—"nothing flashy and nothing fancy."

Dr. Barnard said he had expected "diamonds and gold everywhere."

He was also impressed with Johnson's grasp of medical problems.

In the evening, the surgeon went to a Dixieland spot in San Antonio. The president went back to problems of state on the peaceful Pederanles River.

Sentences Meted Out In Mississippi Rights Killings

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—A federal judge decreed prison terms ranging to 10 years yesterday for seven white men convicted of conspiracy in the 1964 slayings of three civil rights workers. All seven were freed on bond pending appeal.

U.S. District Court Judge Harold Cox pronounced sentence to the seven men, the first whites ever convicted of a major civil rights crime in Mississippi. They were found guilty two months ago by an all-white jury in the alleged lynch-mob slayings of three young integrationists near Philadelphia, Miss., during the state's "long hot summer" of civil rights turbulence.

The stiffest penalties went to alleged Ku Klux Klan leader Samuel H. Bowers Jr., 42, of Laurel, and former Meridian nightclub bouncer Atlon Wayne Roberts. Each received 10 years, maximum prison term under the 1870 federal conspiracy law used to prosecute the case.

Six-year terms were handed to Neshoba County Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price and Billy Wayne Posey, 31, of Philadelphia.

The other three men convicted got three years each.

Cox also granted all but Bowers the right to file their appeals as paupers, putting the burden of court costs on the government. Bowers has filed a motion to appeal, but not as a pauper.

The seven were convicted Oct. 20 in the deaths of Michael Schwerner and Andrew Goodman, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, a Negro from Meridian.

Eight defendants were acquitted and mistrials were declared for three others because the jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

Convicted with Bowers, Roberts, Price, and Posey were Horace Doyle Barnette, 31, formerly of Meridian; Jimmy Arledge, 30, a Meridian steel worker; and Jimmy Snowden, 34, a Meridian laundry truck driver.

Court authorities said each defendant technically could become eligible for parole at any time after he began serving his sentence.

Schwerner, Goodman, and Chaney disappeared June 21, 1964, touching off the most intense FBI investigation in state history. Their bodies were found about two months later buried under a red clay dam in Neshoba County.

Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol is scheduled to confer with President Johnson in Texas Jan. 7-8. The request for U.S. planes and other arms is though to be high on the list of subjects Eshkol wants to discuss.

Israel has pressed its request for U.S. arms by pointing out that during the last six months the Egyptian and Syrian forces have been almost totally re-equipped by the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials maintain that while it may be true the arms level in the two countries is up to 70 or 80 per cent of the prewar level, Egypt and Syria are still far from able to renew hostilities on a major scale.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The group of private citizens intending to build a new home for California governors has paid $130,000 for a site in the Carmichael Colony area of northwest Sacramento.

Party Nears Goal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sherman Pearl, a spokesman for the Peace and Freedom Party, announced early today that the party needs just 13,000 more registrations to qualify for the California presidential primary ballot next June.

Pearl said a county-by-county tabulation showed the party had 53,375 registrants. It needs just over 66,000 to qualify for the ballot.

However, the signatures must be obtained by the Jan. 2, 1968 deadline in order to be valid.

Both Klansmen, Black Muslims Among Chicago's Police Force?

CHICAGO (UPI) — In the wake of disclosures that six city policemen belong to the Ku Klux Klan, police authorities today pressed an investigation into reports that some members of the force are Black Muslims.

It was disclosed yesterday that patrolman Donald Heath, 30, named by police investigators as ringleader of six police members of the KKK cell, also is head of Illinois' estimated 20,000 klansman.

Estimate was made by James R. Venable, Atlanta head of the National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc. He also said 50 policemen belonged to the local cell, but officials said his estimate was exaggerated to enhance the Klan's image.

Heath and three other policemen were named as members of the local cell after police raided Heath's home and found an arsenal, a plastic cross, KKK garb and hate literature.

Heath was suspended pending Police Review Board action and possible criminal charges that may be brought because of the weapons cache.

After the KKK involvement was disclosed, police and news media received tips that some policemen belong to the Black Muslims, as much an antiwhite organization as the KKK is anti-Negro.

DONALD HEATH
Policeman-klansman

Sgt. Einar Johnson of the police department's Internal Investigation Division, said his unit is checking out suspected members of the Chicago-based Black Muslims, but said the division had no firsthand knowledge of police membership in the black supremacy group.

Police said they would continue their investigation into possible police membership in any hate group.

"These kind of people don't belong on the police department and we will do our best to get rid of them," said Deputy Supt. John Mulchrone.

Mayor Richard J. Daley also warned yesterday that any city employees who are members of hate groups or violence-oriented organizations would be dismissed.

Venable described Heath as having been Grand Dragon of the Illinois organization for about 18 months. He said Heath's duties included holding Klavern trials and other meetings and said he was a good friend of Heath's.

and whether South Vietnam's allies should pursue the enemy there.

The weekly, printing large extracts of Sihanouk's statement, said Cambodia would resist with all available means if American forces launched large-scale military operations in areas inhabited by Cambodian villagers.

Government sources reiterated Sihanouk's statement that there were no large Communist forces in Cambodian territory.

In Saigon Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander for the Vietnam war, said today the concept of "hot pursuit" into Cambodia was "quite a little ways off militarily."

"It doesn't seem to me to be a very realistic military proposal," Abrams said in an exclusive interview with UPI on the question of pursuing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops seeking sanctuary in neutral Cambodia.

Abrams is second in command to Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

Outlining current policy, Abrams said commanders of American units operating near the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border may take "necessary steps" to protect their men. He said these measures include firing across the frontier into Cambodia if U.S. troops are fired upon from Cambodian territory.

Dye Prankster To Lose Green

A 17-year-old youth, who tossed green dye into the fountain pool at Northgate Shopping Center near Lin Fa Restaurant, will have to pay $50 to $100 to have the pool cleaned.

Clay Harrold, manager of shopping center area 1, told police he would send the bill to the youth, who lives in Mill Valley.

Police said the boy bought a packet of fluorescent green dye used in life vests and tossed it into the pool about noon yesterday.

Symphony Dispute Drags Into 1968

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco will ring in the new year without the pleasant strains of its striking symphony orchestra.

The San Francisco Symphony Association yesterday canceled the fifth week of its scheduled 1967-68 season due to the contract dispute.

The orchestra's annual New Year's Eve gala was canceled earlier.

On the way back from the false alarm, the firemen saw a grass fire at 129 Montego Key. Someone had set a bale of hay on fire and it burned a small grassy area.

Then at 4:45 a.m., the Brown family awakened to find that their newly purchased boat, docked in the canal at their home, was in flames.

Brown estimated his loss at $3,500.

"It was pretty definitely set by a match," he said.

Deputy Sheriff Perry Rotbergs said inspectors, going on the theory that the fires were set by the same person who has been phoning false alarms, were talking to residents on Montego Key today.

Rotbergs said five false alarms have been phoned to the Novato Fire Department during the past month, giving addresses on Montego Key.

12-Year-Old Boy Nabbed Stealing Holiday Dinner

A 12-year-old runaway boy from Marinwood was nabbed yesterday carrying a two-pound package of bacon and four sirloin steaks out of the Safeway Store in San Rafael without paying for them.

Sgt. Louis Foster of San Rafael police booked the boy at Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of shoplifting, running away from home, and carrying a knife in his high leather moccasin boot.

Samuel H. Miller, manager of the store told Officer Roy Hendrickson he saw the boy walk out with the bacon, steaks and four oranges, worth $9.53.

The boy told officers he had left home on Dec. 20 and had not been home for Christmas. The boy's mother, however, denied the boy had been gone that long. She said she had not reported her son missing.

Commuter Tax Draws Threat

SAN MATEO (AP) — San Mateo Mayor John J. Murray launched a full scale attack yesterday on any potential commuter income tax planned by San Francisco.

He called for immediate retaliation if such a tax is imposed, saying there should be a "re-evaluation of the property interests of the city and county of San Francisco" within San Mateo County.

San Francisco's airport and a part of its water system are in San Mateo County. San Francisco Mayor-elect John Alioto has proposed a commuter tax to alleviate property taxes.

Thieves Steal $800 In Tools

Almost $800 worth of tools and parts was stolen from DeLong Chevrolet at 550 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, Thursday night or early yesterday.

San Rafael police said the thieves did a methodical job of jacking up a new 1968 vehicle to steal the wheels and tires, replacing them with spare tires from other cars parked in the parking area.

A car parked in the rear yard area was looted of $550 worth of equipment, including miscellaneous hand tools in a tool box, and golf equipment. The car is owned by William B. Freeman of Oakland.

Humphrey Welcomed To Africa

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — Welcomed to the Ivory Coast today by the thump of bongo drums and barefoot girls dancing under a tropical sky, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey launched his 12-day tour of nine African nations.

Several groups of 50 to 100 well-wishers broke from the crowd of a thousand, pressed past airport security barriers and jostled around Humphrey, trying to shake his hand. He reacted in good humor.

Principally, Humphrey has come to represent President Johnson at the inauguration of President William Tubman of Liberia Monday and Tuesday. Tubman was re-elected last May for his sixth consecutive term.

Humphrey and his wife, along with Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall and a score of other U.S. officials, are to join prominent guests from all parts of the world at the New Year's Day ceremonies for Tubman in Monrovia. The capital of Africa's oldest republic, Monrovia was settled by slaves freed in the United States after the Civil War.

The African swing will also take Humphrey to Ghana, the Congo, Zambia, Ethiopia, Somali, Kenya and Tunisia.

The zig-zag itinerary avoids all the "revolutionary" African republics that lean more toward Russia or Communist China than toward the United States.

However, it also excludes some traditional American friends: Nigeria, in the throes of a civil war; Morocco, preparing for an Arab summit conference to devise a policy against Israel, and Libya, which would possibly offend its Egyptian neighbors by receiving Humphrey now.

In the downstairs storeroom, the inspector found the body of the boy, wrapped in blankets and with two stab wounds in the back.

In Mrs. Goodson's bedroom, related Police Chief Chiesa, officers found a blood-stained 12-inch kitchen knife and bloody clothing, lying on the floor.

Two other children, Germaine, 10, and Joan, 6, were also at home, but whether they knew of the killing, police did not at once disclose. The fifth child, Isabel, 9, was away on a visit with friends.

Mrs. Goodson is separated from her husband, Richard, who is living in Oakland, police reported.

Bridge Board Rehires Lobbyist For $16,000

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday voted 9-2 to again hire a Sacramento lobbyist for $16,000 a year.

The 67-year-old lobbyist, former Assembly speaker Gordon Garland, has represented the district in Sacramento since 1961.

Excluding the $16,000 payment voted yesterday, the district has paid Garland $68,000 since it first hired him, reported district auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren.

Voting against the hiring were San Francisco directors Stephan C. Leonoudakis and John E. Dearman.

"I can't see any problem of the district Garland's eradicated or taken care of since he was hired," said Leonoudakis.

The $16,000 fee includes all expenses and provides for Garland's services for the 1968 legislative session, regardless of its length, said director Lowell Edington of Napa.

Both Leonoudakis and Dearman are partners of two San Francisco assemblymen John F. Foran and Willie L. Brown Jr., respectively.

Garland served in the California Assembly from 1936 to 1943, when then Gov. Earl Warren appointed him director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles. He lobbies for several other clients.

Directors also gave Garland his first assignment — a request that the legislature pass emergency legislation to broaden the powers of the bridge district so that "all forms" of mass transportation can be studied, and perhaps operated, by the district.

The legislature also was asked to allow the district to use electronic data processiong of its payroll.

Directors Ben K. Lerer and Dan E. London of San Francisco and Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County were absent.

Police Seek Three In Row At Apartment

San Rafael police today were seeking three young men who took a swing at an apartment manager and bounced their cars off two parked cars before driving away about midnight last night.

Thomas Clyde Alger, manager of apartments at 162 Belvedere Street, told Patrolman James Craddock he heard a loud rapping of exhaust pipes and a loud automobile radio. He asked the three men in the car to keep the noise down and got a four-letter word reply.

Alger said he told them not to use such language, whereupon one man hit him on the arm, another hit him on the head with a flashlight, and the third began picking up rocks.

Alger decided to retreat. The trio got into their car and raced off, hitting two cars in the process, Alger reported.

of the many traditional fireworks displays on Waikiki Beach. Indoors, they can celebrate at places like the $30-per-person Hilton Hawaiian Village which has upped its price by $5 per person.

In-between the bargains and the top prices are numerous celebrations at rates averaging $20 to $30 per couple. A motel in Seattle, Wash., is offering a holiday party and two nights lodging for $55 a couple.

This will be the first Sunday New Year's Eve when Washington residents can drink. The State Liquor Control Board last August approved the sale of liquor from 2 to 10 p.m. on Sundays and from 2 p.m. to 3 a.m. when New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday.

Residents of Iowa weren't so lucky. Authorities promise they will enforce the state law which prohibits the sale of liquor between 1 a.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday. Among other states which will be legally dry New Year's Eve are Delaware, Ohio, Maine, Alabama and Arkansas.

Some New Mexico night club owners have found their own solution to the no-liquor laws. They plan celebrations 24 hours early.

"We'll have a big New Year's Eve party," says one Albuquerque club owner, "only it'll be Saturday."

An early celebration also is planned in Miami where the traditional New Year's Eve festivities usually are highlighted by the Orange Bowl parade.

A city ordinance prohibits parades on Sundays so the celebration will be pushed up to Saturday night.

Marriage Permit Cost Up Tuesday

Like everything else, the cost of marriage is going up beginning Tuesday.

From the new year, it will cost $6 to get a marriage license from the county clerk instead of $5.

The raise was authorized by the legislature and approved by the governor last August.

city and county governments will try to "raid" the $155 million being set aside this fiscal year by the legislature to encourage school districts to lower their tax rates.

BRIDGE DISTRICT — A "Bay Area-administered toll bridge authority" to forestall a "raid" on the assets of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District by the Southern California-dominated legislature is a possibility.

MEDI-CAL — The state will "run out of money" unless costs are cut, Bagley warned.

MARIJUANA — Legislation to allow judges discretion to impose misdemeanor penalties for second conviction of possession of marijuana is among 20 "must" bills, said Bagley.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS — Bagley promised to "do my all" to keep the $4 million appropriation in Marin to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park if negotiations to buy the Brazil and Souza ranches fall through.

NORTH BAY CAMPUS — An appropriation of $130,000 to $150,000 will be sought for University of California's initial plans for a new campus, probably in southern Sonoma County near Marin.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES — Bagley plans to introduce a bill to put teeth into the law barring strikes by public employees.

'POLITICAL INCEST' — He seeks a bill either to require a special election or bar an appointee from running for his seat when a governmental body fills a vacancy on its governing board. Bagley termed the present practice by many bodies of early resignations so appointees can run as incumbents "political incest."

COURT COSTS — Another bill would put the administration and funding of all courts on a statewide basis to relieve county budgets.

TRAFFIC COURTS — A system to handle traffic infractions "on a quasi-judicial basis" to clear courts clogged with traffic offenders may be created.

JUDGES — Bagley may support the administration's bill to take "some of the politics" out of appointment of judges by setting up a selection commission of attorneys and members of the public.

PUBLIC RECORDS — The Marin-Sonoma legislator will introduce or support a bill to improve public access to public records.

REGENTS' MEETINGS — A constitutional amendment to require meetings of the University of California Board of Regents be open to the public may be proposed.

TAX APPRAISERS — A second try will be given a bill putting appointment of inheritance tax appraisers on a "civil service basis."

APPEALS BOARD — Legislation will be sought to eliminate the appeals board of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission as an "unnecessary step" in the appeals procedure to penalties for violations.

terior for use by his cosmetics firm.

Heifetz withdrew the offer after the City of San Rafael asked for delay until it could zone the square. The zoning later adopted would not permit commercial use of the courthouse structure.

After the city zoned the square, the county put the property up for bid last June. But no bid was received.

The new offer would fall only $26,775 below the net amount the county would have received under terms of Heifetz's offer, being a cash transaction, Bruce said.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, on receiving Bruce's letter, commented: "If the offer is a firm one, I for one would say accept it."

"I can't see any problem of the district Garland's eradicated or taken care of since he was hired," said Leonoudakis.

The $16,000 fee includes all expenses and provides for Garland's services for the 1968 legislative session, regardless of its length, said director Lowell Edington of Napa.

Both Leonoudakis and Dearman are partners of two San Francisco assemblymen John F. Foran and Willie L. Brown Jr., respectively.

Garland served in the California Assembly from 1936 to 1943, when then Gov. Earl Warren appointed him director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles. He lobbies for several other clients.

Directors also gave Garland his first assignment — a request that the legislature pass emergency legislation to broaden the powers of the bridge district so that "all forms" of mass transportation can be studied, and perhaps operated, by the district.

The legislature also was asked to allow the district to use electronic data processiong of its payroll.

Directors Ben K. Lerer and Dan E. London of San Francisco and Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County were absent.

city and county governments will try to "raid" the $155 million being set aside this fiscal year by the legislature to encourage school districts to lower their tax rates.

BRIDGE DISTRICT — A "Bay Area-administered toll bridge authority" to forestall a "raid" on the assets of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District by the Southern California-dominated legislature is a possibility.

MEDI-CAL — The state will "run out of money" unless costs are cut, Bagley warned.

MARIJUANA — Legislation to allow judges discretion to impose misdemeanor penalties for second conviction of possession of marijuana is among 20 "must" bills, said Bagley.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS — Bagley promised to "do my all" to keep the $4 million appropriation in Marin to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park if negotiations to buy the Brazil and Souza ranches fall through.

NORTH BAY CAMPUS — An appropriation of $130,000 to $150,000 will be sought for University of California's initial plans for a new campus, probably in southern Sonoma County near Marin.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES — Bagley plans to introduce a bill to put teeth into the law barring strikes by public employees.

'POLITICAL INCEST' — He seeks a bill either to require a special election or bar an appointee from running for his seat when a governmental body fills a vacancy on its governing board. Bagley termed the present practice by many bodies of early resignations so appointees can run as incumbents "political incest."

COURT COSTS — Another bill would put the administration and funding of all courts on a statewide basis to relieve county budgets.

TRAFFIC COURTS — A system to handle traffic infractions "on a quasi-judicial basis" to clear courts clogged with traffic offenders may be created.

JUDGES — Bagley may support the administration's bill to take "some of the politics" out of appointment of judges by setting up a selection commission of attorneys and members of the public.

PUBLIC RECORDS — The Marin-Sonoma legislator will introduce or support a bill to improve public access to public records.

REGENTS' MEETINGS — A constitutional amendment to require meetings of the University of California Board of Regents be open to the public may be proposed.

TAX APPRAISERS — A second try will be given a bill putting appointment of inheritance tax appraisers on a "civil service basis."

APPEALS BOARD — Legislation will be sought to eliminate the appeals board of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission as an "unnecessary step" in the appeals procedure to penalties for violations.

and whether South Vietnam's allies should pursue the enemy there.

The weekly, printing large extracts of Sihanouk's statement, said Cambodia would resist with all available means if American forces launched large-scale military operations in areas inhabited by Cambodian villagers.

Government sources reiterated Sihanouk's statement that there were no large Communist forces in Cambodian territory.

In Saigon Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander for the Vietnam war, said today the concept of "hot pursuit" into Cambodia was "quite a little ways off militarily."

"It doesn't seem to me to be a very realistic military proposal," Abrams said in an exclusive interview with UPI on the question of pursuing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops seeking sanctuary in neutral Cambodia.

Abrams is second in command to Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

Outlining current policy, Abrams said commanders of American units operating near the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border may take "necessary steps" to protect their men. He said these measures include firing across the frontier into Cambodia if U.S. troops are fired upon from Cambodian territory.

Dye Prankster To Lose Green

A 17-year-old youth, who tossed green dye into the fountain pool at Northgate Shopping Center near Lin Fa Restaurant, will have to pay $50 to $100 to have the pool cleaned.

Clay Harrold, manager of shopping center area 1, told police he would send the bill to the youth, who lives in Mill Valley.

Police said the boy bought a packet of fluorescent green dye used in life vests and tossed it into the pool about noon yesterday.

Symphony Dispute Drags Into 1968

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco will ring in the new year without the pleasant strains of its striking symphony orchestra.

The orchestra's annual New Year's Eve gala was canceled earlier.

FIRES

found no such house number.

On the way back from the false alarm, the firemen saw a grass fire at 129 Montego Key. Someone had set a bale of hay on fire and it burned a small grassy area.

Then at 4:45 a.m., the Brown family awakened to find that their newly purchased boat, docked in the canal at their home, was in flames.

Brown estimated his loss at $3,500.

"It was pretty definitely set by a match," he said.

Deputy Sheriff Perry Rotbergs said inspectors, going on the theory that the fires were set by the same person who has been phoning false alarms, were talking to residents on Montego Key today.

Rotbergs said five false alarms have been phoned to the Novato Fire Department during the past month, giving addresses on Montego Key.

12-Year-Old Boy Nabbed Stealing Holiday Dinner

A 12-year-old runaway boy from Marinwood was nabbed yesterday carrying a two-pound package of bacon and four sirloin steaks out of the Safeway Store in San Rafael without paying for them.

Sgt. Louis Foster of San Rafael police booked the boy at Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of shoplifting, running away from home, and carrying a knife in his high leather moccasin boot.

Samuel H. Miller, manager of the store told Officer Roy Hendrickson he saw the boy walk out with the bacon, steaks and four oranges, worth $9.53.

The boy told officers he had left home on Dec. 20 and had not been home for Christmas. The boy's mother, however, denied the boy had been gone that long. She said she had not reported her son missing.

Commuter Tax Draws Threat

SAN MATEO (AP) — San Mateo Mayor John J. Murray launched a full scale attack yesterday on any potential commuter income tax planned by San Francisco.

He called for immediate retaliation if such a tax is imposed, saying there should be a "re-evaluation of the property interests of the city and county of San Francisco" within San Mateo County.

San Francisco's airport and a part of its water system are in San Mateo County. San Francisco Mayor-elect John Alioto has proposed a commuter tax to alleviate property taxes.

Thieves Steal $800 In Tools

Almost $800 worth of tools and parts was stolen from DeLong Chevrolet at 550 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, Thursday night or early yesterday.

San Rafael police said the thieves did a methodical job of jacking up a new 1968 vehicle to steal the wheels and tires, replacing them with spare tires from other cars parked in the parking area.

A car parked in the rear yard area was looted of $550 worth of equipment, including miscellaneous hand tools in a tool box, and golf equipment. The car is owned by William B. Freeman of Oakland.

Humphrey Welcomed To Africa

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — Welcomed to the Ivory Coast today by the thump of bongo drums and barefoot girls dancing under a tropical sky, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey launched his 12-day tour of nine African nations.

Several groups of 50 to 100 well-wishers broke from the crowd of a thousand, pressed past airport security barriers and jostled around Humphrey, trying to shake his hand. He reacted in good humor.

Principally, Humphrey has come to represent President Johnson at the inauguration of President William Tubman of Liberia Monday and Tuesday. Tubman was re-elected last May for his sixth consecutive term.

Humphrey and his wife, along with Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall and a score of other U.S. officials, are to join prominent guests from all parts of the world at the New Year's Day ceremonies for Tubman in Monrovia. The capital of Africa's oldest republic, Monrovia was settled by slaves freed in the United States after the Civil War.

The African swing will also take Humphrey to Ghana, the Congo, Zambia, Ethiopia, Somali, Kenya and Tunisia.

The zig-zag itinerary avoids all the "revolutionary" African republics that lean more toward Russia or Communist China than toward the United States.

However, it also excludes some traditional American friends: Nigeria, in the throes of a civil war; Morocco, preparing for an Arab summit conference to devise a policy against Israel, and Libya, which would possibly offend its Egyptian neighbors by receiving Humphrey now.

In the downstairs storeroom, the inspector found the body of the boy, wrapped in blankets and with two stab wounds in the back.

In Mrs. Goodson's bedroom, related Police Chief Chiesa, officers found a blood-stained 12-inch kitchen knife and bloody clothing, lying on the floor.

Two other children, Germaine, 10, and Joan, 6, were also at home, but whether they knew of the killing, police did not at once disclose. The fifth child, Isabel, 9, was away on a visit with friends.

Mrs. Goodson is separated from her husband, Richard, who is living in Oakland, police reported.

Police Seek Three In Row At Apartment

San Rafael police today were seeking three young men who took a swing at an apartment manager and bounced their cars off two parked cars before driving away about midnight last night.

Thomas Clyde Alger, manager of apartments at 162 Belvedere Street, told Patrolman James Craddock he heard a loud rapping of exhaust pipes and a loud automobile radio. He asked the three men in the car to keep the noise down and got a four-letter word reply.

Alger said he told them not to use such language, whereupon one man hit him on the arm, another hit him on the head with a flashlight, and the third began picking up rocks.

Alger decided to retreat. The trio got into their car and raced off, hitting two cars in the process, Alger reported.

of the many traditional fireworks displays on Waikiki Beach. Indoors, they can celebrate at places like the $30-per-person Hilton Hawaiian Village which has upped its price by $5 per person.

In-between the bargains and the top prices are numerous celebrations at rates averaging $20 to $30 per couple. A motel in Seattle, Wash., is offering a holiday party and two nights lodging for $55 a couple.

This will be the first Sunday New Year's Eve when Washington residents can drink. The State Liquor Control Board last August approved the sale of liquor from 2 to 10 p.m. on Sundays and from 2 p.m. to 3 a.m. when New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday.

Residents of Iowa weren't so lucky. Authorities promise they will enforce the state law which prohibits the sale of liquor between 1 a.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday. Among other states which will be legally dry New Year's Eve are Delaware, Ohio, Maine, Alabama and Arkansas.

Some New Mexico night club owners have found their own solution to the no-liquor laws. They plan celebrations 24 hours early.

"We'll have a big New Year's Eve party," says one Albuquerque club owner, "only it'll be Saturday."

An early celebration also is planned in Miami where the traditional New Year's Eve festivities usually are highlighted by the Orange Bowl parade.

A city ordinance prohibits parades on Sundays so the celebration will be pushed up to Saturday night.

Marriage Permit Cost Up Tuesday

Like everything else, the cost of marriage is going up beginning Tuesday.

From the new year, it will cost $6 to get a marriage license from the county clerk instead of $5.

The raise was authorized by the legislature and approved by the governor last August.

terior for use by his cosmetics firm.

Heifetz withdrew the offer after the City of San Rafael asked for delay until it could zone the square. The zoning later adopted would not permit commercial use of the courthouse structure.

After the city zoned the square, the county put the property up for bid last June. But no bid was received.

The new offer would fall only $26,775 below the net amount the county would have received under terms of Heifetz's offer, being a cash transaction, Bruce said.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, on receiving Bruce's letter, commented: "If the offer is a firm one, I for one would say accept it."

Dorais Retires; To Be Consultant

James J. Dorais of Greenbrae, a senior partner in Whitaker and Baxter, San Francisco public relations and campaign management firm, will retire Monday. He will serve as a special consultant to the firm, said Clem Whitaker Jr., president.

Dorais, a 20-year resident of Marin, is a former Lagunitas School District trustee and a former president of the Marin County School Trustees Association.

Whitaker also said that Michell N. Abramson Jr., formerly of Tiburon, and Robert M. Smalley have been elected vice presidents of the firm.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The More The Times Change, The More They Stay The Same

DEAR HELEN:

Do times really change so much? My daughter brings me dating problems that are identical to those I suffered through 25 years ago, and that her grandmother faced over 40 years back. We had wolves back then, too. Also yearnings and many temptations.

As for the generation gap, it was more real in our day, though we talked about it less. What child could discuss sex openly with a parent 40 years ago? We didn't reach our parents nor they us, but we didn't worry about it then, we just accepted it.

Maybe the big difference with the moderns is that they are more honest. They say what they think. — PARENT

DEAR PARENT:

And worry about it more.

That youth isn't much different than it has always been is quite apparent when you read back through history. Consider this:

"They (young people) have exalted notions, because they have not yet been humbled by life or learned its necessary limitations . . . they think themselves equal to great things. . . They would always rather do noble deeds than useful ones; their lives are regulated more by moral feeling than by reasoning — all their mistakes are in the direction of doing things excessively and vehemently. They overdo everything — they love too much, hate too much." — Aristotle, written over 2,400 years ago.

And this:

"The older generation . . . pretty much ruined this world before passing it on to us. They give us this thing. . . leaky, red-hot, threatening to blow up; and they are surprised that we don't accept it . . . with pretty, decorous enthusiasm." — A "wild kid" of the 1920's said it, as quoted from Frank Donovan's study of patterns in juvenile delinquency.

And a poem, written by a World War II soldier could well be applied to the draft card burners today:

A STRIKING DREAM

Last night I had a shocking dream, that filled me with dismay.

Our fighting men had gone on strike, demanding higher pay.

They wanted overtime it seemed, for dying in the mud.

And shorter working hours, for the shedding of their blood.

"How dare they strike," the home front screamed, "when we give up so much —

Like candy bars, and pleasure cars, and cigarettes and such?"

The foe broke through the picket line, and left a trail of graves.

And overnight our people all were changed to fettered slaves.

I woke to find our boys still fought, and that the end seemed near.

They weren't striking over there — the strike was over here!

Bottle Propping Neglects Cuddling

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (WMNS) — The bottle propper can sometimes seem like a third hand to a harried young mother. But it should be used with discrimination. This is what Philadelphia pediatrician Dr. Doris A. Howell told a recent medical meeting, pointing out that propping baby's bottle can develop into a form of unintentional maternal neglect.

An infant needs physical warmth, she maintained, the touch of gentle, loving, soothing hands, and firm support to thrive. "While supremely appropriate milk can come from either a real or artificial nipple, cuddling and nurturing can be supplied only by a tender human being."

Occasional bottle propping, experts agree, will not harm an infant. But propping instead of mothering can.

Back-Seat Driver Has A Defender

NEW YORK (WMNS) — The much-maligned back-seat driver has at last found a defender. The good back-seat driver, that is.

According to the New York Safety Council, "a good back-seat driver serves as an extra pair of eyes — taking care of map reading, watching for directional signs and route turn-offs — while the driver is concentrating on driving."

She also sees to it that all doors are locked, seat belts fastened, that the rear shelf is kept clear of objects that could block the driver's vision or become flying missiles in the event of sudden braking. She acts as baby sitter, keeping children amused so that they don't distract the driver, and seeing that they keep arms and heads inside the car.

Don't Procrastinate – Start New Year Learning To Sew

By EUNICE FARMER

All columnists take the opportunity to say Happy New Year to their readers, I don't want to miss this opportunity. This is the time of year when we begin trying to mend our ways and make all sorts of New Year's resolutions that are quickly forgotten.

For those of you who have thought of taking up sewing because some of your friends are making beautiful clothes, this is the time to do it. Don't procrastinate any longer.

The time of year just after the holidays is usually a little sad, and we have a let down feeling. What better time to spend learning to sew and by spring and summer you will have something new to wear.

Please remember that sewing is fun if you make it that way. Laugh at your mistakes as you repair them; you must have a sense of humor to sew. You can't expect to be a master overnight.

Choose a very simple pattern in a gay over-all print in a rather firm fabric. The print will hide errors and firm fabrics rip better (yes, ripping is part of sewing, accept it). Perfection comes with practice.

Whatever you do, don't be discouraged. If you don't like a dress after you have finished it, remember that everyone has a ready-made dress in their closet that hasn't been worn because you didn't like it after you bought it and took it home. This will happen less and less when you sew because you can choose exactly the color and pattern you have in mind.

Let me hear from you beginners. I'll help and encourage you any way I can! Today, sewing is the "in" thing to do. Many very wealthy, important women in the world are making their own clothes and proud of it.

Mrs. M. Dellinger, Statesville, N.C., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"When pressing wool, if you have ever left a shiny place from ironing directly on the fabric, try pressing this over again, using a piece of wool as a pressing cloth. This will help take the shine out."

DEAR EUNICE,

Is there any way to remove the pin marks from the seams on velveteen fabric? I have just finished a velveteen dress that looks very professional except that there are crushed marks wherever I have sewed over the pins.

MRS. M.W.

DEAR MRS. M.W.:

These marks are almost impossible to remove. You should always remove the pins on any napped fabric before stitching over them. I would suggest steaming the seam very well, taking a rather stiff brush and trying to bring up the nap in this way. Perhaps a firm toothbrush would do the job.

DEAR EUNICE,

I am trying to cover a bolster pillow like the ones you find in the department stores. The bolster has round ends and an opening for the pillow. I had spent many hours making the beauty when I came to the zipper. The circles at the end are firm, and I simply can't insert the zipper. How can this be done and still have a neat, professional look?

MRS. G. H. M.

DEAR MRS. G.H.M.:

I checked into the pillow situation and found the bolster pillows have a zipper inserted on the long side, not around the ends. I would suggest inserting an ordinary lapped zipper before you begin applying the ends.

It isn't too difficult when you have a flat area to work with. You must always make the pillow cover slightly smaller than the filler in order to achieve that firm taut fit.

Set-in sleeves take perhaps more skill than any other operation in dressmaking. If you would like my booklet "All About Sleeves" which gives you illustrated instruction for professional looking sleeves, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Marble Stains

Most stains on marble are removed best with the application of a poultice. To make a poultice, soak a piece of white blotting paper, white napkin, white cleansing tissue, or commercial whiting in one of the following solutions: for organic stains, use ammonia or hydrogen peroxide in hair bleach strength; for oily stains, an amyl acetate or acetone solvent.

Mr. and Mrs. Tolo have been visiting the Davies family during the holidays. Charlotte Tolo is Lenore Davies' sister. Karen, who was born Oct. 8, is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Davies of Belvedere, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Carlson of Haver, Mont. A brunch at the home of the senior Davieses will follow the church ceremony.

KATHERINE ELIZABETH Pease, a 1967 graduate of Terra Linda High School, made her debut at the Army Debutante Ball, held Tuesday at the Fort Shafter Officers' Club in Honolulu, Hawaii. She is the daughter of Lt. Colonel and Mrs. Quentin Pease, who live in Hawaii because of his current assignment to headquarters of the U.S. Army in the Pacific. The family were residents at Hamilton Air Force Base for three years. Katherine is a freshman in fine arts study at the University of Hawaii.

MR. AND MRS. A. H. Ecoff Jr. and Mrs. Ecoff's mother, all of Bel Marin Keys, have returned to their homes following a weeks vacation in Tustin (Orange County) where they spent Christmas with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hawthorne and Timmy and Kelly.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The More The Times Change, The More They Stay The Same

DEAR HELEN:

Do times really change so much? My daughter brings me dating problems that are identical to those I suffered through 25 years ago, and that her grandmother faced over 40 years back. We had wolves back then, too. Also yearnings and many temptations.

As for the generation gap, it was more real in our day, though we talked about it less. What child could discuss sex openly with a parent 40 years ago? We didn't reach our parents nor they us, but we didn't worry about it then, we just accepted it.

Maybe the big difference with the moderns is that they are more honest. They say what they think. — PARENT

DEAR PARENT:

And worry about it more.

That youth isn't much different than it has always been is quite apparent when you read back through history. Consider this:

"They (young people) have exalted notions, because they have not yet been humbled by life or learned its necessary limitations . . . they think themselves equal to great things. . . They would always rather do noble deeds than useful ones; their lives are regulated more by moral feeling than by reasoning — all their mistakes are in the direction of doing things excessively and vehemently. They overdo everything — they love too much, hate too much." — Aristotle, written over 2,400 years ago.

And this:

"The older generation . . . pretty much ruined this world before passing it on to us. They give us this thing . . . leaky, red-hot, threatening to blow up; and they are surprised that we don't accept it . . . with pretty, decorous enthusiasm." — A "wild kid" of the 1920's said it, as quoted from Frank Donovan's study of patterns in juvenile delinquency.

And a poem, written by a World War II soldier could well be applied to the draft card burners today:

A STRIKING DREAM

Last night I had a shocking dream, that filled me with dismay.

Our fighting men had gone on strike, demanding higher pay.

They wanted overtime it seemed, for dying in the mud.

And shorter working hours, for the shedding of their blood.

"How dare they strike," the home front screamed, "when we give up so much —

Like candy bars, and pleasure cars, and cigarettes and such?"

The foe broke through the picket line, and left a trail of graves.

And overnight our people all were changed to fettered slaves.

I woke to find our boys still fought, and that the end seemed near.

They weren't striking over there — the strike was over here!

Bottle Propping Neglects Cuddling

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (WMNS) — The bottle propper can sometimes seem like a third hand to a harried young mother. But it should be used with discrimination. This is what Philadelphia pediatrician Dr. Doris A. Howell told a recent medical meeting, pointing out that propping baby's bottle can develop into a form of unintentional maternal neglect.

An infant needs physical warmth, she maintained, the touch of gentle, loving, soothing hands, and firm support to thrive. "While supremely appropriate milk can come from either a real or artificial nipple, cuddling and nurturing can be supplied only by a tender human being."

Occasional bottle propping, experts agree, will not harm an infant. But propping instead of mothering can.

Ron was graduated from Redwood High School and is a senior at UCLA. He is the brother of Rickey and Scott Gaviati and Alfred Wilsey Jr., all of Kentfield; Michael Wilsey, who is attending Harvard University; Wendy Wilsey of Honolulu, and Mrs. Thomas Smallwood of Sausalito.

A June wedding is planned.

Mill Valley Boutique Owner Featured In January Journal

Valerie Gross, co-owner of the Mill Valley teen boutique "Valerie Ann's," is one of "the great new sew-society" featured in the January "Ladies Home Journal."

SHE APPEARS in a color picture on page 67 that was taken in front of Abracadabra, the carnival flavored boutique in New York City. While she was there she found the Journal sewing workrooms of interest and looked for ideas to bring home. Watching professional models at work in the studio of Francisco Scavullo was instructive, and she shared some of their daily life when she walked around New York.

Valerie lived with the David Reeds of Ossining, N.Y., formerly of Mill Valley, and began her junior year by attending Edgemont High School in nearby Scarsdale, where Mr. Reed teaches music. One of her interesting experiences was being student co-director of the high school musicale "Fiorello."

Comparing the teen fashions in Westchester County with those of Marin, she found the clothes there less casual and less colorful, but textured hose were a must with loafers worn with skirts, shorts and pants.

THREE VALERIE-ANN originals she wore were immediate hits — a green wool trimmed in green suede, a paisley wool and a teal velveteen baby doll dress.

Valerie returned to her studies at Tamalpais High School just after Thanksgiving.

NO SALARY

Wife's Value Varies

NEW YORK (AP) — How much, in dollars and cents, is the American housewife really worth?

The Agriculture Department is considering trying to find out in hopes of determining whether working wives really mean profit for the family coffers. The housewives have their own ideas—and they vary widely.

"I'd be worth about $500 a week," said one woman. "About $50 weekly," estimated another. "I think it's silly to even try to put a value on a housewife," scoffed a third.

MOST OF THE women respond to an Associated Press survey estimated a housewife's value on the basis of what it would cost to hire an outsider to perform her chores.

"A maid for eight hours costs about $10 or more," said Mrs. Hugh Savage of Kansas City, Mo., the mother of two. "And you should add $6 for the extras," including meal planning, clothes buying, serving as hostess and carrying out community obligations, she said.

MRS. ALBERT Jensen of Chicago, the mother of two, who said her husband told her she was worth $1,000 a month, figured it would cost "about $600 a month" to hire a nurse for their son. In addition, she said, her husband would have to pay someone for the cooking, cleaning and laundry.

Several years ago, the Chase Manhattan Bank figured that at the going rates for all the jobs under the title "housewife," the average woman should get $159.34 a week. That included such estimates as 3.3 hours of food shopping a week at $1.50 an hour and 13.1 hours of cooking a week at $2.50 an hour.

Mrs. William Pichler, 45, of Miami, the mother of two, said "just off the top of my head I'd say over $50," then added, "you'd better make that about $150 a week."

Mrs. Pichler, a registered nurse before her marriage, said she would prefer to hold an outside job. "It was far more gratifying," she said.

MRS. RITA Kellard of Brooklyn, the mother of three, also would prefer to hold an outside job, but she said it was more gratifying to stay home.

"You don't get any salary at home," said Mrs. Kellard, who felt she was worth "at least $3 an hour" for a 12-hour day, seven days a week. "But to see your children happy is more rewarding. You never see a boss happy."

A much more modest monetary appraisal came from Mrs. Justine Paul, 25, of Santa Monica, Calif., a bride of less than one year. "I just don't do a whole lot around the house," said Mrs. Paul, explaining she thought she would be worth about $30 a week.

A television interviewer before her marriage, Mrs. Paul said she'd prefer not to work. "I'd rather be taken care of," she said.

Designer Mollie Parnis Takes A Look At Soviet Wardrobes

NEW YORK (AP) — During this 50th anniversary year of the Bolshevik revolution, designers the world over have been serving up a lot of Fashion a la Russe.

Yet ironically, those fur-banded tunic suits, peasant blouses, cossack's hats and babushkas in stylish closets are not representatives of modern Russia; they are vestiges of life before the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

That the Russian garment industry today has made no major contribution to style leadership does not surprise Mollie Parnis, who took a good look at Soviet women and their wardrobes during her visit to the International Film Festival in Moscow recently.

SINCE DRESS manufacturer Mollie's first trip seven years before, modern women had begun to trim down, tuck up hems, tint her lips and line her eyelids. In a turnabout about fashion, its government has tried to create a better style image abroad by taking miniskirted models to Montreal, or London or Rome.

Nevertheless, according to Mollie, whose reputation as a favorite of White House first ladies had already preceded her to Moscow, the Soviet woman is doomed to second class fashionship. The reason, she says, is because her country's economy lacks the stimulus of stiff competition.

"By the time women do get the pointed-toed shoes or sheaths dresses they have been demanding, the fashion world has long ago abandoned these for something newer," observed Mollie in her office while at the same time supervising the shortening of a black lace dress to be delivered to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D.C.

"IT'S THE SYSTEM," she mused. "In Russia a woman has to take what she can get and wait for that because there is no competition among government-controlled stores, or the manufacturers."

(On the side she motioned to her assistant to "up the hemline a little more. Mrs. Johnson will be wearing heels.")

Fashion competition is understood by most American women, she says. They use fashion to compete with each other for status and admiration of other women, and the attention of men.

As for Mollie herself, she particularly understands competition in its business sense. Any person would who had survived two decades in the American garment district, where the competition is the roughest. She did and stayed on top of the rest all the while.

Intourist guides and women with access to fashion magazines and have grandmothers at home to make copies are among the best dressed women in Russia, Mollie says.

"WHY, THAT LOOKS like a Mollie Parnis dress," she once said, beaming at the Hungarian diplomat's wife who wore it.

The woman blushingly admitted that it could at least be a Mollie Parnis design. She had asked her dressmaker to make it by copying it from an American magazine.

Ron was graduated from Redwood High School and is a senior at UCLA. He is the brother of Rickey and Scott Gaviati and Alfred Wilsey Jr., all of Kentfield; Michael Wilsey, who is attending Harvard University; Wendy Wilsey of Honolulu, and Mrs. Thomas Smallwood of Sausalito.

Mill Valley Boutique Owner Featured In January Journal

SHE APPEARS in a color picture on page 67 that was taken in front of Abracadabra, the carnival flavored boutique in New York City. While she was there she found the Journal sewing workrooms of interest and looked for ideas to bring home. Watching professional models at work in the studio of Francisco Scavullo was instructive, and she shared some of their daily life when she walked around New York.

Valerie lived with the David Reeds of Ossining, N.Y., formerly of Mill Valley, and began her junior year by attending Edgemont High School in nearby Scarsdale, where Mr. Reed teaches music. One of her interesting experiences was being student co-director of the high school musicale "Fiorello."

Comparing the teen fashions in Westchester County with those of Marin, she found the clothes there less casual and less colorful, but textured hose were a must with loafers worn with skirts, shorts and pants.

THREE VALERIE-ANN originals she wore were immediate hits — a green wool trimmed in green suede, a paisley wool and a teal velveteen baby doll dress.

Valerie returned to her studies at Tamalpais High School just after Thanksgiving.

NO SALARY

Wife's Value Varies

NEW YORK (AP) — How much, in dollars and cents, is the American housewife really worth?

The Agriculture Department is considering trying to find out in hopes of determining whether working wives really mean profit for the family coffers. The housewives have their own ideas—and they vary widely.

"I'd be worth about $500 a week," said one woman. "About $50 weekly," estimated another. "I think it's silly to even try to put a value on a housewife," scoffed a third.

MOST OF THE women respond to an Associated Press survey estimated a housewife's value on the basis of what it would cost to hire an outsider to perform her chores.

"A maid for eight hours costs about $10 or more," said Mrs. Hugh Savage of Kansas City, Mo., the mother of two. "And you should add $6 for the extras," including meal planning, clothes buying, serving as hostess and carrying out community obligations, she said.

MRS. ALBERT Jensen of Chicago, the mother of two, who said her husband told her she was worth $1,000 a month, figured it would cost "about $600 a month" to hire a nurse for their son. In addition, she said, her husband would have to pay someone for the cooking, cleaning and laundry.

Several years ago, the Chase Manhattan Bank figured that at the going rates for all the jobs under the title "housewife," the average woman should get $159.34 a week. That included such estimates as 3.3 hours of food shopping a week at $1.50 an hour and 13.1 hours of cooking a week at $2.50 an hour.

Mrs. William Pichler, 45, of Miami, the mother of two, said "just off the top of my head I'd say over $50," then added, "you'd better make that about $150 a week."

Mrs. Pichler, a registered nurse before her marriage, said she would prefer to hold an outside job. "It was far more gratifying," she said.

MRS. RITA Kellard of Brooklyn, the mother of three, also would prefer to hold an outside job, but she said it was more gratifying to stay home.

"You don't get any salary at home," said Mrs. Kellard, who felt she was worth "at least $3 an hour" for a 12-hour day, seven days a week. "But to see your children happy is more rewarding. You never see a boss happy."

A much more modest monetary appraisal came from Mrs. Justine Paul, 25, of Santa Monica, Calif., a bride of less than one year. "I just don't do a whole lot around the house," said Mrs. Paul, explaining she thought she would be worth about $30 a week.

A television interviewer before her marriage, Mrs. Paul said she'd prefer not to work. "I'd rather be taken care of," she said.

Bolinas Beach Anti-Litter Pact Proposed

Beachfront property owners in Bolinas could get help in their long battle with the public over litter, noise and trespassing by leasing their beaches to Bolinas Community Inc., County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney suggested last night to the organization.

Members agreed they could patrol and maintain the beach under such an arrangement, reported secretary David J. Tirell. Maloney's suggestion was referred to the Beachfront Property Owners Association, which previously rejected a suggestion by Maloney that the land be leased to the county.

The county assessor's office has assessed three properties owned by the community organization off Canyon Road at $1,320, members learned. The assessment will be reviewed automatically by the Assessment Appeal Board because the properties had not previously been assessed, Tirell said.

The parcels, totaling less than one acre, "are very steep and worthless for development," he said.

Members voted $90 for new window shades for the community center.

Hippie Truck Check Leads To Arrests

Two 18-year-old San Rafael boys were booked into county jail early today on suspicion of possession of marijuana and alcohol after their "hippie type" panel truck was stopped on Highway 101 in Corte Madera.

The California Highway Patrol reported that what was believed to be marijuana worth at least $1,000 retail was found under a mattress in the rear of the truck.

The two suspects are the driver, Daniel W. Caveney of 161 Novato Street, and Ronnell A. Bell of 443 Montecillo Road. Caveney also was booked on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, a 17-year-old San Rafael boy in the truck. Bell also was booked for suspicion of possession of a dangerous drug. They were held today on $500 bail each.

The 17-year-old was booked into juvenile hall for possession of 63 blank drug prescription forms and of alcohol. One of the forms had been filled with a forged prescription for a narcotic, the highway patrol said.

Three other boys, two 18 and one 19, were released.

Officers L. R. Disser and I W. Cunningham said th stopped the truck at 3:05 a when they noticed it did not have a 1967 registration tab on the license plate. The officers searched the truck after they saw beer bottles behind the front seat.

Annexation On Sanitary Agenda

The Corte Madera Sanitary District Board is scheduled to consider annexing a three-quarter-acre parcel owned by William T. Davoren at 5146 Paradise Drive at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the conference room at 300 Tamalpais Drive.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission has approved the annexation.

Also scheduled is accepting completion of the $156,718 sewer replacement job of McGuire and Hester Co., Oakland, on Paradise Drive from El Camino Drive to Westward Drive.

LEAN YEAR, FAT LIE

Patrick May Join Wallace

LOS ANGELES — William Penn Patrick, San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer and unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1966, said yesterday he may join the American Independent Party of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, the Los Angeles Times reported.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan said many press releases distributed by the new party were postmarked from San Rafael and were written by Patrick's secretary, Mrs. Jane Alexander of San Anselmo. (See also, story on page 2.)

"I haven't had a great deal of encouragement by the Republican Party to stay in it," Patrick told the Times. "I should have left them a long time ago."

Patrick said this fall that Wallace supporters had asked him to be the former governor's running mate, but Wallace last month merely said Patrick might be among several persons considered for the second spot on his ticket.

Riding Mishap Hurts Teener At Tomales

A 15-year-old Petaluma girl was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma with a fractured pelvis suffered Wednesday in a riding accident in Tomales.

Kathy Brown reportedly was riding a horse on Carrie Road when it reared and fell on her about 4 p.m.

Dynamite Cache Just False Alarm

The dynamite scare at Oak Manor in Fairfax was over today, with assurance from demolition experts and County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom that no danger exists.

A demolition crew from the Sixth Army at the Presidio of San Francisco worked with pick and crowbars for three hours yesterday in solid rock behind the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilford Medeiros, 119 Oak Manor Drive. Wires from a dynamite blasting cap were exposed in rock just five feet from the house.

Fire Chief Bloom said the demolition experts uncovered five feet of wire, and at the bottom found a space about 12 inches in diameter which had been shattered by a small explosion.

"It had been detonated but it hadn't even shattered the rock on the outside," said Chief Bloom. "It was very unusual and apparently had been a light charge."

Chief Bloom said the dynamite experts who had been in charge when the area was blasted for homes was Roy J. Peterson of Santa Rosa. The chief said he told Peterson he should have removed the wires after the explosion, because from outside appearance, there was no way to indicate the charge had exploded.

The Medeiros family and neighbors were allowed back into the area about 1:30 p.m. yesterday.

A. C. Pfefferkorn Sued For Divorce

Alvin Charles Pfefferkorn, Bolinas community leader and former Point Reyes Station fire chief, was sued for divorce yesterday by his wife of 21 years.

Rose V. Pfefferkorn charged her 73-year-old husband with cruelty.

She said they own community property including three cottages on Brighton Avenue in Bolinas and two lots at the Sea Ranch in Mendocino County.

They were married in Reno on Sept. 9, 1946. They separated yesterday, the suit said.

Pfefferkorn has been active in many West Marin civic organizations. He started a movement to make Camp Taylor the Samuel P. Taylor State Park. Last August, he supported incorporation of Bolinas.

Garden Poison Blamed In Death

Mrs. Nina Ott, 61, of San Anselmo, who was found dead Thursday, died from drinking garden poison, according to an autopsy performed yesterday by the county coroner.

Deputy Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said the cause was "toxic drug indestion." Mrs. Ott lived at 144 Hilldale Drive with her sister, Anna Faulk.

No announcement of the funeral will be made until next Tuesday, according to Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Bomb Terrorist Threatens Third Attack On Town

MARYSVILLE (UPI) — Residents of this Gold Rush era city were a little jittery today, wondering about a possible third attack threatened by a terrorist bomber.

The terrorist telephoned police Wednesday and threatened one explosion a night until two narcotics suspects were released from jail.

Dynamite blasts have damaged a motel swimming pool and a 20,000-gallon storage tank. No one has been injured. Damage exceeded $40,000.

The first blast Wednesday night knocked out a glass wall of the pool and flooded an adjoining motel tavern containing 30 patrons. On Thursday night one mile outside the city, a dynamite blast blew several holes in the storage tank containing 700 gallons of weed killer.

Runaway Car Slams Home In Larkspur

A parked car rolled out of a garage on a Larkspur hill yesterday, bounced off the wall at one residence, then shot across the street, went through a wall, a garden and hit the side of a house so hard it cracked a bedroom wall.

"My husband, James, was down in the garage," said Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald of 195 Via Lerida, whose bedroom wall was cracked. "I thought, 'My word! what's going on down there?'"

It took a wrecker truck two hours to get the car out of the Fitzgeralds' garden.

Larkspur police said the car was parked in the garage at the Mark Anthony Kuder residence, 209 Via Lerida.

It rolled out, down the hill, and bounced first off a wall of the home of John Carmelo Iacono, 200 Via Lerida, before shooting across to the Fitzgeralds'.

Mrs. Fitzgerald said the impact drove a timber of the house into the bedroom.

Radio Announcer Sued For Divorce

Thomas S. O'Callaghan, announcer for radio station KYA in San Francisco, was sued for divorce in Marin Superior Court yesterday by his wife of seven years.

Mary P. O'Callaghan alleged cruelty and asked for a share in community property, custody of their five children and reasonable support for herself and the children.

She said O'Callaghan has a net income of $1,400 a month. The family home is at 850 Bolinas Avenue, Fairfax.

Bolinas Beach Anti-Litter Pact Proposed

Beachfront property owners in Bolinas could get help in their long battle with the public over litter, noise and trespassing by leasing their beaches to Bolinas Community Inc., County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney suggested last night to the organization.

Members agreed they could patrol and maintain the beach under such an arrangement, reported secretary David J. Tirell. Maloney's suggestion was referred to the Beachfront Property Owners Association, which previously rejected a suggestion by Maloney that the land be leased to the county.

The county assessor's office has assessed three properties owned by the community organization off Canyon Road at $1,320, members learned. The assessment will be reviewed automatically by the Assessment Appeal Board because the properties had not previously been assessed, Tirell said.

The parcels, totaling less than one acre, "are very steep and worthless for development," he said.

Members voted $90 for new window shades for the community center.

Hippie Truck Check Leads To Arrests

Two 18-year-old San Rafael boys were booked into county jail early today on suspicion of possession of marijuana and alcohol after their "hippie type" panel truck was stopped on Highway 101 in Corte Madera.

The California Highway Patrol reported that what was believed to be marijuana worth at least $1,000 retail was found under a mattress in the rear of the truck.

The two suspects are the driver, Daniel W. Caveney of 161 Novato Street, and Ronnell A. Bell of 443 Montecillo Road. Caveney also was booked on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, a 17-year-old San Rafael boy in the truck. Bell also was booked for suspicion of possession of a dangerous drug. They were held today on $500 bail each.

The 17-year-old was booked into juvenile hall for possession of 63 blank drug prescription forms and of alcohol. One of the forms had been filled with a forged prescription for a narcotic, the highway patrol said.

Three other boys, two 18 and one 19, were released.

Officers L. R. Disser and I W. Cunningham said th stopped the truck at 3:05 a when they noticed it did not have a 1967 registration tab on the license plate. The officers searched the truck after they saw beer bottles behind the front seat.

Annexation On Sanitary Agenda

The Corte Madera Sanitary District Board is scheduled to consider annexing a three-quarter-acre parcel owned by William T. Davoren at 5146 Paradise Drive at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the conference room at 300 Tamalpais Drive.

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission has approved the annexation.

Also scheduled is accepting completion of the $156,718 sewer replacement job of McGuire and Hester Co., Oakland, on Paradise Drive from El Camino Drive to Westward Drive.

LEAN YEAR, FAT LIE

Newly-crowned world champion of the Burlington, Wis., Liars Club is Steve Schilz, a retired warehouseman from Seattle, Wash. His winning tale concerned a year when feed for hogs was in such short supply that housewives had to cook their breakfast bacon in butter. (AP Wirephoto)

Patrick May Join Wallace

LOS ANGELES — William Penn Patrick, San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer and unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1966, said yesterday he may join the American Independent Party of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, the Los Angeles Times reported.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan said many press releases distributed by the new party were postmarked from San Rafael and were written by Patrick's secretary, Mrs. Jane Alexander of San Anselmo. (See also, story on page 2.)

"I haven't had a great deal of encouragement by the Republican Party to stay in it," Patrick told the Times. "I should have left them a long time ago."

Patrick said this fall that Wallace supporters had asked him to be the former governor's running mate, but Wallace last month merely said Patrick might be among several persons considered for the second spot on his ticket.

Riding Mishap Hurts Teener At Tomales

A 15-year-old Petaluma girl was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma with a fractured pelvis suffered Wednesday in a riding accident in Tomales.

Kathy Brown reportedly was riding a horse on Carrie Road when it reared and fell on her about 4 p.m.

Dynamite Cache Just False Alarm

The dynamite scare at Oak Manor in Fairfax was over today, with assurance from demolition experts and County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom that no danger exists.

A demolition crew from the Sixth Army at the Presidio of San Francisco worked with pick and crowbars for three hours yesterday in solid rock behind the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilford Medeiros, 119 Oak Manor Drive. Wires from a dynamite blasting cap were exposed in rock just five feet from the house.

Fire Chief Bloom said the demolition experts uncovered five feet of wire, and at the bottom found a space about 12 inches in diameter which had been shattered by a small explosion.

"It had been detonated but it hadn't even shattered the rock on the outside," said Chief Bloom. "It was very unusual and apparently had been a light charge."

Chief Bloom said the dynamite experts who had been in charge when the area was blasted for homes was Roy J. Peterson of Santa Rosa. The chief said he told Peterson he should have removed the wires after the explosion, because from outside appearance, there was no way to indicate the charge had exploded.

The Medeiros family and neighbors were allowed back into the area about 1:30 p.m. yesterday.

A. C. Pfefferkorn Sued For Divorce

Alvin Charles Pfefferkorn, Bolinas community leader and former Point Reyes Station fire chief, was sued for diverce yesterday by his wife of 21 years.

Rose V. Pfefferkorn charged her 73-year-old husband with cruelty.

She said they own community property including three cottages on Brighton Avenue in Bolinas and two lots at the Sea Ranch in Mendocino County.

They were married in Reno on Sept. 9, 1946. They separated yesterday, the suit said.

Pfefferkorn has been active in many West Marin civic organizations. He started a movement to make Camp Taylor the Samuel P. Taylor State Park. Last August, he supported incorporation of Bolinas.

Garden Poison Blamed In Death

Mrs. Nina Ott, 61, of San Anselmo, who was found dead Thursday, died from drinking garden poison, according to an autopsy performed yesterday by the county coroner.

Deputy Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said the cause was "toxic drug indestion." Mrs. Ott lived at 144 Hilldale Drive with her sister, Anna Faulk.

No announcement of the funeral will be made until next Tuesday, according to Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Bomb Terrorist Threatens Third Attack On Town

MARYSVILLE (UPI) — Residents of this Gold Rush era city were a little jittery today, wondering about a possible third attack threatened by a terrorist bomber.

The terrorist telephoned police Wednesday and threatened one explosion a night until two narcotics suspects were released from jail.

Dynamite blasts have damaged a motel swimming pool and a 20,000-gallon storage tank. No one has been injured. Damage exceeded $40,000.

The first blast Wednesday night knocked out a glass wall of the pool and flooded an adjoining motel tavern containing 30 patrons. On Thursday night one mile outside the city, a dynamite blast blew several holes in the storage tank containing 700 gallons of weed killer.

Runaway Car Slams Home In Larkspur

A parked car rolled out of a garage on a Larkspur hill yesterday, bounced off the wall at one residence, then shot across the street, went through a wall, a garden and hit the side of a house so hard it cracked a bedroom wall.

"My husband, James, was down in the garage," said Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald of 195 Via Lerida, whose bedroom wall was cracked. "I thought, 'My word! what's going on down there?'"

It took a wrecker truck two hours to get the car out of the Fitzgeralds' garden.

Larkspur police said the car was parked in the garage at the Mark Anthony Kuder residence, 209 Via Lerida.

It rolled out, down the hill, and bounced first off a wall of the home of John Carmelo Iacono, 200 Via Lerida, before shooting across to the Fitzgeralds'.

Mrs. Fitzgerald said the impact drove a timber of the house into the bedroom.

Radio Announcer Sued For Divorce

Thomas S. O'Callaghan, announcer for radio station KYA in San Francisco, was sued for divorce in Marin Superior Court yesterday by his wife of seven years.

Mary P. O'Callaghan alleged cruelty and asked for a share in community property, custody of their five children and reasonable support for herself and the children.

She said O'Callaghan has a net income of $1,400 a month. The family home is at 850 Bolinas Avenue, Fairfax.

Snow (Packer Weather) Forecast For NFL Title Game

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay should feel right at home tomorrow with the prospect of snow flurries, bone-chilling cold and cutting wind for the National Footbll League title game between the favored Packers and the Dallas Cowboys.

Although the surface of Lambeau Field will be heated to 50 degrees by 14 miles of electric wiring beneath it, the temperatures in the rest of Packerland are expected to be in the middle teens by game time at 11 a.m., PST.

The rematch of last season's title game, which ended dramatically in a 34-27 Packer victory, will be carried on network (CBS) radio and television with the Green Bay area blacked out on television.

Dallas flew in from the Southland yesterday afternoon a few hours after the Packers completed their heavy work in another closed session. Both teams were to do little more than limber up until game time.

"I feel it will be a defensive game," said Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys, the Eastern Conference champions. "I don't anticipate another 34-27 score. I think this one will be tougher. Of course, one side may get out ahead and run away with it as so often happens in NFL title games. I look for defense to predominate because both of us have had less time to get ready for this one."

Vince Lombardi, confident of another fine performance by his Western Conference champs made no prediction.

"I just hope it is a good ball game," said Lombardi, whose Packers are shooting for an unprecedented third straight league playoff crown. "I'd like to win it. I'll be very much disappointed if we don't. Most of all, I'd like to see us play real well."

The big prize, in addition to the prestige of the NFL title and an approximate $7,800 winning share per player (the losers will get about $5,200), is a crack at the $15,000 Super Bowl jackpot in Miami, Fla. Jan. 14 against the American Football League champion. The Packers already know how sweet the Super dough can be, having beaten Kansas City last January in Los Angeles.

Summing up the differences between the defensive strategy of the two clubs, Landry said, "Green Bay is a containing team. They let you bend them a little with the run, but keep you away from the goal line. We try to shut off the run."

Both coaches expect Bob Hayes, the former Olympic sprint champ to be a more important factor than last year, when he caught only one pass.

"A guy like Hayes is going to catch some," admitted Lombardi.

"Anything Bob does will be an improvement over last year," said Landry. "He'll be more ready this time. He had a good year. When he didn't start well last year, Don Meredith looked elsewhere. I think he'll be aiming at Hayes a few times Sunday."

A sellout crowd of 50,861 is due to cram the city-owned stadium to cheer the Packers, who have won six Western Conference crowns in nine years since Lombardi moved west from New York, where both he and Landry were assistant coaches.

If the score is tied after the regulation 60 minutes, the teams will continue in a sudden death overtime, in which the team scoring first (by safety, field goal or touchdown) will win.

Dear John (McKay): Watch Out For That Left End

Okay, Miss Jones, it's Coach McKay's turn. Just address it to "We're No. 1, U.S.A!" That'll get it to him.

"Dear John,

"John, I don't want to worry you, but I went out to Indiana's Rose Bowl practice field the other day and I walked right in!

"Think about that for a minute, John. I did. I got clear inside before I got this funny feeling and the small hair on the back of my neck began to prickle.

"I GRABBED one of the guys. 'Wait just a darn minute,' I told him. 'What's going on here?! Where's the guard? The one that says "You'll have to wait here till I check Coach Hayes." In the meantime, go in that room over there and remove all your clothes and sign a release you'll never tell another soul what you see or hear here.'

"JOHN, YOU get my point? I mean, you remember Woody Hayes? He wouldn't let Helen Keller into one of his practices. One year, he offered to let the reporters see the pictures, and the guys were going to take him up on it till they found out they were stills. The only 'scouting' you could do was stand outside and count the flying teeth or watch the scrubs being hauled away in ambulances.

"Now, we always figured those guys barred us because their first string line was wanted by the FBI. Or the San Diego Zoo. Right?

"BUT THEN, Duffy Daugherty came along and said, 'You want to see my players? Shucks, I'll even show you my plays!' And we always figured Duffy did that because the International Red Cross told him it was either that or drop leaflets.

"YOU GET the picture, John? Letting us in kind of reminded me of Hitler inviting the ambassador of Czechoslovakia to watch his air force fly-over. Then, he would rub his hands together and say, 'Now, shall we discuss terms? We will let you keep everything in your country you can't sell off, build on, eat or sail. Sign here.'

"Johnny, they didn't even frisk me! They even let the public take pictures! John, these are guys who don't want it on their consicence if anything terrible happens to your team.

"NOW, THEY got a coach from Yale and a quarterback who wears contact lenses. Ordinarily, a backfield that can't see without glasses is about as useful as a cross-eyed center. But this fellow, Gonso — Harry Gonso — passed for 931 yards. So, I don't think those contact lenses are bi-focal. Anyway, they tell me his arm is so good, he could throw for nine touchdowns by Braille. He ran for three touchdowns and 512 yards. So you know he isn't carrying a white cane, either.

"They have an end whose name is 'Butcher.' I don't know whether that's a name or a description, but don't be too surprised if your defensive secondary gets filleted. In fact, the rest of his name is 'Jade' which gives you 'Jade Butcher' and a picture of a guy turning green over a chopping block.

"THESE GUYS fumble a lot because they gamble a lot. They got one guy who can put more suspense into a punt than the Mets' infield can into a ground ball. John Isenbarger punts only when he thinks the stars are right, or the moon is full, or the curvature of the earth is perfect in his latitude. Part of the reason is, he usually thinks he can run the ball farther than he can kick it. Part of that reason is, he sometimes can.

"THE GAME plan is usually right out of Frank Merriwell. I don't think Gonso draws plays on the ground with a bent twig, but, once when the team asked Coach Pont what the game plan was to be, he said 'Surprise me.' I think it's the first team in history where the quarterback holds up the plays on cardboard in the huddle and says 'Pick a card.'

"IN THE game, they're always trying to fill inside straights or fade you even if they know the dice are crooked. They'll never say, 'I'll play these.' They're as unpredictable as Jonathan Winters, as illogical as a new bride. The only way you can play them is with a Ouija board. The only one who knows what they're going to do next is God. And Dan Jenkins, the magazine writer, says He's playing left end for them."

Lamonica & Co. Battle Houston

OAKLAND (AP) — Daryle Lamonica, the thinking man's quarterback, thinks he knows how to beat the Houston Oilers tomorrow and win the American Football League championship for the Oakland Raiders.

"The game is pretty well organized in my mind," said Lamonica, who emerged from back-up man at Buffalo to first-string star with the Raiders. "Not it's just a matter of execution."

Lamonica brings an engineer's approach to every game he plays, carefully sketching it out on paper beforehand. Tomorrow's blueprint is complete, and now it's up to the AFL's most valuable player to make it work.

"If we play sound football and don't make any mistakes, we'll win Sunday," said Lamonica, who finished the season as the No. 1-ranked quarterback in the league.

"We're probably as well prepared as any team in football," said Lamonica. "If we lose a game, it's because we beat ourselves, not because we weren't ready for it."

ONLY LOSS

The Raiders lost only once all season and that was way back in October. They carry a 10-game winning streak and a best-ever 13-1 record into tomorrow's sudden-death game against the Eastern champion Oilers, who finished 9-4-1.

A sell-out crowd of 53,000 is assured for the game, which will be nationally televised by NBC, starting at 2 p.m., PST. It will be blacked out in Northern California.

The winner advances to the Super Bowl against the National League champion.

Victory will be worth between $6,000 and $7,000 per player—an AFL record—as well as the Super Bowl berth and the promise of even more cash

"We're thinking about Houston and that's all," said Lamonica after practice yesterday. "We can't afford to look ahead. Sure, we know there's a Super Bowl to be played and we hope to be there. But we have to get past Houston first."

REACHES GOAL

Lamonica, who passed for 30 touchdowns and 3,228 yards, said both figures achieved pre-season goals. "I wanted 30 TDs and 3,000 yards, but the only statistic that really counts is the won-lost column," he said.

The Raiders defeated Houston 19-7 during the regular season but the game ranks as a sore spot with Lamonica. It was the only time all year that he failed to throw at least one touchdown pass.

A GOOD LESSON

"We learned a lot from playing them during the regular season," he said. "Their personnel had changed drastically from our pre-season game. It was like playing a different team. Now, we know what to expect."

"They shut me out," he said. "We won, but it took four field goals. A quarterback is never satisified unless he takes his team into the end zone."

Lamonica is never satisfied, period.

Bulldogs Upset Petaluma

The San Rafael Bulldogs pulled off the prestige win of the night for the Marin County Athletic League when they knocked off Petaluma, 62-58, on the Bulldog court last night.

Roger Thomas scored 20 points to pace the Bulldog win over the Trojans, who were runnersup in the Drake Invitational Tournament.

Tamalpais racked up its sixth win against three losses, pounding host team John F. Kennedy High, 62-48, to take third place in the J.F.K. Tournament at Piedmont Hills.

Marin Catholic blew a 10-0 lead and lost to St. Ignatius and Drake, after a courageous first half, fell to San Francisco powerhouse Poly, 72-48.

The Indians played without Floyd Jackson, who sat out the game with an ankle injury but Leroy Barrow pumped in 10 fielders for 20 points and center Pat Schafer added 14 points to make up for the absence of Tam's leading scorer.

Guard Art Pla hit 18 points for the Pirates and Don Alvarado added 10 points.

ROSE BOWL SHAKEUP

Trojans Call On Subs

By JACK STEVENSON

PASADENA (AP) — Offensive guards Dennis Born and Fred Khasigian, substitutes during the past season, face the rugged test as starters for Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

They carry a big part of the responsibility for opening holes through which O. J. S$mpson can dash, and the All-America halfback is the man USC counts on most against Indiana on New Year's Day.

Three days ago the senior Born and the sophomore Khasigian were battling for a single job — replacing Steve Lehmer who is ineligible for the Rose Bowl because of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's junior college transfer rule.

Then All - Pacific - 8 Mike Scarpace went out with torn knee ligaments and both of the understudies had starting assignments.

Despite the loss of the two starting guards, Southern California remained a two - touchdown favorite to turn back the unpredictable Big 10 club led by sophomores Harry Gonso at quarterback and John Isenbarger at halfback.

Both clubs wind up practice today and go into seclusion awaiting the 2 p.m. kickoff of the nationally televised game which will draw 100,000 to the bowl in Pasadena.

"My goal was just to make this team, let alone be in a starting spot," commented Khasigian, a 215-pounder from Selma, who was recruited as a fullback and played that position with the freshmen last year.

"All I want is a chance to play, to prove myself," declared Born, a 237-pounder from Whittier, who has been hampered by injury during his Trojan career.

Indiana came off a 1-8-1 record to post a 9-1 mark in 1967 and win the right to represent the Big 10. Gonzo completed 67 of 143 passes for 931 yards and nine touchdowns. He rushed for 512 yards as the Hoosiers proved themselves a solid club with a tendency to gamble and throw opposition off stride.

Simpson led the nation in rushing with 1,415 yards in his first season with the Trojans and was runnerup in the balloting for the Heisman Trophy.

USC holds the advantage in weight and some observers believe the outcome could depend on how well the Hoosiers stand up to the pressure in the second half.

Coach John Pont of Indiana feels they will, since "we learned in the first game of the season that we could come from behind and win."

Warriors Bow Again To Chicago

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors, stung by straight road losses to Cincinnati and Chicago, return to friendly Seattle tomorrow afternoon for a game with the Supersonics.

The Warriors whipped the Sonics twice in a row last weekend, one of them on national television. The Sonics, meanwhile, dropped a wild 143-125 game to San Diego in their last outing Thursday.

At Chicago last night, the Bulls snapped a five game losing streak by leading all the way to down the Warriors 107-100. San Francisco narrowed the margin to four points on two occasions in the third quarter and to six points at 89-83 in the final period before Chicago pulled away.

Bob Boozer canned 24 points to lead the Chicago attack. Keith Erickson had 21 and Jerry Sloan chipped in with 19. High for the Warriors was Nate Thurmund with 24 and Fred Hetzel's 16.

Snow (Packer Weather) Forecast For NFL Title Game

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay should feel right at home tomorrow with the prospect of snow flurries, bone-chilling cold and cutting wind for the National Footbll League title game between the favored Packers and the Dallas Cowboys.

Although the surface of Lambeau Field will be heated to 50 degrees by 14 miles of electric wiring beneath it, the temperatures in the rest of Packerland are expected to be in the middle teens by game time at 11 a.m., PST.

The rematch of last season's title game, which ended dramatically in a 34-27 Packer victory, will be carried on network (CBS) radio and television with the Green Bay area blacked out on television.

Dallas flew in from the Southland yesterday afternoon a few hours after the Packers completed their heavy work in another closed session. Both teams were to do little more than limber up until game time.

"I feel it will be a defensive game," said Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys, the Eastern Conference champions. "I don't anticipate another 34-27 score. I think this one will be tougher. Of course, one side may get out ahead and run away with it as so often happens in NFL title games. I look for defense to predominate because both of us have had less time to get ready for this one."

Vince Lombardi, confident of another fine performance by his Western Conference champs made no prediction.

"I just hope it is a good ball game," said Lombardi, whose Packers are shooting for an unprecedented third straight league playoff crown. "I'd like to win it. I'll be very much disappointed if we don't. Most of all, I'd like to see us play real well."

The big prize, in addition to the prestige of the NFL title and an approximate $7,800 winning share per player (the losers will get about $5,200), is a crack at the $15,000 Super Bowl jackpot in Miami, Fla. Jan. 14 against the American Football League champion. The Packers already know how sweet the Super dough can be, having beaten Kansas City last January in Los Angeles.

Summing up the differences between the defensive strategy of the two clubs, Landry said, "Green Bay is a containing team. They let you bend them a little with the run, but keep you away from the goal line. We try to shut off the run."

Both coaches expect Bob Hayes, the former Olympic sprint champ to be a more important factor than last year, when he caught only one pass.

"A guy like Hayes is going to catch some," admitted Lombardi.

"Anything Bob does will be an improvement over last year," said Landry. "He'll be more ready this time. He had a good year. When he didn't start well last year, Don Meredith looked elsewhere. I think he'll be aiming at Hayes a few times Sunday."

A sellout crowd of 50,861 is due to cram the city-owned stadium to cheer the Packers, who have won six Western Conference crowns in nine years since Lombardi moved west from New York, where both he and Landry were assistant coaches.

If the score is tied after the regulation 60 minutes, the teams will continue in a sudden death overtime, in which the team scoring first (by safety, field goal or touchdown) will win.

Raiders' Thinking Man Ready For AFL Clash

JIM MURRAY

Dear John (McKay): Watch Out For That Left End

Okay, Miss Jones, it's Coach McKay's turn. Just address it to "We're No. 1, U.S.A!" That'll get it to him.

"Dear John,

"John, I don't want to worry you, but I went out to Indiana's Rose Bowl practice field the other day and I walked right in!

"Think about that for a minute, John. I did. I got clear inside before I got this funny feeling and the small hair on the back of my neck began to prickle.

"I GRABBED one of the guys. 'Wait just a darn minute,' I told him. 'What's going on here?! Where's the guard? The one that says "You'll have to wait here till I check Coach Hayes." In the meantime, go in that room over there and remove all your clothes and sign a release you'll never tell another soul what you see or hear here.'

"JOHN, YOU get my point? I mean, you remember Woody Hayes? He wouldn't let Helen Keller into one of his practices. One year, he offered to let the reporters see the pictures, and the guys were going to take him up on it till they found out they were stills. The only 'scouting' you could do was stand outside and count the flying teeth or watch the scrubs being hauled away in ambulances.

"Now, we always figured those guys barred us because their first string line was wanted by the FBI. Or the San Diego Zoo. Right?

"BUT THEN, Duffy Daugherty came along and said, 'You want to see my players? Shucks, I'll even show you my plays!' And we always figured Duffy did that because the International Red Cross told him it was either that or drop leaflets.

"YOU GET the picture, John? Letting us in kind of reminded me of Hitler inviting the ambassador of Czechoslovakia to watch his air force fly-over. Then, he would rub his hands together and say, 'Now, shall we discuss terms? We will let you keep everything in your country you can't sell off, build on, eat or sail. Sign here.'

"Johnny, they didn't even frisk me! They even let the public take pictures! John, these are guys who don't want it on their consicence if anything terrible happens to your team.

"NOW, THEY got a coach from Yale and a quarterback who wears contact lenses. Ordinarily, a backfield that can't see without glasses is about as useful as a cross-eyed center. But this fellow, Gonso — Harry Gonso — passed for 931 yards. So, I don't think those contact lenses are bi-focal. Anyway, they tell me his arm is so good, he could throw for nine touchdowns by Braille. He ran for three touchdowns and 512 yards. So you know he isn't carrying a white cane, either.

"They have an end whose name is 'Butcher.' I don't know whether that's a name or a description, but don't be too surprised if your defensive secondary gets filleted. In fact, the rest of his name is 'Jade' which gives you 'Jade Butcher' and a picture of a guy turning green over a chopping block.

"THESE GUYS fumble a lot because they gamble a lot. They got one guy who can put more suspense into a punt than the Mets' infield can into a ground ball. John Isenbarger punts only when he thinks the stars are right, or the moon is full, or the curvature of the earth is perfect in his latitude. Part of the reason is, he usually thinks he can run the ball farther than he can kick it. Part of that reason is, he sometimes can.

"THE GAME plan is usually right out of Frank Merriwell. I don't think Gonso draws plays on the ground with a bent twig, but, once when the team asked Coach Pont what the game plan was to be, he said 'Surprise me.' I think it's the first team in history where the quarterback holds up the plays on cardboard in the huddle and says 'Pick a card.'

"IN THE game, they're always trying to fill inside straights or fade you even if they know the dice are crooked. They'll never say, 'I'll play these.' They're as unpredictable as Jonathan Winters, as illogical as a new bride. The only way you can play them is with a Ouija board. The only one who knows what they're going to do next is God. And Dan Jenkins, the magazine writer, says He's playing left end for them."

PASADENA (AP) — Offensive guards Dennis Born and Fred Khasigian, substitutes during the past season, face the rugged test as starters for Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

They carry a big part of the responsibility for opening holes through which O. J. Simpson can dash, and the All-America halfback is the man USC counts on most against Indiana on New Year's Day.

Three days ago the senior Born and the sophomore Khasigian were battling for a single job — replacing Steve Lehmer who is ineligible for the Rose Bowl because of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's junior college transfer rule.

Then All - Pacific - 8 Mike Scarpace went out with torn knee ligaments and both of the understudies had starting assignments.

Despite the loss of the two starting guards, Southern California remained a two - touchdown favorite to turn back the unpredictable Big 10 club led by sophomores Harry Gonso at quarterback and John Isenbarger at halfback.

Both clubs wind up practice today and go into seclusion awaiting the 2 p.m. kickoff of the nationally televised game which will draw 100,000 to the bowl in Pasadena.

"My goal was just to make this team, let alone be in a starting spot," commented Khasigian, a 215-pounder from Selma, who was recruited as a fullback and played that position with the freshmen last year.

"All I want is a chance to play, to prove myself," declared Born, a 237-pounder from Whittier, who has been hampered by injury during his Trojan career.

Indiana came off a 1-8-1 record to post a 9-1 mark in 1967 and win the right to represent the Big 10. Gonzo completed 67 of 143 passes for 931 yards and nine touchdowns. He rushed for 512 yards as the Hoosiers proved themselves a solid club with a tendency to gamble and throw opposition off stride.

Simpson led the nation in rushing with 1,415 yards in his first season with the Trojans and was runnerup in the balloting for the Heisman Trophy.

USC holds the advantage in weight and some observers believe the outcome could depend on how well the Hoosiers stand up to the pressure in the second half.

Coach John Pont of Indiana feels they will, since "we learned in the first game of the season that we could come from behind and win."

Warriors Bow Again To Chicago

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors, stung by straight road losses to Cincinnati and Chicago, return to friendly Seattle tomorrow afternoon for a game with the Supersonics.

The Warriors whipped the Sonics twice in a row last weekend, one of them on national television. The Sonics, meanwhile, dropped a wild 143-125 game to San Diego in their last outing Thursday.

At Chicago last night, the Bulls snapped a five game losing streak by leading all the way to down the Warriors 107-100. San Francisco narrowed the margin to four points on two occasions in the third quarter and to six points at 89-83 in the final period before Chicago pulled away.

Bob Boozer canned 24 points to lead the Chicago attack. Keith Erickson had 21 and Jerry Sloan chipped in with 19. High for the Warriors was Nate Thurmund with 24 and Fred Hetzel's 16.

CAGE PROSPECTS

Novato On Way Up In Marin League

By GARY TISCHLER

(Third in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

If the Novato Hornets don't win another game, they'll still have reached something of a watershed.

The Hornets already have won six games, four more than they won through an entire season last year.

Now comes the hard part and Coach Bill Aires figures to do a little better there, too.

The Hornets didn't win a league game last year, but they could give a little more trouble to the rest of the league this season and, with some breaks, could be right in the thick of it.

LOSING HABIT

"I think we've overcome the losing habit," Aires said. "That's important. They know they can win some games now."

The Hornets, in fact, won their first three practice games, stumbled in the Drake tourney, lost a couple of heartbreakers in the Yuba City Tournament and have won their last two, bringing them to a 6-4 record.

A big factor in their recent success has been the deadly accurate shooting of guard Steve McNally who has pumped in 87 points in his last four games, hitting close to 50 per cent from the field in the process.

TOUGH PLAYERS

Prior to McNally's emergence, it had been Ed Hernnberger, little (5-9) guard Bob Anderson and center Bob Tait who had carried the Hornets. All of them should be tough in league play.

Tait has been averaging 10 rebounds a game while Herrnberger is averaging 12 points a game.

Anderson, a fast-moving, slick guard, missed a season of play last year because of injury and, as a result, blows hot and cold. He scored 31 points in the Hornets' opener.

"I think we can finish around the middle of the league," Aires said. "Anything else would be gravy."

Seals, Bruins Hit With Fines

MONTREAL (UPI) — There won't be much loose change jingling next week in the pockets of the Oakland Seals who skate against the Montreal Canadiens tonight at the Forum.

In fact, Seals coach Bert Olmstead might have to bum a dime for a cup of coffee. He was fined $250 yesterday by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell for going on the ice during a brawl-filled third period at Boston Christmas night.

Fourteen other Seals, including goalie Gary Smith, were fined $50 each for their part in the fights. The same number of Bruins received similar fines.

CAL LOSES

Bruins Run Away In Cage Tourney

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA's holiday feast is proceeding according to schedule—the Bruins continue to gobble up everything in sight—but Indiana's once-promising menu has turned into a double helping of crow.

The top-rated Bruins made it 41 in a row last night, toying with St. Louis University 108-67 in the semifinal round of the Los Angeles Classic.

The poor Hoosiers, however, unbeaten and rated No. 3 when they landed in Dallas, Tex., for the All-Sports Association Tournament, suffered their second loss in as many games yesterday.

And while the first defeat was administered by a strong Western Kentucky team, the last humilitation was a 91-84 consolation-round setback by Southern Methodist, which hadn't won a game in eight previous starts this season.

UCLA's game was strictly no contest—whict of them is?—as Lucius Allen scored 28 points, Lew Alcindor threw in 26 and St. Louis spent all evening trying to solve a full-court press. The Bruins will meet Wyoming, which beat Iowa 94-87 in two overtimes yesterday, in the tournament final tonight.

Southern Methodist's victory was as complete as it was surprising. The Mustangs took an early lead and never trailed, though Indiana tied the score once in the last half. Bill Voight scored 25 points, Gary Sibley had 23 and Lynn Phillips 21 for SMU, while Joe Cooke topped the Hoosiers with 30.

CAL LOSES

The All-Sports title went to Western Kentucky, which beat California 96-85, while in the consolation round in Los Angeles, fourth rated Tennessee, beaten for the first time by Iowa Thursday night, found some solace in a 78-68 victory over Southern California.

In the Far West tournament at Portland, Ore., fifth-ranked North Carolina squeezed past seventh-rated Utah 86-84. The Tarheels will meet Oregon State in the final tonight as the Beavers edged Washington State 62-61. Stanford nipped Oregon 68-64 in a consolation game.

CLUTCH BASKET

North Carolina trailed all the way, by as many as 17 points in the second half, but tied the game at 84-all on a layup by Larry Miller with a minute left. Charley Scott won the game with a basket with just eight seconds left.

In the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans, La, a final between eighth-ranked Davidson and ninth-rated Vanderbilt was set up for tonight.

Davidson ran into some stalling tactics from Memphis State, but prevailed 51-44 with Mike Maloy scoring 15 points and performing well under the boards.

Vanderbilt trailed Michigan State by a point at the half, but came on strong to win 73-63. Tom Hagan scored 24 points for the winning Commodores, and Lee Lafayette had 25 for the Spartans.

HOUSTON ADVANCES

Second-ranked Houston advanced to the final round of the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, beating Marquette 77-65 as Elvin Hayes scored 45 points and pulled down 16 rebounds.

In the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City, Okla., Brigham Young beat Virginia Tech 97-64 to move into the final round against Oklahoma City, which beat Auburn 78-68.

Georgia won the Triangle Classic at Raleigh, N.C., beating North Carolina State 62-56 and Army edged Yale 50-49 in the consolation round.

Calvin Murphy scored 41 points in leading Niagara to a 113-82 victory over Valparaiso and into the final of the Motor City tournament in Detroit against Detroit, which beat Portland 80-69.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

Your backswing should be straight, and the best way to make sure is to keep the ball close to your body at all times. This will make it less likely that you will let the ball lopp behind you. If the ball does loop, you will find it difficult to bring it forward in a smooth, accurate motion. If a bad backswing is your problem, I'd also suggest cutting it down. You'll be surprised how little swing is needed for an effective strike ball.

USF Gains Cage Final At Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Texas A&M and the University of San Francisco Dons shot their way into the title contest in the third annual Seattle American Legion basketball tournament last night with victories over Seattle University and Colorado State.

Texas A&M rallied in the final two minutes of play to upend the defending champion Seattle Chieftains 80-72.

The tourney favorites from San Francisco put on a scoring exhibition in the second half to overpower Colorado State 81-65.

Seattle, which has won the championship each year, meets Colorado State today in the consolation game.

TEXAS ATTACK

Mike Heitman scored 21 points to lead the Texas Aggies attack, while Tommy Little paced the losers with 26.

The Aggies broke away to a 10-point lead in the first six minutes but had to fight off Seattle rallies that tied the score five times in the second half.

Dennis Black paced the Dons with 18 points in the first half and another 9 in the Second. The game was tied 35-35 at the half.

Lloyd Kerr led the losing Colorado State Rams with 15 points.

Cowboy Boot Worries LSU Tigers In The Sugar Bowl

By BILL NEIKIRK

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Mention "place kick" to Louisiana State Football coach Charles McClendon and you automatically hit a sore spot. Inability to make crucial extra points and field goals cost his team a possible undefeated season.

With LSU ready to meet undefeated Wyoming in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1, McClendon is again concerned with the place kick—not so much by his team as with Wyoming's ability to make them.

The player causing the conconcern is Cowboy kicking specialist Jerry Depoyster, a 196-pound, 6-foot-2 senior from Bellevue, Neb., one of the best place kickers in college football.

MAKES A LOT

"Depoyster has missed a few," McClendon said. "But it's obvious from all those points he's scored that he makes a lot. He is a dangerous weapon."

To counteract that weapon, the LSU coach has instructed his squad to prepare to dig in at the 40-yard line.

"Depoyster seems at his best when he's farthest from the goal post," he said.

Depoyster, who also punts, holds a host of Western Athletic Conference and NCAA records with his place kicking.

As a sophomore, he scored 45 points with his toe. He led the nation's kickers with 71 points his junior year and tallied 66 this season—hitting on 21 of 31 extra points and 15 of 37 field goals.

LONG RANGE

Wyoming officials point out that Depoyster's accuracy would have been better if he had been allowed to kick from normal ranges like most place kickers. But many Depoyster place kicks came from field positions that normally require a punt—as far as 50 yards out.

LSU's sophomore placekicker, Roy Hurd, also boots them from long ranges but has had tough luck this season in clutch situations.

The Tigers needed only 10 points for an undefeated, united season. LSU lost one game and tied another because extra point kicks failed. The other two losses came after field goal tries from moderate ranges failed.

That left LSU with a 6-3-1 record and the nickname of The Toeless Tigers.

A crowd of 75,000 is expected for the Sugar Bowl game, which will begin at 11 a.m., PST. The contest will be televised by NBC.

How Raiders Almost Had Houston Ace

OAKLAND (AP) — Hoyle Granger, who could be the difference if the Houston Oilers defeat the Oakland Raiders tomorrow for the American Football League championship, might have been a Raider.

Al Davis, managing general partner of the Raiders, told about it yesterday. He said he sent Wayne Valley, Oakland co-owner, to an AFL draft meeting with explicit instructions to sign Granger, a husky young fullback for Mississippi State. Valley didn't. Houston did.

Meantime, Oakland acquired tight end Hewritt Dixon from Denver and converted him to a sometimes slashing, sometimes powerful fullback.

He improved steadily. While the Raiders held Granger to 78 yards at Houston three weeks ago in a 19-7 victory, Dixon scored Oakland's lone touchdown on a 27-yard explosive burst.

Dixon has rushed 153 times for 559 yards and caught 59 passes for 563 this season. Granger had 1,194 yards on 237 carries and caught 31 passes for 300 yards.

"If any two fullbacks in pro football are comparable," Davis remarked. "They are Dixon and Granger. Both are strong runners and good receivers."

Davis doesn't sound too disappointed at having lost Granger.

"What could we do with two fullbacks?" he asked.

S.F. Skier Killed At Baldy Mountain

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI)—Ed Kendrick Jr., 30, Yakima, Wash., and San Francisco, died yesterday from a multiple skull fracture after a fall on Sun Valley's famed Baldy Mountain ski run.

Kendrick, who had been working at the ski resort during the Christmas holidays, operated a San Francisco art studio.

A spokesman for the ski resort said Kendrick was "skiing completely out of control" and smashed into a hard-packed area of snow at the entrance to a lodge.

ORANGE BOWL

Tennessee Favored Over Oklahoma '11'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — If the Orange Bowl football game Monday night is so close it has to be decided by a kick—a field goal or a conversion—all the odds are with Tennessee over Oklahoma.

The second-ranked Volunteers have one of the nation's top place kicking specialists in Karl Kremser, a frail, soccer-style booter whose family fled Communist East Germany in 1951.

Kremser not only is a consistent kicker—his record is 10 of 15 field goal attempts and 30 of 32 extra point tries, 17 in a row—but no distance seems out of reach for him.

"It wouldn't surprise us if he kicked one from midfield," said Bob Johnson, Tennessee's All-American offensive center. "He has had three of 55 yards in practice and one 64-yarder. Nothing he does surprises us."

Oklahoma's place kicker is Mike Vachon, a six-foot, 193-pound junior from Amarillo, Tex. Vachon has connected on only 3 of 13 field goal attempts and has missed 11 of 36 tries for the extra point.

So Oklahoma, a 6½ point underdog, hopes that the game doesn't get down to the foot for a decision.

SOCCER STYLE

Kremser's soccer-style place kicks figured in three of the Volunteers' nine triumphs this season. A 47-yarder against Alabama gave Tennessee a 10-0 lead that forced the Tide into a frantic passing game that resulted in a 24-13 loss. He booted two against Mississippi and a 33-yarder in the final minute to beat Louisiana State 17-14.

Kremser attended West Point a while but didn't like it and decided to cast his lot with Tennessee after watching the Vols beat Syracuse in the Gator Bowl last year.

He weighed only 150 pounds and was a track specialist, a 6-foot, 10-inch high jumper, when he reported to Coach Doug Dickey's football squad.

Dickey didn't think much of the wiry youngster until he saw him pumping kicks over the cross-bar. Then he was convinced.

WEIGHT LIFTER

Kremser added pounds lifting weights. He got his chance when Tennessee's regular kicker, Gary Wright, hurt his knee in the UCLA game at the start of the season.

Tennessee's ace pass receiver, Richmond Flowers, was bedded with a respiratory infection and missed yesterday's practice. Coach Dickey said, "We hope it isn't the flu. We think he'll be ready Monday. We don't want to take chances."

Tailback Walter Chadwick, with a bad ankle, was running normally but Elliott Gammage, Tennessee's regular offensive tackle, was bothered by a pulled muscle in the thigh. Jerry Holloway was named to start in his place. Oklahoma's safety man, Jerry Barrett, with a sprained ankle, was still on the questionable list.

Aerial Fireworks Seen In Cotton Bowl Classic

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The passers—and there will be two great ones going in the Cotton Bowl Monday—will get the most attention. But a couple of gifted receivers are the guys who make them tick like they do.

Both are quite versatile, since they return punts and run with the ball in the clinch if needed.

Dennis Homan, Alabama's split end, is an All-America. He is one of two All-Americas who will be seen when Alabama plays Texas A&M. Billy Hobbs, the Aggie linebacker, is the other.

Bob Long of the Aggies is a wingback but corresponds more to flanker.

Both have great seasons behind them and a check of the game-by-game reports shows they have been among the most prominent in the drive of each team that led to the Cotton Bowl.

Homan is the favorite receiver of Ken Stabler, Alabama quarterback, one of the ace passers who will be seen in the big game. Stabler has thrown to Homan almost as much as all other Alabama pass-receivers put together.

Edd Hargett, the A&M quarterback, has pitched to Long less than half as much as Stabler to Homan, but his results are probably more spectacular than those of the Alabama split end.

Homan caught 54 passes for 820 yards and nine touchdowns. He returned 11 punts for 108 yards. He is used on punt returns because he is such a good runner he's likely to go all the way at any time.

Long caught 24 passes for 541 yards and eight touchdowns, returned a kickoff 26 yards and took back eight punts for 94 yards.

THE VIOLENT THINKER

Ben Davidson, the Oakland Raiders' violent, mammoth 265-pound defensive end twirls his handlebar mustache, just like in the movies, as he ponders a question during a press conference prior to the Raiders' game in Oakland against the Houston Oilers for the AFL football championship.

CAL LOSES

Bruins Run Away In Cage Tourney

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA's holiday feast is proceeding according to schedule—the Bruins continue to gobble up everything in sight—but Indiana's once-promising menu has turned into a double helping of crow.

The top-rated Bruins made it 41 in a row last night, toying with St. Louis University 108-67 in the semifinal round of the Los Angeles Classic.

The poor Hoosiers, however, unbeaten and rated No. 3 when they landed in Dallas, Tex., for the All-Sports Association Tournament, suffered their second loss in as many games yesterday.

And while the first defeat was administered by a strong Western Kentucky team, the last humilitation was a 91-84 consolation-round setback by Southern Methodist, which hadn't won a game in eight previous starts this season.

UCLA's game was strictly no contest—whict of them is?—as Lucius Allen scored 28 points, Lew Alcindor threw in 26 and St. Louis spent all evening trying to solve a full-court press. The Bruins will meet Wyoming, which beat Iowa 94-87 in two overtimes yesterday, in the tournament final tonight.

Southern Methodist's victory was as complete as it was surprising. The Mustangs took an early lead and never trailed, though Indiana tied the score once in the last half. Bill Voight scored 25 points, Gary Sibley had 23 and Lynn Phillips 21 for SMU, while Joe Cooke topped the Hoosiers with 30.

CAL LOSES

The All-Sports title went to Western Kentucky, which beat California 96-85, while in the consolation round in Los Angeles, fourth rated Tennessee, beaten for the first time by Iowa Thursday night, found some solace in a 78-68 victory over Southern California.

In the Far West tournament at Portland, Ore., fifth-ranked North Carolina squeezed past seventh-rated Utah 86-84. The Tarheels will meet Oregon State in the final tonight as the Beavers edged Washington State 62-61. Stanford nipped Oregon 68-64 in a consolation game.

CLUTCH BASKET

North Carolina trailed all the way, by as many as 17 points in the second half, but tied the game at 84-all on a layup by Larry Miller with a minute left. Charley Scott won the game with a basket with just eight seconds left.

In the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans, La, a final between eighth-ranked Davidson and ninth-rated Vanderbilt was set up for tonight.

Davidson ran into some stalling tactics from Memphis State, but prevailed 51-44 with Mike Maloy scoring 15 points and performing well under the boards.

Vanderbilt trailed Michigan State by a point at the half, but came on strong to win 73-63. Tom Hagan scored 24 points for the winning Commodores, and Lee Lafayette had 25 for the Spartans.

HOUSTON ADVANCES

Second-ranked Houston advanced to the final round of the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, beating Marquette 77-65 as Elvin Hayes scored 45 points and pulled down 16 rebounds.

In the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City, Okla., Brigham Young beat Virginia Tech 97-64 to move into the final round against Oklahoma City, which beat Auburn 78-68.

Georgia won the Triangle Classic at Raleigh, N.C., beating North Carolina State 62-56 and Army edged Yale 50-49 in the consolation round.

Calvin Murphy scored 41 points in leading Niagara to a 113-82 victory over Valparaiso and into the final of the Motor City tournament in Detroit against Detroit, which beat Portland 80-69.

CAGE PROSPECTS

Novato On Way Up In Marin League

By GARY TISCHLER

(Third in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

If the Novato Hornets don't win another game, they'll still have reached something of a watershed.

The Hornets already have won six games, four more than they won through an entire season last year.

Now comes the hard part and Coach Bill Aires figures to do a little better there, too.

The Hornets didn't win a league game last year, but they could give a little more trouble to the rest of the league this season and, with some breaks, could be right in the thick of it.

LOSING HABIT

"I think we've overcome the losing habit," Aires said. "That's important. They know they can win some games now."

The Hornets, in fact, won their first three practice games, stumbled in the Drake tourney, lost a couple of heartbreakers in the Yuba City Tournament and have won their last two, bringing them to a 6-4 record.

A big factor in their recent success has been the deadly accurate shooting of guard Steve McNally who has pumped in 87 points in his last four games, hitting close to 50 per cent from the field in the process.

TOUGH PLAYERS

Prior to McNally's emergence, it had been Ed Hernnberger, little (5-9) guard Bob Anderson and center Bob Tait who had carried the Hornets. All of them should be tough in league play.

Tait has been averaging 10 rebounds a game while Herrnberger is averaging 12 points a game.

Anderson, a fast-moving, slick guard, missed a season of play last year because of injury and, as a result, blows hot and cold. He scored 31 points in the Hornets' opener.

"I think we can finish around the middle of the league," Aires said. "Anything else would be gravy."

Seals, Bruins Hit With Fines

MONTREAL (UPI) — There won't be much loose change jingling next week in the pockets of the Oakland Seals who skate against the Montreal Canadiens tonight at the Forum.

In fact, Seals coach Bert Olmstead might have to bum a dime for a cup of coffee. He was fined $250 yesterday by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell for going on the ice during a brawl-filled third period at Boston Christmas night.

Fourteen other Seals, including goalie Gary Smith, were fined $50 each for their part in the fights. The same number of Bruins received similar fines.

Free Agents Can Jump To The AFL

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Professional football has no legal weapon to keep players from jumping between the two major leagues after playing out their options, says commissioner Pete Rozelle.

But both the American and National Football leagues will soon have an arrangement to assure just compensation for the team which loses a player to the other circuit, Rozelle said.

Such an arrangement is already in effect within, but not between, the two leagues.

Rozelle, in Green Bay to check on preparations for Sunday's NFL championship game, spoke at a news conference yesterday before flying on to Oakland for the AFL title game there Sunday.

Rozelle noted that once a player becomes a free agent after his option expires, he is free to make the best possible deal for himself.

"If we were to say you can't go, the player can turn around and ask, 'Well then, what's the option?' You have to let them go . . . There's only one way to stop them, and I won't permit it. It's blacklisting."

Rozelle said an arrangement would probably be implemented soon to assure compensation for the time and money a team invested in the player's development.

At least three NFL players reportedly played out their options this season. They include Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns and George Mira and Dave Parks of San Francisco.

BOWLING TIPS
By MARION LADEWIG

Your backswing should be straight, and the best way to make sure is to keep the ball close to your body at all times. This will make it less likely that you will let the ball lopp behind you. If the ball does loop, you will find it difficult to bring it forward in a smooth, accurate motion. If a bad backswing is your problem, I'd also suggest cutting it down. You'll be surprised how little swing is needed for an effective strike ball.

USF Gains Cage Final At Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Texas A&M and the University of San Francisco Dons shot their way into the title contest in the third annual Seattle American Legion basketball tournament last night with victories over Seattle University and Colorado State.

Texas A&M rallied in the final two minutes of play to upend the defending champion Seattle Chieftains 80-72.

The tourney favorites from San Francisco put on a scoring exhibition in the second half to overpower Colorado State 81-65.

Seattle, which has won the championship each year, meets Colorado State today in the consolation game.

TEXAS ATTACK

Mike Heitman scored 21 points to lead the Texas Aggies attack, while Tommy Little paced the losers with 26.

The Aggies broke away to a 10-point lead in the first six minutes but had to fight off Seattle rallies that tied the score five times in the second half.

Dennis Black paced the Dons with 18 points in the first half and another 9 in the Second. The game was tied 35-35 at the half.

Lloyd Kerr led the losing Colorado State Rams with 15 points.

Cowboy Boot Worries LSU Tigers In The Sugar Bowl

By BILL NEIKIRK

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Mention "place kick" to Louisiana State Football coach Charles McClendon and you automatically hit a sore spot. Inability to make crucial extra points and field goals cost his team a possible undefeated season.

With LSU ready to meet undefeated Wyoming in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1, McClendon is again concerned with the place kick—not so much by his team as with Wyoming's ability to make them.

The player causing the conconcern is Cowboy kicking specialist Jerry Depoyster, a 196-pound, 6-foot-2 senior from Bellevue, Neb., one of the best place kickers in college football.

MAKES A LOT

"Depoyster has missed a few," McClendon said. "But it's obvious from all those points he's scored that he makes a lot. He is a dangerous weapon."

To counteract that weapon, the LSU coach has instructed his squad to prepare to dig in at the 40-yard line.

"Depoyster seems at his best when he's farthest from the goal post," he said.

Depoyster, who also punts, holds a host of Western Athletic Conference and NCAA records with his place kicking.

As a sophomore, he scored 45 points with his toe. He led the nation's kickers with 71 points his junior year and tallied 66 this season—hitting on 21 of 31 extra points and 15 of 37 field goals.

LONG RANGE

Wyoming officials point out that Depoyster's accuracy would have been better if he had been allowed to kick from normal ranges like most place kickers. But many Depoyster place kicks came from field positions that normally require a punt—as far as 50 yards out.

LSU's sophomore placekicker, Roy Hurd, also boots them from long ranges but has had tough luck this season in clutch situations.

The Tigers needed only 10 points for an undefeated, united season. LSU lost one game and tied another because extra point kicks failed. The other two losses came after field goal tries from moderate ranges failed.

That left LSU with a 6-3-1 record and the nickname of The Toeless Tigers.

A crowd of 75,000 is expected for the Sugar Bowl game, which will begin at 11 a.m., PST. The contest will be televised by NBC.

How Raiders Almost Had Houston Ace

OAKLAND (AP) — Hoyle Granger, who could be the difference if the Houston Oilers defeat the Oakland Raiders tomorrow for the American Football League championship, might have been a Raider.

Al Davis, managing general partner of the Raiders, told about it yesterday. He said he sent Wayne Valley, Oakland co-owner, to an AFL draft meeting with explicit instructions to sign Granger, a husky young fullback for Mississippi State. Valley didn't. Houston did.

Meantime, Oakland acquired tight end Hewritt Dixon from Denver and converted him to a sometimes slashing, sometimes powerful fullback.

He improved steadily. While the Raiders held Granger to 78 yards at Houston three weeks ago in a 19-7 victory, Dixon scored Oakland's lone touchdown on a 27-yard explosive burst.

Dixon has rushed 153 times for 559 yards and caught 59 passes for 563 this season. Granger had 1,194 yards on 237 carries and caught 31 passes for 300 yards.

"If any two fullbacks in pro football are comparable," Davis remarked. "They are Dixon and Granger. Both are strong runners and good receivers."

Davis doesn't sound too disappointed at having lost Granger.

"What could we do with two fullbacks?" he asked.

Novato Woman Is Top Bowler

Nita Moore of Novato is holder of the season's high women's bowling series at Nave Lanes, a 666 three-gamer rolled on Sept. 11.

A story in Wednesday's Independent-Journal incorrectly gave high score credit to Lu Sharp's 614 series.

S.F. Skier Killed At Baldy Mountain

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI)—Ed Kendrick Jr., 30, Yakima, Wash., and San Francisco, died yesterday from a multiple skull fracture after a fall on Sun Valley's famed Baldy Mountain ski run.

Kendrick, who had been working at the ski resort during the Christmas holidays, operated a San Francisco art studio.

A spokesman for the ski resort said Kendrick was "skiing completely out of control" and smashed into a hard-packed area of snow at the entrance to a lodge.

ORANGE BOWL

Tennessee Favored Over Oklahoma '11'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — If the Orange Bowl football game Monday night is so close it has to be decided by a kick—a field goal or a conversion—all the odds are with Tennessee over Oklahoma.

The second-ranked Volunteers have one of the nation's top place kicking specialists in Karl Kremser, a frail, soccer-style booter whose family fled Communist East Germany in 1951.

Kremser not only is a consistent kicker—his record is 10 of 15 field goal attempts and 30 of 32 extra point tries, 17 in a row—but no distance seems out of reach for him.

"It wouldn't surprise us if he kicked one from midfield," said Bob Johnson, Tennessee's All-American offensive center. "He has had three of 55 yards in practice and one 64-yarder. Nothing he does surprises us."

Oklahoma's place kicker is Mike Vachon, a six-foot, 193-pound junior from Amarillo, Tex. Vachon has connected on only 3 of 13 field goal attempts and has missed 11 of 36 tries for the extra point.

So Oklahoma, a 6½ point underdog, hopes that the game doesn't get down to the foot for a decision.

SOCCER STYLE

Kremser's soccer-style place kicks figured in three of the Volunteers' nine triumphs this season. A 47-yarder against Alabama gave Tennessee a 10-0 lead that forced the Tide into a frantic passing game that resulted in a 24-13 loss. He booted two against Mississippi and a 33-yarder in the final minute to beat Louisiana State 17-14.

Kremser attended West Point a while but didn't like it and decided to cast his lot with Tennessee after watching the Vols beat Syracuse in the Gator Bowl last year.

He weighed only 150 pounds and was a track specialist, a 6-foot, 10-inch high jumper, when he reported to Coach Doug Dickey's football squad.

Dickey didn't think much of the wiry youngster until he saw him pumping kicks over the cross-bar. Then he was convinced.

WEIGHT LIFTER

Kremser added pounds lifting weights. He got his chance when Tennessee's regular kicker, Gary Wright, hurt his knee in the UCLA game at the start of the season.

Tennessee's ace pass receiver, Richmond Flowers, was bedded with a respiratory infection and missed yesterday's practice. Coach Dickey said, "We hope it isn't the flu. We think he'll be ready Monday. We don't want to take chances."

Tailback Walter Chadwick, with a bad ankle, was running normally but Elliott Gammage, Tennessee's regular offensive tackle, was bothered by a pulled muscle in the thigh. Jerry Holloway was named to start in his place. Oklahoma's safety man, Jerry Barrett, with a sprained ankle, was still on the questionable list.

Aerial Fireworks Seen In Cotton Bowl Classic

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The passers—and there will be two great ones going in the Cotton Bowl Monday—will get the most attention. But a couple of gifted receivers are the guys who make them tick like they do.

Both are quite versatile, since they return punts and run with the ball in the clinch if needed.

Dennis Homan, Alabama's split end, is an All-America. He is one of two All-Americas who will be seen when Alabama plays Texas A&M. Billy Hobbs, the Aggie linebacker, is the other.

Bob Long of the Aggies is a wingback but corresponds more to flanker.

Both have great seasons behind them and a check of the game-by-game reports shows they have been among the most prominent in the drive of each team that led to the Cotton Bowl.

Homan is the favorite receiver of Ken Stabler, Alabama quarterback, one of the ace passers who will be seen in the big game. Stabler has thrown to Homan almost as much as all other Alabama pass-receivers put together.

Edd Hargett, the A&M quarterback, has pitched to Long less than half as much as Stabler to Homan, but his results are probably more spectacular than those of the Alabama split end.

Homan caught 54 passes for 820 yards and nine touchdowns. He returned 11 punts for 108 yards. He is used on punt returns because he is such a good runner he's likely to go all the way at any time.

Long caught 24 passes for 541 yards and eight touchdowns, returned a kickoff 26 yards and took back eight punts for 94 yards.

LIGHTING THE MENORAH

Stephanie Barnes, daughter of the Burton Barnes of Tiburon, lights the Menorah with the chamus, center top candle of the Menorah in celebration of Chanukah, the Jewish Festival of Lights, which ends on Tuesday. Joining her at the table are her parents and younger brother, Mark. The Barnes' silver Menorah is about 150 years old and was buried when the Germans invaded Poland in 1939. It was returned to Mrs. Barnes' family three years ago. The family belongs to the Kol Shofar Congregation of San Rafael.

REFLECTIONS

Time Does Have A Taming Hand

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The approach of a new year prompts reflection on the strange dimension of existence called time.

Poets and other wise men have always recognized that time is both a bane and a blessing.

John Milton called time "the subtle thief of youth."

That description requires no explanation to anyone over 21. It has a double meaning for middle aged parents, who have learned that time turns children into teen-agers, and teen-agers into young adults who go away to attend college or marry or serve in Vietnam.

And it all happens so quickly. "his golden locks time had to silver turned," wrote George Peele in the 16th century. "O time too swift! O swiftness never ceasing!"

But time does not move swiftly for everyone. As William Shakespeare noted, it "moves in diverse paces with diverse persons." For some it ambles, for some it trots, for some it gallops, and for some it seems to stand still. Those for whom it gallops may rue, with George Burns, the fact that "no man can tether time or tide." But time is most burdensome to those who find it lying heavy on their hands, and are constantly seeking ways to "kill" it.

There are also good things to be said about time.

As Hippocrates pointed out 24 centuries ago, time is a great healer of wounds — emotional as well as physical ones. It puts in perspective many problems and hardships which on first view seem insupportable. It teaches us lessons about ourselves, about others and about life. And even though it does not always make us wise, it enables us to outgrow at least some of our follies. "Time," said Cardinal Newman, "hath a taming hand."

The most important fact about time, from the human viewpoint, is that it is limited. At first glance, this might seem to belong on the debit side. But many thoughtful people have come to see it as a blessing.

It is the very fact that our days are numbered — that we have a finite period of time in which to do whatever we're going to do in this world — that gives urgency to our choices, dignity to our sacrifices, and meaning to our lives. In other words, it is death that makes life precious.

Most people don't like to think about death. And of course it isn't a good idea to become morbidly preoccupied with it. But a healthy awareness of our mortality can help us to savor each day with the delight and gratitude appropriate to the knowledge that we had no right to count on reaching it and cannot be absolutely sure of seeing another.

Much fuzzy thinking about time stems from a misunderstanding of the eternal life which is promised in the Bible to those who love the Lord and serve mankind.

Eternal life is not a synonym for endless time. As used in the scriptures, it signifies a transition, the nature of which human imagination cannot encompass, from time-conditioned existence in the world of nature to a realm beyond time and space which is the habitation of the God who was, and is, and ever shall be.

For those who believe the promise, this is the ultimate fact about time: We shall not always be chained to it.

Maturing Assemblyman Shaping Into Statesman

WILLIAM T. BAGLEY, who represents all of Marin and most of Sonoma County in the State Legislature is not the same man today that he was when first elected seven years ago.

In those days he was sometimes erratic, sometimes abrasive, always overly effusive.

At the end of the first legislative session in which he participated, it was evident that he nevertheless was capable of representing his constituents effectively. Of the 46 bills he introduced in that first session, 17 were passed and became law — an unusually high total for a freshman legislator. One of those bills resulted in extension of daylight saving time — a proposal which often and regularly had died when previously brought before the Legislature.

In spite of this rather remarkable record, many of us did not foresee a great future for Assemblyman Bagley. We expected he would wear disadvantageously on his fellow legislators and his influence would be more likely to decline than to grow.

He was openly critical — sometimes caustically critical — of Assembly Speaker Jesse (Big Daddy) Unruh.

Unruh responded by using his great power to "cut Bagley down to his right size." But Bagley was too ebullient and effervescent ever to be humbled by Unruh.

OVER THE YEARS Bagley has stubbed his toe politically a time or two. He once made an unfortunate public reference to "ticky-tacky houses" at Terra Linda which kicked up a minor political storm. He joined with two other Republican assemblymen supporting George Christopher for the Republican nomination for governor in a widely publicized appeal to Ronald Reagan to drop out of the race — which Reagan ultimately won.

Bagley suffered through a period of embarrassing domestic problems.

He even got a ticket for fishing without a license.

The young Bagley who went to Sacramento for the first time seven years ago was quite capable of all these political foot-in-mouth performances and many of us thought it would become worse.

But Bagley is not the same man today.

EACH YEAR DURING the period between Christmas and New Year's, the Independent-Journal invites Marin's representatives in the State Legislature to drop into the I-J office for an extended discussion of what's ahead in the legislative session about to start at Sacramento.

These discussions are the basis for several news stories on what our Marin assemblyman and senator foresee in the months ahead.

It was a different Bagley who met with us this year.

He is approaching his 40th birthday. He weighs more; his waistline is getting a fortyish look. His hair is longer. Gone is the boyish crew cut of yesteryear. And his hair is thinner.

He still enjoys a bit of horseplay on occasion, but not the steady stream of foolishness of his younger days.

Today he is a mature man beginning to emerge as an effective leader.

He obviously has reached some kind of accommodation with Speaker Unruh, for Unruh has appointed Bagley chairman of the powerful and influential Assembly Judiciary Committee. Unruh also has named Bagley to the prestigious Judicial Council.

IN EARLIER TIMES, Bagley's concern with the approach of a new legislative session seemed principally with those things of special local interest in his district. He pledged his efforts to the conservation project most popular in Marin and to the solution of the agricultural problem most objectionable to Sonoma constituents.

It's different now.

Bagley exhibits a rather thorough grasp of the state's major problems. He sees the "big picture" and is more concerned with it.

He knows now that he cannot expect to "win 'em all." But he knows that if he works hard enough, he can win some that others of less diligence would think impossible to win.

("Win" is used in the sense of successfully pushing through some bit of long overdue, constructive legislation which doesn't appear to have much chance of passage.)

SOME OF THE THINGS he has accomplished in the past couple of years and many of the things he plans to work for in the immediate future are matters of state-wide importance and concern, as distinguished from purely local matters to woo his constituency.

Now he discusses the knotty problems of state finances, taxes, relief to the overburdened property taxpayer, taking politics out of judicial appointment, reforming the process for selecting state inheritance tax appraisers, fighting secrecy at all levels of government, along with problems of education, mental health, medical care, and what is euphemistically called "social welfare."

Bagley is still intensely interested, of course, in helping to solve local, district problems, too. But these no longer seem to be his sole concerns.

IN SOME RESPECTS he may be "ahead of his time."

He is quite probably the first Republican to recognize the unpopular fact that financial assistance from the suburbs is inevitably going to be necessary to help provide a solution to the crisis of decaying inner cities.

He is even aware that suburban areas tend to elect Republican legislators who accurately reflect the majority view of the suburbs: "The cities' problems are not our concern."

Bagley has been among the first to see beyond this short-sighted view. Hopefully, he will steer his GOP colleagues to enlightenment — and then to effective, albeit unpopular, action.

IN SACRAMENTO the term "statesman" is often used facetiously, with opprobrium.

This is unfortunate. Sacramento needs a word which means statesman in its earlier, finer sense to describe men who rise above petty politics and short-sighted self-interest.

Bagley has demonstrated that he can criticize his closest associates and battle them over the issue without losing their respect.

Our assemblyman is on his way to becoming a statesman. Since he is not yet 40, he still has plenty of time to make it. It's a good bet that he will.

'Cancel Permission To Kill Eagles'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A few days ago you ran a picture of what seemed, on first glance, to be some publicity seeking, local rustic, displaying with pride a magnificent golden eagle he had murdered.

On reading further, it proved to be a local, Point Reyes sheep farmer named Mr. Leroy Martinelli. The reason given is that he claims three eagles have been attacking his sheep, and that he somehow obtained a permit to kill them. Despite the many ranches around, this problem seems to be unique to Mr. Martinelli.

Just what evidence, if any, he produced of actual loss of sheep is not mentioned. That an eagle may attack and kill a lamb is possible; but tales of rampaging eagles killing sheep, etc. belong in the same category as flying dragons, man-eating wolves, unicorns, etc. . .

Personally I think such an eagle-killing permit should be cancelled and the following done:

1. A investigation made into the methods used, and precautions taken, by Mr. Martinelli in his sheep raising. Sheep, during lambing season, are usually kept in a protected area and given aid and surveillance during the lambing season . . .

2. If it is determined that he is making reasonably human efforts to competently care for his sheep and it is clearly proved that losses are occurring due to eagles, they could be trapped and moved to another location. In addition Mr. Martinelli could be compensated for losses he could prove, if any . . .

It is tragic indeed that the short-sighted interests of a very few farmers are allowed to contribute to the further destruction of the few remaining eagles.

time finding anything good to say about the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors and management — but finally has found something which tends to make them look good.

Even they deserve at least one gold star a year.

The cause for all this good cheer is a report by the district's auditor that the district has subsidized Greyhound Lines' operation to Marin and other North Bay counties to the tune of more than $360,000 since March 15, 1965. That is a substantial contribution to help relieve commuter congestion.

IT WAS EARLY in 1965 that the district managed to forestall Greyhound's application for a fare hike by lowering the toll for buses from $1 to 13 cents.

According to the report, by auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren, the revenue loss for all buses was $379,403 just to Oct. 31, with total actual revenue from all buses during the 19-month period at $61,362.

This huge subsidy to Greyhound — more than $17,000 a month — should be considered by the state Public Utilities Commission when it hears Greyhound's newest application for a 50 per cent fare hike.

Credit for the subsidy belongs to bridge district director Thomas D. Hardcastle of Marin, who engineered it in a three-way agreement among the district, Greyhound and the commission.

THE DISTRICT'S revenue loss is even greater than it appears, since most of the bus riders would be paying 13 cents each if they drove their own vehicles to work.

The subsidy, of course, comes from the commuters' pocketbooks — a pot of gold which Greyhound apparently regards as bottomless.

Interested commuters who can spare some time might attend the public utilities commission's pre-hearing conference at 10 a.m. on Jan. 10 at 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. These conferences often are closed to the public, but a commission spokesman assured the Independent-Journal that this one will be open.

BACK YARD BURNING, one of the last great freedoms of the homeowner, may be in for another attack by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

"Elimination of this practice is presently being studied," a recent district publication said. A district spokesman said the staff will report the findings of its study in three to four months. At that time, public hearings will be held by the district board of directors on proposals to tighten control over back yard burning.

"The economic aspects as well as the pollution aspects" will be considered in the staff study, the spokesman promised.

REP. DON H. CLAUSEN'S December "Washington Report" concluded with a year-end plea from a constituent: "Please don't improve my lot any further, congressman — I just can't afford it."

Russ Ready Missile For Satellite Defense

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — One of the big events of the coming year is quite likely to be Soviet announcement of an operational anti-satellite missile. U.S. military-space experts rate such a Russian break-through as entirely possible within the next two or three months, and as a certainty before the end of 1968.

Their reasons are fairly simple. An enormous proportion of the Russian defense budget, around 25 per cent, has regularly been spent on air defense since 1960. This has been increased to 35 per cent or more if all components of the air defense weapons are included.

The main reason for the increase in known to be the heavy investment in the development of an anti-satellite missile as part of an improved Soviet anti-missile missile defense system.

RUSSIAN announcement of the development of an offensive space weapon, the orbital bomb, is another reason.

The U.S. intelligence study pointed out that the orbital bomb was the "offensive" weapon in a new Soviet missile-satellite package. The "defensive" weapon in this package, it stated, was the new anti-satellite missile.

FIRE FROM BELOW — A "rim of fire" appears to be slowly developing around Antarctica. This is the startling finding of scientists from Argentina, Chile and Great Britain, forced earlier this month to flee Deception Island because of the eruption of an extinct volcano.

According to the National Science Foundation the Deception Island eruption is the third known active volcano on the rim of Antarctica. Two of the active volcanoes were discovered within the past 11 months. Until last January, only known volcano in that region was Mount Erebus, the 13,000-foot peak on Ross Island, not too far from McMurdo Station, the U.S. base that serves as chief research site and staging area for all major Antarctica expeditions.

Last January, New Zealand geologists reported discovery of a second active volcano on the rim of Antarctica. That was 8,500-foot-high Mount Melbourne.

Then on Dec. 4 came the most recent report, from scientific teams from Argentina, Chile and Britain, that an extict volcano had begun to erupt on Deception Island, which lies 600 miles south of Cape Horn on the southern tip of South America.

FLYING SAUCERS — The public will have to wait another year for the Air Force's scientific views on flying saucers. That is the latest estimate of Dr. Edward U. Condon, the noted scientist who heads a blue-ribbon panel investigating unidentified flying objects.

In his latest report to the Air Force, which is paying for the UFO study, Dr. Condon asked for an extension of time for his panel to complete its work.

The Air Force, in awarding the contract to Condon's panel in 1966, set Feb. 1, 1968, as the deadline for the scientists to report their findings. That date has now been extended to the end of 1968.

One of the latest group of sightings being probed by the Condon panel are the "fiery crosses" that appeared over Great Britain recently. These bright objects were seen by numerous persons from both the air and the ground.

1967, Despite Its Riots, Produced Gains For Negro

History will remember 1967 as the year of the United States' most severe riots.

Many misguided people will look back on the 1967 riots as being an expression of militancy. But what kind of "militancy" is it when innocent people are killed in the streets or at their windows?

But too much has already been said about the negative aspects of the year. Despite the violence, the backlash, and the many casualties, 1967 had some positive elements.

Some of these were related to the riots. Perhaps for the first time, white Americans became fully conscious of the hostility and anger in the ghetto.

IT'S BETTER to have the hate on both sides out in the open where it can be dealt with.

Another positive element was the realization by top business leaders that the widespread riots threatened the future of our nation, and that they had to help eradicate the slums and poverty which breed discontent.

Some of the measures taken by business-leaders are very impressive, especially when measured against the indifference of the past. The auto companies went into Detroit's ghetto to hire people who might not otherwise have qualified for jobs. Other companies built plants in the ghetto. The Insurance industry pledged a billion dollars in investments in the ghetto.

WITH CONGRESS turning its back on social action, it has become more necessary than ever for private interests to pull their weight. A sign of the times is surely the recent speech by Arjay Miller, president of Ford Motor Co., in which he called for a negative income tax whereby no family would fall below the poverty line.

Another hopeful sign was the election of Carl Stokes as mayor of Cleveland and Richard Hatcher as mayor of Gary. Never before have Negroes been elected to the top postitions of such major cities, and they did it with the help of votes from enlighted white citizens.

The lesson to be drawn from that is obvious. When Negroes join with allies from the majority white population behind sound men with positve programs, progress will take place. Few cities were as divided as Cleveland and Gary, yet neither had riots. In both citiets, Empty cries of "black power" gave way to meaningful "people power." That's the way to bring about change. It works, and innocent people don't get killed.

All the timepieces belong to the owner of the cafeteria who has collected them over the years. He now owns more than 300 clocks. They range from a tiny "Black Forest" cuckoo to a 7-foot-tall grandfather clock with walnut case and porcelain face.

Maturing Assemblyman Shaping Into Statesman

WILLIAM T. BAGLEY, who represents all of Marin and most of Sonoma County in the State Legislature is not the same man today that he was when first elected seven years ago.

In those days he was sometimes erratic, sometimes abrasive, always overly effusive.

At the end of the first legislative session in which he participated, it was evident that he nevertheless was capable of representing his constituents effectively. Of the 46 bills he introduced in that first session, 17 were passed and became law — an unusually high total for a freshman legislator. One of those bills resulted in extension of daylight saving time — a proposal which often and regularly had died when previously brought before the Legislature.

In spite of this rather remarkable record, many of us did not foresee a great future for Assemblyman Bagley. We expected he would wear disadvantageously on his fellow legislators and his influence would be more likely to decline than to grow.

He was openly critical — sometimes caustically critical — of Assembly Speaker Jesse (Big Daddy) Unruh.

Unruh responded by using his great power to "cut Bagley down to his right size." But Bagley was too ebullient and effervescent ever to be humbled by Unruh.

OVER THE YEARS Bagley has stubbed his toe politically a time or two. He once made an unfortunate public reference to "ticky-tacky houses" at Terra Linda which kicked up a minor political storm. He joined with two other Republican assemblymen supporting George Christopher for the Republican nomination for governor in a widely publicized appeal to Ronald Reagan to drop out of the race — which Reagan ultimately won.

Bagley suffered through a period of embarrassing domestic problems.

He even got a ticket for fishing without a license.

The young Bagley who went to Sacramento for the first time seven years ago was quite capable of all these political foot-in-mouth performances and many of us thought it would become worse.

But Bagley is not the same man today.

EACH YEAR DURING the period between Christmas and New Year's, the Independent-Journal invites Marin's representatives in the State Legislature to drop into the I-J office for an extended discussion of what's ahead in the legislative session about to start at Sacramento.

These discussions are the basis for several news stories on what our Marin assemblyman and senator foresee in the months ahead.

It was a different Bagley who met with us this year.

He is approaching his 40th birthday. He weighs more; his waistline is getting a fortyish look. His hair is longer. Gone is the boyish crew cut of yesteryear. And his hair is thinner.

He still enjoys a bit of horseplay on occasion, but not the steady stream of foolishness of his younger days.

Today he is a mature man beginning to emerge as an effective leader.

He obviously has reached some kind of accommodation with Speaker Unruh, for Unruh has appointed Bagley chairman of the powerful and influential Assembly Judiciary Committee. Unruh also has named Bagley to the prestigious Judicial Council.

IN EARLIER TIMES, Bagley's concern with the approach of a new legislative session seemed principally with those things of special local interest in his district. He pledged his efforts to the conservation project most popular in Marin and to the solution of the agricultural problem most objectionable to Sonoma constituents.

It's different now.

Bagley exhibits a rather thorough grasp of the state's major problems. He sees the "big picture" and is more concerned with it.

He knows now that he cannot expect to "win 'em all." But he knows that if he works hard enough, he can win some that others of less diligence would think impossible to win.

("Win" is used in the sense of successfully pushing through some bit of long overdue, constructive legislation which doesn't appear to have much chance of passage.)

SOME OF THE THINGS he has accomplished in the past couple of years and many of the things he plans to work for in the immediate future are matters of state-wide importance and concern, as distinguished from purely local matters to woo his constituency.

Now he discusses the knotty problems of state finances, taxes, relief to the overburdened property taxpayer, taking politics out of judicial appointment, reforming the process for selecting state inheritance tax appraisers, fighting secrecy at all levels of government, along with problems of education, mental health, medical care, and what is euphemistically called "social welfare."

Bagley is still intensely interested, of course, in helping to solve local, district problems, too. But these no longer seem to be his sole concerns.

IN SOME RESPECTS he may be "ahead of his time."

He is quite probably the first Republican to recognize the unpopular fact that financial assistance from the suburbs is inevitably going to be necessary to help provide a solution to the crisis of decaying inner cities.

He is even aware that suburban areas tend to elect Republican legislators who accurately reflect the majority view of the suburbs: "The cities' problems are not our concern."

Bagley has been among the first to see beyond this short-sighted view. Hopefully, he will steer his GOP colleagues to enlightenment — and then to effective, albeit unpopular, action.

IN SACRAMENTO the term "statesman" is often used facetiously, with opprobrium.

This is unfortunate. Sacramento needs a word which means statesman in its earlier, finer sense to describe men who rise above petty politics and short-sighted self-interest.

Bagley has demonstrated that he can criticize his closest associates and battle them over the issue without losing their respect.

Our assemblyman is on his way to becoming a statesman. Since he is not yet 40, he still has plenty of time to make it. It's a good bet that he will.

Many World Hot Spots In '67

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Trouble erupted in more than a dozen countries this year, but violence centered in Asia, where the Vietnam war raged on, and in the Middle East, where bloody fighting exploded between Arab and Jew.

In Vietnam, where U.S. forces now outnumber those who fought in Korea, the fighting continued to escalate as the United States steadily added new bombing targets in the North and ground fighting spread in the South.

Violence reached Korea as northern infiltrators crossed the border in greater numbers than any time since the Korean War and engaged in bloody clashes.

In Communist China, Red Guards went on a rampage early this year, dragging Chinese leaders from their homes and forcing them to "confess" their errors. Soon British and other diplomats were being manhandled and full-scale battles were reported throughout the country.

Despite trouble at home, the Chinese Reds found time to harass British authorities in nearby Hong Kong with strikes and terror attacks.

For the third time in two decades, Arab and Israeli armies battled in the Middle East. In six days the war itself was over, as Israel overran Egypt, Syria and Jordan. But the issue of Israeli withdrawal from these areas, an end to Arab belligerency and the future of 1.5 million Arab refugees remained in dispute and will probably take a long time to settle.

In early November, airports and military installations in Greece lay under blackout. In Turkey, navy crews set sail aboard destroyers for the coast of Cyprus. On the island, Greek and Turkish Cypriot forces piled sandbags atop their fortifications. The war preparations were triggered when Greek Cypriot troops attacked two Turkish Cypriot villages, killing 24 defenders. War was finally averted when President Johnson's emissary, Cyrus Vance, and other peacemakers persuaded the disputants to hold their fire.

In Greece, the trouble came to a head last April when a group of colonels seized power and set up a military dictatorship. King Constantine was kept as a figurehead although he made plain his distaste for the junta. In December, Constantine, supported by part of the army, attempted a countercoup, but it was quickly crushed and the young monarch fled to Rome.

In December, Britain said a relieved farewell to South Arabia after 128 years of troubled rule terminated by a year of skirmishing in which 56 British soldiers and 300 Arabs were killed. When the Arabs were not shooting at Britons, they were fighting among themselves. In Aden, not even 10,000 British troops could prevent fighting between the National Liberation Front and the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen.

Yemen was wracked by continued civil war between the republicans backed by Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the ousted royalists backed by Saudi Arabia. Events took a new turn in November when Yemen President Abdullah Sallal was toppled. The overthrow encouraged the royalists to step up their attacks as Egyptian forces finally began pulling out.

In the volatile Congo there was new violence as white mercenary forces under Col. Jean "Black Jack" Schramme announced their intention of overthrowing President Joseph Mobutu. But Schramme lacked the manpower to carry out his plan.

Nigeria, Africa's most populous nation with some 55 million people, became embroiled in civil war also. It began when rebels in the breakaway province of Biafra proclaimed themselves a nation and went to war with the federal army of Nigeria. Each side is estimated to have about 50,000 men under arms.

Thus, as 1967 draws to a close, old persistent trouble spots remain thorns in the side of world peace — and portend still more ill news for 1968.

Uncle Sam's Bookkeeping Toils Along At Odds With Calendar

By EDMOND LeBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everyone knows Jan. 1 is New Year's Day. But the federal government doesn't conduct its money affairs on that basis.

Practically all individual citizens run their affairs, are taxed, keep their books and generally live on the basis of a Jan. 1-Dec. 31 year.

But, like many state and local governments, Uncle Sam operates July 1 - June 30. His bookkeepers aren't welcoming a New Year this season—they're just logging the halfway mark in fiscal year 1968.

This wouldn't matter much if Congress observed the same calendar as the executive branch. But the lawmakers go along with the general population, starting their sessions in January.

The timing misfit causes increasing trouble. But the chances are something may be done about it.

The July 1 fiscal year start is a holdover from the days of a smaller, simpler national government. Congress, even when it used to convene in March, could easily provide for the modest financial needs of such a government by July and the fiscal year could get under way with the books nice and tidy.

But when fiscal year 1968 began last July 1, Congress had passed just one of the 13 money bills needed to finance the government. The others were at various stages in the long legislative process. Five had not even cleared the House, where all originate, and legislative action on two was not completed until the last day of a long session, Dec. 15.

In such circumstances Congress falls back every year on a rickety device called the "continuing resolution." It is a hastily passed authorization for departments whose appropriations are pending to keep on spending at approximately the current rate.

This year the routine approval of continuing resolutions got snarled with a congressional drive to put mandatory spending curbs on the lawbooks.

In the hassle, part of the government payroll, including that of the poverty program, was held up briefly.

If Congress had been appropriating for a year beginning Jan. 1, 1968, instead of July 1, 1967, much trouble would have been avoided. Congress could have saved time, federal budgeting and administration of agencies could have been more orderly.

Proposals have come up to shift the government fiscal year so it coincides with the calendar year.

There is real steam behind the move now. It is supported by key members of the House Government Operations Committee and individual members ranging from liberals to such a powerful fiscal conservative as Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The calendar change would not solve all the problems of government budgeting and appropriating, which are admittedly in sore need of a thorough overhaul.

But Congress shies away from sweeping changes and the fiscal year shift—which would involve one-time appropriations for 18 instead of 12 months—appears the step most likely to be taken.

De-Stalinization Is Slow Process In Czechoslovakia

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

From the beginning of de-Stalinization in 1965, it took the Czechoslovakian party leadership five years to decide to pull down the 90-foot statue of the former dictator from its hilltop position dominating the ancient skyline of Prague.

It turned out to be merely the removal of a symbol. Largely, the same men remained in office. Although they paid faithful lip service to the principles of co-existence and economic reform as proclaimed in the Soviet Union by Nikita S. Khrushchev, change came the most slowly in Czechoslovakia.

Top man in Czecholslvakia is Antonin Novotny, who in November, 1957, combined the jobs of president of the republic and first secretary of the party.

As de-Stalinization made its snail's pace progress in Czechoslovakia and in neighboring East Germany, Novotny, 63, and East German leader Walter Ulbricht became major candidates in the speculation for early political demise.

That both are still in office may be said to be due to similar and interlocking circumstances. Both have been unswervingly loyal to Moscow and both have managed to follow the changing lines of Moscow policy from osef Stalin through Krushchev to the present.

Novotny, never popular at home, survived one serious attempt to dislodge him in 1963, but now is said to be in trouble again, saved only the the timely visit of Soviet party secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev earlier this month.

Novotny is under fire on three counts.

Czechoslovak writers are in open revolt against the government's anti-Israel policy, against censorship and against oppression of intellectuals which they declare is worse now than under the Hapsburgs.

Within party ranks he is under fire as the chief stumbling block to economic reform.

He is accused of discrimination against Slovakia, the underdeveloped eastern region of the country.

Action on the diplomatic front regarding the "hot pursuit" of North Vietnamese troops and Viet Cong guerrillas into three neighboring countries was almost as hot as the Vietnam battlefront during the week.

U.S. officials apparently were making progress in their efforts to obtain approval from Cambodia for American troops to blast out Communist units from mountainous jungle retreats just across the border from Vietnam.

The United States has long contended Communist units are using bases in Cambodia as sanctuaries where they can regroup and launch military operations. Leaders of American and South Vietnamese forces have been pressuring for permission to wade into Cambodia with their troops when in hot pursuit of fleeing Communist units.

The State Department's biggest hot pursuit diplomatic coup came on Friday when Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, said in an interview carried by the Washington Post that his country would not intervene if American forces entered Cambodia to fight Communist units illegally present in "outlying and uninhabited regions."

Meantime, U.S. diplomatic circles expressed serious concern that the war might spread into Laos and Thailand.

Around The World, Around The Clock:

Washington—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Communist China had set off a nuclear device in the "low-yield range" in northwest China. It was China's seventh nuclear test.

Washington—President Johnson, delivering a holiday message to the nation upon his return from a 27,000-mile trip around the world, said nothing would keep him from "trying any reasonable route to negotiations" to end the Vietnam war.

Washington—The Federal Reserve Board increased the amounts that commercial banks are required to hold as reserves in their regional Federal Reserve banks. The action was intended to freeze some $550 million of lendable funds, creating a tighter money market.

Mailliard Finds New Voters Much Like His Old District

By JAMES D. WHITE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Reapportionment has added a broad swath of Marin County to California's Sixth Congressional District, but Rep. William S. Mailliard looks forward to representing the same sort of residential constituency he has had in San Francisco the past 15 years.

Added to the Sixth District effective with the next election is the southern Marin County area up to Hamilton Air Force Base.

Removed from the presently all-San Francisco District were some Mission and Hunters Point areas which contain industry and industrial population. These go to the Fifth District of Democrat Phillip Burton, covering roughly the eastern half of San Francisco.

Republican Mailliard's district in the western half of the city is almost entirely upper and middle class residential.

That is a fair approximation of the addition in Marin County, except for some farming population, since it has relatively little industry.

The part that goes to the Sixth District includes 10 of Marin's 11 urban communities, with only Novato remaining in the First District, which formerly stretched from the Golden Gate to the Oregon border.

The First was considered too big, with 567,000 people. Mailliard's Sixth also was too big, with 440,000. Burton's Fifth was the smallest in the state, with 391,000.

So some of the Sixth went to the Fifth and some of Marin went to the Sixth to conform with the U.S. Supreme Court principle of "one man, one vote."

Born 50 years ago in Belvedere of a well-to-do-family, Mailliard in a sense will be returning home. He says reapportionment was inevitable and just hopes he doesn't have to move again. This will depend on how the 1970 census turns out.

Republicans, he knows business and his big concern for a number of years has been about the U.S. Merchant Marine. Repeatedly he has warned that the Russian merchant fleet is becoming more modern than the American. He complains that the last Congress turned in "a great big zero" regarding the American merchant fleet, which he argues "borders on being a national disgrace."

He is the ranking Republican member on the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and he serves also on the Foreign Affairs Committee. He has dealt with matters in both the Far Eastern and Latin American fields, and in 1963 was a delegate to the United Nations.

On the Vietnam war, Mailliard is on record as supporting President Johnson's policy, but with certain tempering reservations.

He says some critics are misguided.

"All the escalation has not been on one side," he insists. "Ours was in response to stepped up enemy action." He has said he doesn't think a bombing pause would be effective in bringing the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front to the peace table.

"We must persevere in the war," he argues, "but not invade North Vietnam." He told a news conference the other day he feels the war will end either with a negotiated settlement or when the Viet Cong stops fighting. He didn't explain how he thought either would come about.

"It is fruitless to argue details of an ultimate solution to Vietnam," he said. "But I don't think we should be wild hawks."

Last September he said that on a visit to San Francisco he had found that some people who had supported administration policy on Vietnam were changing their minds. "They have a feeling of frustration. We're losing a lot of lives and treasure. I find people are scared," he reported.

Last May, in a Memorial Day speech at the Presidio National Cemetery here, he noted that both Hawks and doves on the Vietnam war "are becoming increasingly intolerant" of each other's opinions.

"But this philosophical struggle represents just what we are fighting for—the right of free speech, the right of dissent, the right to govern ourselves. We must not destroy these fundatmental American rights. To stifle debate is to deprive democracy of its strongest weapon," he said.

Anti-war demonstrators, he told his recent news conference, should be punished if they break the law, "but definitely not for just opposing the war."

Mailliard's interest in shipping and foreign affairs goes back a long way. In 1939 he was just out of Yale and had gone on a tour of Europe. When war broke out he was sitting in the office of U.S. Ambassador Joseph Kennedy in London. He volunteered for the Navy and left the service seven years later after action in the South Pacific. He is now a rear admiral in the Navy reserve.

After the war Mailliard was assistant director of the California Academy of Sciences and the California Youth Authority, and then served as secretary to Gov. Earl Warren from 1949 to 1952.

He is married and has seven children.

WILL 1968 BE BETTER?

Negroes Had A Frustrating Year

By HENRY P. LEIFERMANN

ATLANTA (UPI)—Drift and frustration mark the Negro civil rights front as the nation comes out of a year of violence apparently resigned that 1968 will not be much better.

The fact is 1967 brought a significant change in the Negro's fight for equality.

Since Dec. 1, 1955, when a Negro seamstress named Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat to a white man on a bus in Montgomery, Ala., the nation has counted civil rights gains in terms of laws and school desegregation.

In 1967, and probably for several years to come, that yardstick of progress no longer was valid. More and more Negro leaders, from extremist H. Rap Brown to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., to Whitney Young, were judging progress in terms of black consciousness in all its forms, from racial pride to election victories.

Two major issues confront the Negro rights movement in 1968: Open housing, a middle class goal; and jobs, what the ghetto militant calls the "nitty gritty" of the problem.

UPI Senior Editor Louis Cassels, who made a 2,500-mile summer tour of the worst riot centers to learn "why ghettos were exploding" in violence, listed the ghetto Negro's No. 1 complaint against white society as "his difficulty in getting a job—not just menial work sweeping out a warehouse or picking tomatoes, but a good job paying him enough to live in reasonable comfort."

The second most heard grievance, Cassels found, was housing. "Everywhere I went," he says, "I heard about and saw dilapidated, overcrowded, rat-infested dwellings for which slum landlords were collecting outrageous rents."

And Cassels pinpointed a third angry grievance, "The almost universal conviction among ghetto Negroes that black neighborhoods get the short end of the stick on municipal services—less police and fire protection, inferior schools, infrequent garbage collection, inadequate recreation facilities."

The programs for 1968, which will have their roots in the starts of 1967, are keyed on jobs. This is the issue the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) comes back to, just as the Conservative Urban League does, although in markedly different tactics.

Equal job opportunity is also King's issue, and his tactics to pressure Congress have drawn the most criticism. He has underway plans for a "massive civil disobedience" campaign in 1968, beginning in Washington in early April and, King says, spreading to the nation's major cities.

Many whites fear that King's plan will be the organized route to racial violence this year. King says he will call off his campaign if that is the only result.

Other Negroes wonder what else the nation can expect when the median income for ghetto families in Cleveland's Hough and Los Angeles' Watts, for example, are lower now than they were five years ago.

There was little progress in job availability for Negroes in 1967, hardly any in school desegregation or school improvement.

Dr. Kenneth Clark, the psychologist often asked to interpret the racial crisis, says this lack of progress in the rights movement, coupled with the violence of the city riots, could lead to racial polarization of whites and Negroes in the nation.

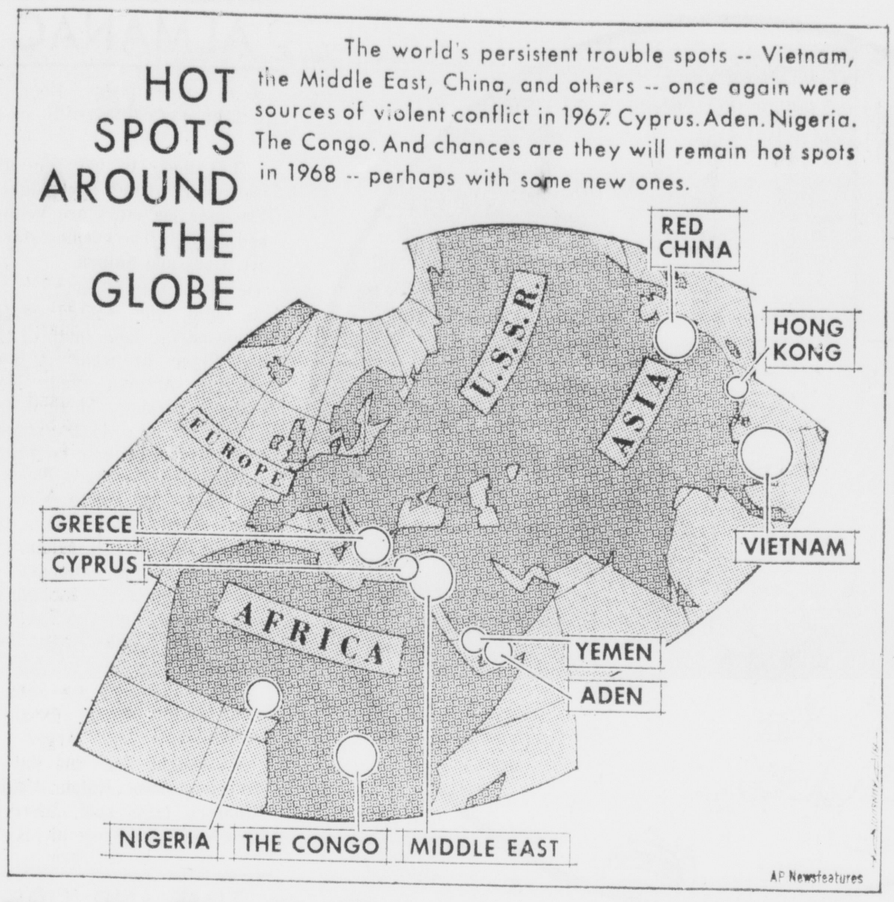
When the summer of 1967 ended, liberals in Congress demanded domestic "Marshall Plans" to provide jobs and housing on a massive scale. But when the 90th Congress ended its first session this month, little was heard about such programs. The outlook for 1968's session is no different.

Gloomy as the outlook is, not all whites or Negroes feel 1968 has to be a re-run of 1967's failures.

Private industry, from the nation's major insurance companies to individual and small businesses, entered the civil rights field with programs seeking to provide the jobs needed. Many observers believe that if these scattered and relatively small efforts can be combined with major state and federal government programs, then a solid beginning may be made.

While it is debated just how much satisfaction the 20 million Negroes living in poverty by federal standards have drawn from election victories, it is a trend likely to continue and expand.

NO PROGRESS HERE — Mrs. Clara Everhardt, pausing as she chops a fence for firewood, symbolizes one of American Negroes' main frustration—lack of decent housing. Few communities made any significant gains in improving ghetto conditions during the past year. (UPI Telephoto)



Many World Hot Spots In '67

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Trouble erupted in more than a dozen countries this year, but violence centered in Asia, where the Vietnam war raged on, and in the Middle East, where bloody fighting exploded between Arab and Jew.

In Vietnam, where U.S. forces now outnumber those who fought in Korea, the fighting continued to escalate as the United States steadily added new bombing targets in the North and ground fighting spread in the South.

Violence reached Korea as northern infiltrators crossed the border in greater numbers than any time since the Korean War and engaged in bloody clashes.

In Communist China, Red Guards went on a rampage early this year, dragging Chinese leaders from their homes and forcing them to "confess" their errors. Soon British and other diplomats were being manhandled and full-scale battles were reported throughout the country.

Despite trouble at home, the Chinese Reds found time to harass British authorities in nearby Hong Kong with strikes and terror attacks.

For the third time in two decades, Arab and Israeli armies battled in the Middle East. In six days the war itself was over, as Israel overran Egypt, Syria and Jordan. But the issue of Israeli withdrawal from these areas, an end to Arab belligerency and the future of 1.5 million Arab refugees remained in dispute and will probably take a long time to settle.

In early November, airports and military installations in Greece lay under blackout. In Turkey, navy crews set sail aboard destroyers for the coast of Cyprus. On the island, Greek and Turkish Cypriot forces piled sandbags atop their fortifications. The war preparations were triggered when Greek Cypriot troops attacked two Turkish Cypriot villages, killing 24 defenders. War was finally averted when President Johnson's emissary, Cyrus Vance, and other peacemakers persuaded the disputants to hold their fire.

In Greece, the trouble came to a head last April when a group of colonels seized power and set up a military dictatorship. King Constantine was kept as a figurehead although he made plain his distaste for the junta. In December, Constantine, supported by part of the army, attempted a countercoup, but it was quickly crushed and the young monarch fled to Rome.

In December, Britain said a relieved farewell to South Arabia after 128 years of troubled rule terminated by a year of skirmishing in which 56 British soldiers and 300 Arabs were killed. When the Arabs were not shooting at Britons, they were fighting among themselves. In Aden, not even 10,000 British troops could prevent fighting between the National Liberation Front and the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen.

Yemen was wracked by continued civil war between the republicans backed by Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the ousted royalists backed by Saudi Arabia. Events took a new turn in November when Yemen President Abdullah Sallal was toppled. The overthrow encouraged the royalists to step up their attacks as Egyptian forces finally began pulling out.

In the volatile Congo there was new violence as white mercenary forces under Col. Jean "Black Jack" Schramme announced their intention of overthrowing President Joseph Mobutu. But Schramme lacked the manpower to carry out his plan.

Nigeria, Africa's most populous nation with some 55 million people, became embroiled in civil war also. It began when rebels in the breakaway province of Biafra proclaimed themselves a nation and went to war with the federal army of Nigeria. Each side is estimated to have about 50,000 men under arms.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1967 with one to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1853, the United States purchased the land south of the Gila River in what is now southern Arizona and New Mexico, passing Mexico $10 million for the 45,000 square miles in what became known as the Gadsden Purchase.

In 1903, 588 persons were killed when fire swept the Iroquois theater in Chicago.

In 1947, King Michael of Rumania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by the Russians.

In 1959, President Eisenhower called off the ban on American nuclear tests.

A thought for the day—American Poet Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "Every hero becomes a bore at last."

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sympathetic Partner Is Great Consolation In A Tight Contract

A sympathetic partner is worth his weight in gold. "You couldn't possibly make that hand." North remarked after the play of today's hand, "unless you happened to think for two seconds before you started to play it."

KING TAKES

Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the king of spades and tried a finesse with the jack of clubs. West took the queen of clubs and returned the queen of spades to South's ace.

South led the ace of clubs, but East's diamond discard was a bitter blow. When South led hearts, East stepped up with the ace, cleared the nine of spades out of the way, and led the six of spades to give East two spade tricks. Down one.

North's comment was unfair. It takes much more than two seconds to find the best line of play. See if you can work it out before your read on.

TAKE ACE

South should begin with the two black aces and then lead the jack of diamonds to dummy's queen to lead a second club from dummy.

If East follows suit South plans to finesse. He is sure to win at least five club tricks as long as East can follow suit twice. The defenders can take one club and three hearts at most, and then South has tricks to burn.

SECOND ROUND

When East shows out on the second round of clubs, South steps up with the king of clubs, cashes the top diamonds and leads a heart. The only chance, now, is that West has the ace of hearts. When this turns out to be so, declarer gets two spades, one heart, four diamonds and two clubs. When you can take your nine tricks you don't need sympathy from your partner.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You count 10 points in high cards and 2 points for the singleton, but this is not even an optional opening bid. Change one of the black queens to a king, and the hand is close; change both queens to kings, and you would bid.

Oregon State University will not have a guided tour of the school's library for students this year as has been done in the past.

SAN FRANCISCO BLIZZARD

A small foreign car bears the brunt of the annual year-end paper blizzard on Montgomery Street. Tons of 1967 calendars, confetti and other paper were tossed out of San Francisco financial district office windows yesterday as office workers started early New Year's festivities. (UPI Telephoto)

Boy Scouts Revamp Administrative Setup

A new administrative pattern for Boy Scout troops in Marin will go into effect Monday, aimed at bringing administrators closer to troops.

The county's two Boy Scout districts will be split, creating four districts for the 4,925 boys in Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops and explorer Scout posts. By 1975, the Marin Scout organization expects to have 8,200 members, said scout executive William H. Sherwood.

Sausalito, Mill Valley, Belvedere, Tiburon, Marin City and Bolinas will make up one district, still to be named. Woodrow Smith of Sausalito will be in charge of the area.

Novato and Hamilton Air Force Base will make up a second district, with Bradley Clifford of San Rafael serving the area.

The Miwok District will retain its name but will lose Novato and northern Marin, and consist of only the San Rafael area, including Santa Venetia, Terra Linda, and Marinwood. Chet A. Koehler of San Rafael will be the scout official in charge.

The Redwood District will be composed of Corte Madera, Larkspur, Greenbrae, Ross, Kentfield, San Anselmo, Fairfax and San Geronimo Valley. Jon E. Bagshaw of San Anselmo will be in charge.

The changes add no new paid scout executives, Robert Roumiguiere, council commissioner said.

Check Passer Jailed

Luige Aranda, 21, of San Francisco, is serving a four-month sentence in Marin County jail for trying to cash a bad check Nov. 17 at the Top Drawer Men's Store. Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley imposed the sentence after Aranda's guilty plea to the felony charge.

The U.S. Employment Service's dictionary of occupational titles lists nearly 22,000 different occupations.

Reading, Income Tax Courses Set At Redwood High

Courses to overcome poor reading habits and prepare income tax returns are included in the adult education program scheduled to start at Redwood High School next month.

Former Internal Revenue agent Charley Mayer of Mill Valley will highlight new regulations for the 1967 income tax returns in his course.

Robert Wanderer, free-lance writer, is scheduled to begin a seven-week session on effective communications, and a course in rapid reading will stress the use of the hand as as a reading aid.

More information is available from Nicholas J. Gennaro, dean of adult education, at Redwood.

Behr To Sonoma State College Advisory Board

Marin County Supervisor Peter H. Behr is one of three newly appointed members of the advisory board for Sonoma State College.

The present board includes another Marin resident, Edwin V. Grundstrom of Novato.

It's Time for Aliens To Report Addresses

Aliens living in Marin County, except those with diplomatic status or accredited to the United Nations, are required to report their addresses to the federal government during January.

Cards for the report may be obtained at post offices or immigration and naturalization service offices and filed there.

Yacht Club Offers Rides To Polar Bears

Members of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club in Novato are offering use of water skis and tow boats for rides on New Year's Day in an event billed as an Icicle Dip.

No wet suits to warm skiers will be allowed, organizers say. There will be a charge for use of skis, boat and refreshments. Skiing will begin at 1 p.m.

Supervisors Will Select New Chairman On Tuesday

Election of a new chairman of Marin County Board of Supervisors to succeed Thomas T. Storer will head the agenda at Tuesday's meeting of the board, due to start at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center.

Appointments will be made to replace retiring members of the aviation commission and the planning co-ordinating council.

At 9:45 a.m., the board will discuss an interim plan for disposition of remaining residents of the Family Rehabilitation Center due to close at the end of January.

After the 10:15 a.m. recess, the board will a conditional offer of $700,000 for the courthouse property in San Rafael.

The county administration will be given some policy guidance from the board on the development of the 1968-69 county budget.

At the start of the afternoon session at 1:45 p.m., consideration will be given an interim zoning ordinance for Franks Valley. The board will hold a hearing on an amendment to the subdivision code at 3 p.m.

Nakayoshi Club Names Officers

Herbert Okubo of Mill Valley is the 1968 president of the Marin Nakayoshi Club, a social and cultural association for persons of Japanese ancestry.

Oether officers installed recently were Takeshi Velasco of Mill Valley and Dr. Shuso Kumata of Larkspur, vice presidents; Jean Okubo of Mill Valley, secretary; Ben Matsui of Corte Madera, treasurer; and Masao Segi of Tiburon, sergeant at arms.

A New Year's party is scheduled Jan. 20 in the American Legion Hall in Mill Valley.

Behavior Institute Appeals Sign Denial

The Sausalito City Council Tuesday will hear appeal by the Behavior Therapy Institute on denial of a sign permit at 300 Valley Street by the Community Appearance Advisory Board.

The council will meet at 8 p.m. in the council chamber at City Hall.

SAN FRANCISCO BLIZZARD

A small foreign car bears the brunt of the annual year-end paper blizzard on Montgomery Street. Tons of 1967 calendars, confetti and other paper were tossed out of San Francisco financial district office windows yesterday as office workers started early New Year's festivities. (UPI Telephoto)

Boy Scouts Revamp Administrative Setup

A new administrative pattern for Boy Scout troops in Marin will go into effect Monday, aimed at bringing administrators closer to troops.

The county's two Boy Scout districts will be split, creating four districts for the 4,925 boys in Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops and explorer Scout posts. By 1975, the Marin Scout organization expects to have 8,200 members, said scout executive William H. Sherwood.

Sausalito, Mill Valley, Belvedere, Tiburon, Marin City and Bolinas will make up one district, still to be named. Woodrow Smith of Sausalito will be in charge of the area.

Novato and Hamilton Air Force Base will make up a second district, with Bradley Clifford of San Rafael serving the area.

The Miwok District will retain its name but will lose Novato and northern Marin, and consist of only the San Rafael area, including Santa Venetia, Terra Linda, and Marinwood. Chet A. Koehler of San Rafael will be the scout official in charge.

The Redwood District will be composed of Corte Madera, Larkspur, Greenbrae, Ross, Kentfield, San Anselmo, Fairfax and San Geronimo Valley. Jon E. Bagshaw of San Anselmo will be in charge.

The changes add no new paid scout executives, Robert Roumiguiere, council commissioner said.

Check Passer Jailed

Luige Aranda, 21, of San Francisco, is serving a four-month sentence in Marin County jail for trying to cash a bad check Nov. 17 at the Top Drawer Men's Store, Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley imposed the sentence after Aranda's guilty plea to the felony charge.

Reading, Income Tax Courses Set At Redwood High

Courses to overcome poor reading habits and prepare income tax returns are included in the adult education program scheduled to start at Redwood High School next month.

Former Internal Revenue agent Charley Mayer of Mill Valley will highlight new regulations for the 1967 income tax returns in his course.

Robert Wanderer, free-lance writer, is scheduled to begin a seven-week session on effective communications, and a course in rapid reading will stress the use of the hand as as a reading aid.

More information is available from Nicholas J. Gennaro, dean of adult education, at Redwood.

Behr To Sonoma State College Advisory Board

Marin County Supervisor Peter H. Behr is one of three newly appointed members of the advisory board for Sonoma State College.

The present board includes another Marin resident, Edwin V. Grundstrom of Novato.

It's Time for Aliens To Report Addresses

Aliens living in Marin County, except those with diplomatic status or accredited to the United Nations, are required to report their addresses to the federal government during January.

Yacht Club Offers Rides To Polar Bears

Members of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club in Novato are offering use of water skis and tow boats for rides on New Year's Day in an event billed as an Icicle Dip.

No wet suits to warm skiers will be allowed, organizers say. There will be a charge for use of skis, boat and refreshments. Skiing will begin at 1 p.m.

Appointments will be made to replace retiring members of the aviation commission and the planning co-ordinating council.

At 9:45 a.m., the board will discuss an interim plan for disposition of remaining residents of the Family Rehabilitation Center due to close at the end of January.

After the 10:15 a.m. recess, the board will a conditional offer of $700,000 for the courthouse property in San Rafael.

The county administration will be given some policy guidance from the board on the development of the 1968-69 county budget.

At the start of the afternoon session at 1:45 p.m., consideration will be given an interim zoning ordinance for Franks Valley. The board will hold a hearing on an amendment to the subdivision code at 3 p.m.

Behavior Institute Appeals Sign Denial

The Sausalito City Council Tuesday will hear appeal by the Behavior Therapy Institute on denial of a sign permit at 300 Valley Street by the Community Appearance Advisory Board.

The council will meet at 8 p.m. in the council chamber at City Hall.

Nakayoshi Club Names Officers

Herbert Okubo of Mill Valley is the 1968 president of the Marin Nakayoshi Club, a social and cultural association for persons of Japanese ancestry.

Oether officers installed recently were Takeshi Velasco of Mill Valley and Dr. Shuso Kumata of Larkspur, vice presidents; Jean Okubo of Mill Valley, secretary; Ben Matsui of Corte Madera, treasurer; and Masao Segi of Tiburon, sergeant at arms.

Juvenile Court Gets Dope Case

Edwin P. Wright, 19, of Vision Road, Inverness, was certified to Juvenile Court from Marin Municipal Court yesterday to face a charge of possessing marijuana Dec. 21 in Mill Valley.

His brother, Charles A. Wright, 21, is to plea to a marijuana possession charge in Municipal Court Friday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Asthma, Emphysema Separate Diseases, But May Co-Exist

VAN DELLEN

A reader writes: "Is emphysema similar to asthma?" Both conditions involve the lungs and may coexist, but in most instances they are separate diseases. Asthma is an allergic disorder, whereas emphysema stems from chronic irritation exhibited by narrowing of the bronchi and dilation of the air sacs.

The asthmatic has attacks of wheezing and whistling, especially during expiration. Each bout is initiated by exposure to a substance to which the victim is allergic.

IN SOME instances, distress follows a respiratory infection or severe emotional stress.

During an acute attack the victim is sitting up, struggling for air, apprehensive, and unable to talk above a whisper.

The noisy respirations are due to swelling of the bronchial membranes. Injections or inhalations of epinephrine bring prompt, but temporary, relief. Nebulized i soproterehol does the same.

PERMANENT relief is obtained when the cause is known and avoided. Desensitization or hyposensitization may help.

Emphysema is more common in older persons and usually follows years of chronic bronchitis. This disorder is very much in the news today because it is so prevalent and is associated with heavy smoking and air pollution. Shortness of breath after slight exertion is the most prominent symptom.

Cough, usually present as part of the chronic bronchitis, may be severe, especially when the mucus is thick and sticky.

VICTIMS of emphysema also are susceptible to chest colds that persist for several weeks unless treated.

In emphysema, the walls of the air sacs are weakened and ballooned out. The bronchi are thickened and narrowed. Air enters the lungs but has trouble getting out.

Improving this aspect of the disease is mechanical and consists of special respirators and learning to breathe properly in order to force the stagnant air out of the lungs.

ANTIBIOTICS combat infection and drugs such as epinephrine or isoproterenol keep the air passageways open. Oxygen also helps.

But, most important of all — smoking is taboo and air pollution must be minimized.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

HE'S A DANDY

L. E. writes: Is something wrong with the mind of a 31-year-old man who takes more than one-half hour to part and comb his hair?

REPLY

No, provided he gets up 30 minutes earlier. In the past it was said that a gentleman spent a long time grooming himself but he dressed in a hurry.

BODY'S ALARM SYSTEM

A. Y. writes: What made my white blood count skyrocket to 16,600 when I had appendicitis?

REPLY

White blood cells are part of the body's defense against infection, and the blood-forming organs are stimulated whenever a disease of this type strikes.

SNEEZES AT BEDTIME

Mrs. Y. writes: Why does an elderly woman get a stuffy nose and sneezing attacks when she undresses for bed?

REPLY

The most likely reason is a physical allergy to change in temperature. Another possibility is the stirring up of dust in the bedroom.

PURPLE SPOTS

A. R. writes: What causes purple spots on the lips?

REPLY

Injury, birthmarks, and eating blueberries are the most likely causes.

Today's Health Hint — Baby should never be alone when he is in the tub.

Innocent Plea To Theft Of Clothing

Jimmie Juanita Green, 20, of 3550 Redwood Highway, San Rafaell, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge she stole $35 worth of clothes from Montgomery Ward and Co. in the Corte Madera shopping center Dec. 20. Jury trial was set for Feb. 6.

Police said Mrs. Green was arrrested by store security officers, who claimed she placed the items under her baby in her arms, then stuffed them into a large bag.

Probation Set On Marijuana

Nickolas Maniotes, 25, and Carol Lynn Alpers, 26, who Novato police said offered an undercover policeman a marijuana cigarette in August, were placed on a year of probation in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for being knowingly in a place where marijuana is kept.

Maniotes, of 100 Scenic Drive, Fairfax, and Miss Alpers, of 1610 Hill Street, Apt. 2, Novato, allegedly offered the cigarette to Detective Sgt. Otto Haiungs Aug. 3.

Haiungs, who had posed as a neighbor, arrested them.

SPAN BOARD PAYS BILL, NOT PRAISE

Attorney Gets Fee For Defense In Hiring Case; Thanks Refused

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday voted 9-2 to pay an attorney $15,311 for defending them and their staff against charges of racial discrimination — then refused to thank him.

The attorney, George O. Bahrs of San Francisco, submitted the bill based on a charge of $500 an hour, Gen. Mgr. James Adam said.

Bahrs got a split decision on Dec. 5 on the two charges. The Fair Employment Practices Commission ordered rehiring, with back pay, of Jimmie Lee Wilkins, one of two Negroes fired from their painting jobs on the bridge. The commission dismissed the discrimination charge by the other painter, James Haugabook.

Voting against the payment were San Francisco directors Stephan C. Leonoudakis and John E. Dearman, who also voted previously against hiring Bahrs.

"He charges more than a plumber," commented director Daniel F. Del Carlo, a San Francisco labor leader. He voted for the payment, but expressed mock surprise that Leonoudakis and Dearman, both attorneys, "would vote against a member of their own union."

A resolution praising Bahrs was proposed by director William D. Hadeler of San Francisco, but it failed, in a 7-4 vote, to get a majority needed to pass. Voting against it were Leonoudakis, Dearman, Del Carlo and E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County.

"I just don't see any need to praise a man who took $15,000 of our money," said Dearman.

"I wish him a merry Christmas for next year, and that's all," added Del Carlo.

Directors Dan E. London and Ben K. Leher of San Francisco and Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County were absent.

Golden Gate Bridge Directors Also:

STATE LOAN — Asked Hadeler, finance committee chairman, to negotiate with state officials on accelerated repayment before 1971 of $5 million the district borrowed from the state to widen Waldo Grade.

OFFICERS — Re-elected for second one-year terms board president John E. Nelson of Mendocino County, first vice president William Moskovitz of San Francisco and second vice president Lowell Edington of Napa.

PICKUP TRUCKS — Dropped consideration of Hadeler's proposal, at his request, to permit pickup truck drivers to buy commute books. Gen. Mgr. James Adam said the proposal would cut toll revenue by about $132,275 annually.

BRIDGE SAFETY — Received report that preliminary inspection by Ammann and Whitney, New York engineers, found the exterior of the two main cables "in good condition."

SECOND DECK — Received report from Adam that Ammann and Whitney had completed 75.4 per cent of its design and cost study for a second deck.

HOIST — Declared Foxworthy Auto Supply of San Francisco to be lowest of four bidders to modify the district's automotive hoist. The firm bid $2,104.

STIFFENERS — Referred to building and operating committee a recommendation by district engineer Robert E. Shields to replace 1,550 floor beam stiffeners to improve access for maintenance.

TOLLS — Referred to building and operating committee proposals for electronic data processing of tolls.

TRI-PARTITE — Broadened the study of the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee, comprised of representatives from the bridge district, Marin Transit District and San Francisco, to include "all forms" of transportation, not only buses.

DIVIDEND — Received a $29,862 dividend from the State Compensation Insurance Fund, a return of 47 per cent of the district's premium for the policy year ending Feb. 14, 1967.

Mississippi was the first state to abolish the law which would imprison a person for debt.

The center is regularly open Monday from noon to 6 p.m. and Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

HOBBY'S A BOUNCING BABY

Roger Baumann, 78, of Vallejo, started saving rubber bands seven years ago at the suggestion of a grandson. At first the hobby grew slowly — two and a half years ago the ball of rubber bands weighed only 26 pounds. This week, it weighs in at 200 pounds with a five and a half foot circumference. Higher Court On Check Count

Terry Jo Lynch, 19, of Leafwood Cricle, San Rafael, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday to answer a felony charge that she passed a forged check for $125.85 at Luana's, a San Rafael dress shop, Nov. 11.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered her to appear in the higher court at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 8 for arraignment.

Paul J. Mahoney Jr. of 18 Crestwood Drive, San Rafael, testified at yesterday's preliminary hearing that the check allegedly passed by Miss Lynch was stolen from Mahoney Paint Co. at his home in late October.

Save The Bay Agency Looks At Future Recreation Needs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Development of more parks, beaches, marinas and fishing piers to increase recreational use of the bay was recommended yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC).

The BCDC report will be considered by the full commission Jan. 4. It was prepared by the planning staff under the direction of Jack Schoop, chief planner.

HARBORS NEEDED

Findings and proposals of the report included:

There now are 13,000 mooring slips for small boats around the bay, but 25,000 will be needed by 1975, and probably 67,000 by 2020.

The bay now has 270 boat-launching lanes, but more than 420 will be needed in 1975.

A commercial ferryboat system to link sites such as Angel Island, Brooks Island, and perhaps a redesigned Alcatraz Island was recommended to create a system such as used on Swiss lakes and on rivers in London, Paris and Amsterdam.

MORE FISHING

More than the present 6,000 feet in fishing piers will be needed — 17,000 feet by 1980 and 37,000 feet by 2020.

More beaches also will be needed and a study should be made on the feasibility of placing beaches adjacent to power plants or other manufacturing plants to take advantage of warm water discharge.

"As a general rule," the report said, "sites at the water's edge should be reserved for recreational pursuits . . . and should not be set aside for special forms of recreation such as ball diamonds or golf courses that do not require a waterfront site."

North Marin Water Board To Reorganize

The North Marin County Water District board will reorganize at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the district offices at 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Agreement to furnish water service to the Marin County Airport and abandonment of plans for water service to San Marin Unit 9 will be considered.

Juvenile Court Gets Dope Case

Edwin P. Wright, 19, of Vision Road, Inverness, was certified to Juvenile Court from Marin Municipal Court yesterday to face a charge of possessing marijuana Dec. 21 in Mill Valley.

His brother, Charles A. Wright, 21, is to plea to a marijuana possession charge in Municipal Court Friday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Asthma, Emphysema Separate Diseases, But May Co-Exist

VAN DELLEN

A reader writes: "Is emphysema similar to asthma?" Both conditions involve the lungs and may coexist, but in most instances they are separate diseases. Asthma is an allergic disorder, whereas emphysema stems from chronic irritation exhibited by narrowing of the bronchi and dilation of the air sacs.

The asthmatic has attacks of wheezing and whistling, especially during expiration. Each bout is initiated by exposure to a substance to which the victim is allergic.

IN SOME instances, distress follows a respiratory infection or severe emotional stress.

During an acute attack the victim is sitting up, struggling for air, apprehensive, and unable to talk above a whisper.

The noisy respirations are due to swelling of the bronchial membranes. Injections or inhalations of epinephrine bring prompt, but temporary, relief. Nebulized i soproterehol does the same.

PERMANENT relief is obtained when the cause is known and avoided. Desensitization or hyposensitization may help.

Emphysema is more common in older persons and usually follows years of chronic bronchitis. This disorder is very much in the news today because it is so prevalent and is associated with heavy smoking and air pollution. Shortness of breath after slight exertion is the most prominent symptom.

Cough, usually present as part of the chronic bronchitis, may be severe, especially when the mucus is thick and sticky.

VICTIMS of emphysema also are susceptible to chest colds that persist for several weeks unless treated.

In emphysema, the walls of the air sacs are weakened and ballooned out. The bronchi are thickened and narrowed. Air enters the lungs but has trouble getting out.

Improving this aspect of the disease is mechanical and consists of special respirators and learning to breathe properly in order to force the stagnant air out of the lungs.

ANTIBIOTICS combat infection and drugs such as epinephrine or isoproterenol keep the air passageways open. Oxygen also helps.

But, most important of all — smoking is taboo and air pollution must be minimized.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

HE'S A DANDY

L. E. writes: Is something wrong with the mind of a 31-year-old man who takes more than one-half hour to part and comb his hair?

REPLY

No, provided he gets up 30 minutes earlier. In the past it was said that a gentleman spent a long time grooming himself but he dressed in a hurry.

BODY'S ALARM SYSTEM

A. Y. writes: What made my white blood count skyrocket to 16,000 when I had appendicitis?

REPLY

White blood cells are part of the body's defense against infection, and the blood-forming organs are stimulated whenever a disease of this type strikes.

SNEEZES AT BEDTIME

Mrs. Y. writes: Why does an elderly woman get a stuffy nose and sneezing attacks when she undresses for bed?

REPLY

The most likely reason is a physical allergy to change in temperature. Another possibility is the stirring up of dust in the bedroom.

PURPLE SPOTS

A. R. writes: What causes purple spots on the lips?

REPLY

Injury, birthmarks, and eating blueberries are the most likely causes.

Today's Health Hint — Baby should never be alone when he is in the tub.

Innocent Plea To Theft Of Clothing

Jimmie Juanita Green, 20, of 3550 Redwood Highway, San Rafaell, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge she stole $35 worth of clothes from Montgomery Ward and Co. in the Corte Madera shopping center Dec. 20. Jury trial was set for Feb. 6.

Police said Mrs. Green was arrrested by store security officers, who claimed she placed the items under her baby in her arms, then stuffed them into a large bag.

Maniotes, of 100 Scenic Drive, Fairfax, and Miss Alpers, of 1610 Hill Street, Apt. 2, Novato, allegedly offered the cigarette to Detective Sgt. Otto Haiungs Aug. 3.

Haiungs, who had posed as a neighbor, arrested them.

SPAN BOARD PAYS BILL, NOT PRAISE

Attorney Gets Fee For Defense In Hiring Case; Thanks Refused

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday voted 9-2 to pay an attorney $15,311 for defending them and their staff against charges of racial discrimination — then refused to thank him.

The attorney, George O. Bahrs of San Francisco, submitted the bill based on a charge of $500 an hour, Gen. Mgr. James Adam said.

Bahrs got a split decision on Dec. 5 on the two charges. The Fair Employment Practices Commission ordered rehiring, with back pay, of Jimmie Lee Wilkins, one of two Negroes fired from their painting jobs on the bridge. The commission dismissed the discrimination charge by the other painter, James Haugabook.

Voting against the payment were San Francisco directors Stephan C. Leonoudakis and John E. Dearman, who also voted previously against hiring Bahrs.

"He charges more than a plumber," commented director Daniel F. Del Carlo, a San Francisco labor leader. He voted for the payment, but expressed mock surprise that Leonoudakis and Dearman, both attorneys, "would vote against a member of their own union."

A resolution praising Bahrs was proposed by director William D. Hadeler of San Francisco, but it failed, in a 7-4 vote, to get a majority needed to pass. Voting against it were Leonoudakis, Dearman, Del Carlo and E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County.

"I just don't see any need to praise a man who took $15,000 of our money," said Dearman.

"I wish him a merry Christmas for next year, and that's all," added Del Carlo.

Directors Dan E. London and Ben K. Leher of San Francisco and Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County were absent.

Golden Gate Bridge Directors Also:

STATE LOAN — Asked Hadeler, finance committee chairman, to negotiate with state officials on accelerated repayment before 1971 of $5 million the district borrowed from the state to widen Waldo Grade.

OFFICERS — Re-elected for second one-year terms board president John E. Nelson of Mendocino County, first vice president William Moskovitz of San Francisco and second vice president Lowell Edington of Napa.

PICKUP TRUCKS — Dropped consideration of Hadeler's proposal, at his request, to permit pickup truck drivers to buy commute books. Gen. Mgr. James Adam said the proposal would cut toll revenue by about $132,275 annually.

BRIDGE SAFETY — Received report that preliminary inspection by Ammann and Whitney, New York engineers, found the exterior of the two main cables "in good condition."

SECOND DECK — Received report from Adam that Ammann and Whitney had completed 75.4 per cent of its design and cost study for a second deck.

HOIST — Declared Foxworthy Auto Supply of San Francisco to be lowest of four bidders to modify the district's automotive hoist. The firm bid $2,104.

STIFFENERS — Referred to building and operating committee a recommendation by district engineer Robert E. Shields to replace 1,550 floor beam stiffeners to improve access for maintenance.

TOLLS — Referred to building and operating committee proposals for electronic data processing of tolls.

TRI-PARTITE — Broadened the study of the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee, comprised of representatives from the bridge district, Marin Transit District and San Francisco, to include "all forms" of transportation, not only buses.

DIVIDEND — Received a $29,862 dividend from the State Compensation Insurance Fund, a return of 47 per cent of the district's premium for the policy year ending Feb. 14, 1967.

Mississippi was the first state to abolish the law which would imprison a person for debt.

HOBBY'S A BOUNCING BABY

Roger Baumann, 78, of Vallejo, started saving rubber bands seven years ago at the suggestion of a grandson. At first the hobby grew slowly — two and a half years ago the ball of rubber bands weighed only 26 pounds. This week, it weighs in at 200 pounds with a five and a half foot circumference.

Higher Court On Check Count

Terry Jo Lynch, 19, of Leafwood Cricle, San Rafael, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday to answer a felony charge that she passed a forged check for $125.85 at Luana's, a San Rafael dress shop, Nov. 11

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered her to appear in the higher court at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 8 for arraignment.

Paul J. Mahoney Jr. of 18 Crestwood Drive, San Rafael, testified at yesterday's preliminary hearing that the check allegedly passed by Miss Lynch was stolen from Mahoney Paint Co. at his home in late October.

Save The Bay Agency Looks At Future Recreation Needs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Development of more parks, beaches, marinas and fishing piers to increase recreational use of the bay was recommended yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC).

The BCDC report will be considered by the full commission Jan. 4. It was prepared by the planning staff under the direction of Jack Schoop, chief planner.

HARBORS NEEDED

Findings and proposals of the report included:

There now are 13,000 mooring slips for small boats around the bay, but 25,000 will be needed by 1975, and probably 67,000 by 2020.

The bay now has 270 boat-launching lanes, but more than 420 will be needed in 1975.

A commercial ferryboat system to link sites such as Angel Island, Brooks Island, and perhaps a redesigned Alcatraz Island was recommended to create a system such as used on Swiss lakes and on rivers in London, Paris and Amsterdam.

MORE FISHING

More than the present 6,000 feet in fishing piers will be needed — 17,000 feet by 1980 and 37,000 feet by 2020.

More beaches also will be needed and a study should be made on the feasibility of placing beaches adjacent to power plants or other manufacturing plants to take advantage of warm water discharge.

"As a general rule," the report said, "sites at the water's edge should be reserved for recreational pursuits . . . and should not be set aside for special forms of recreation such as ball diamonds or golf courses that do not require a waterfront site."

North Marin Water Board To Reorganize

The North Marin County Water District board will reorganize at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the district offices at 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Agreement to furnish water service to the Marin County Airport and abandonment of plans for water service to San Marin Unit 9 will be considered.

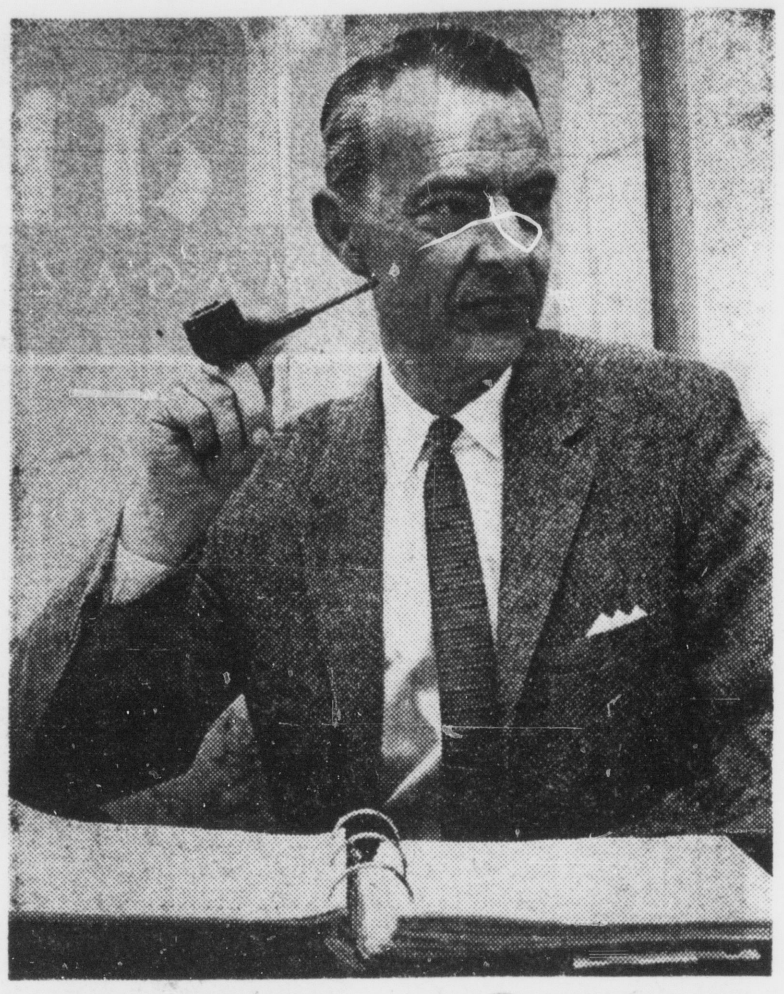
A Year Of Transition For Marin's Economy

Upward Trend Should Continue In County During The New Year Of 1968



CARROLL A. SNYKER, manager of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, reviews the Marin County economy and its growth during 1967 in the special report to Marin Magazine readers on these pages.

(Editor's Note: In the article that follows, Carroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, recapitulates the 1967 economy picture for Marin County, and offers some insight into what Marin residents can expect in the new year ahead.)

By CARROLL A. SNYKER

"A year of transition" probably best can describe the economic trend in Marin during 1967.

Transition in the sense that during the forepart of the year several of the major available indices of activity were slightly on the down side, but along in April and May an upward change occurred.

In some cases the shift was relatively slight, in others somewhat more dramatic, and these latter were of a nature to pretty well assure that an upswing in general will continue in 1968.

I don't pretend to be an economic prophet, but let's say it will last for six months anyway.

SINCE CHAMBER of Commerce personnel are popularly suspect of being incurable optimists, here are a few pieces of data to support those statements:

1. Retail store sales volume in Marin during the first quarter was down 1.3 per cent from the same period in 1966. The second quarter showed a 2 per cent gain. It will be interesting to see what reports from the State Board of Equalization will show for the latter half of this year when they become available. Several retailers when queried recently were well pleased with the volume of Christmas shopping.

2. For each of the months from April on, the Marin County Real Estate Board reports gains in the number and volume of home sales on multiple listing. Through November, the 1967 figures are 1,749 sales valued at 54.5 million dollars. The 1966 experience was 1,428 and 45.5 million dollars. The November figures are even more optimisitc in their portent — 181 compared to 117 and 5.9 million dollars against 3.75 million dollars. In recent weeks, inquirers at our office are indicating that the selection of housing is getting tighter.

3. Construction, that portion of the national economy as well as ours that has been really ailing, is doing better. May through October in Marin, the cumulative value of permits issued was 39 per cent higher than last year.

4. What should be even more encouraging to those heavily dependent upon construction activity is the fact loan commitments by financing institutions for projects in Marin have been running higher each month since May. For the first ten months the totals are 157.8 million dollars in 1967 and 150.4 million dollars in 1966. Somewhat better were the October figures which were 17.98 million dollars compared to 9.56 million dollars. Loan commitments, of course, relate to resales as well as to new construction. Though no definitive breakdown by type is available, the over-all performance and effect is evident.

5. Bank debits, that long-time and accepted indicator of business activity, show the same kind of turn-around and again May was the pivotal month. In the first four months, Federal Reserve reports for Marin showed a drop of 3.1 per cent compared to 1966. From May through November the gain has been 12.3 per cent.

WITH A SOLID seven months of improvement to point the way, and particularly since there is some evidence of acceleration, the short term outlook, at least, is pleasantly promising.

Several things are happening in Marin's economy and the bases on which it rests, about which Marinities in general are not too well aware. Cliches like "bedroom-county" and "no-industry" have a persistency about them that is difficult to put down and into proper perspective.

Within the inner Bay Area, with San Francisco and Alameda, the area cores, as the exceptions, there is not a county that is not a bedroom for one or more of the others.

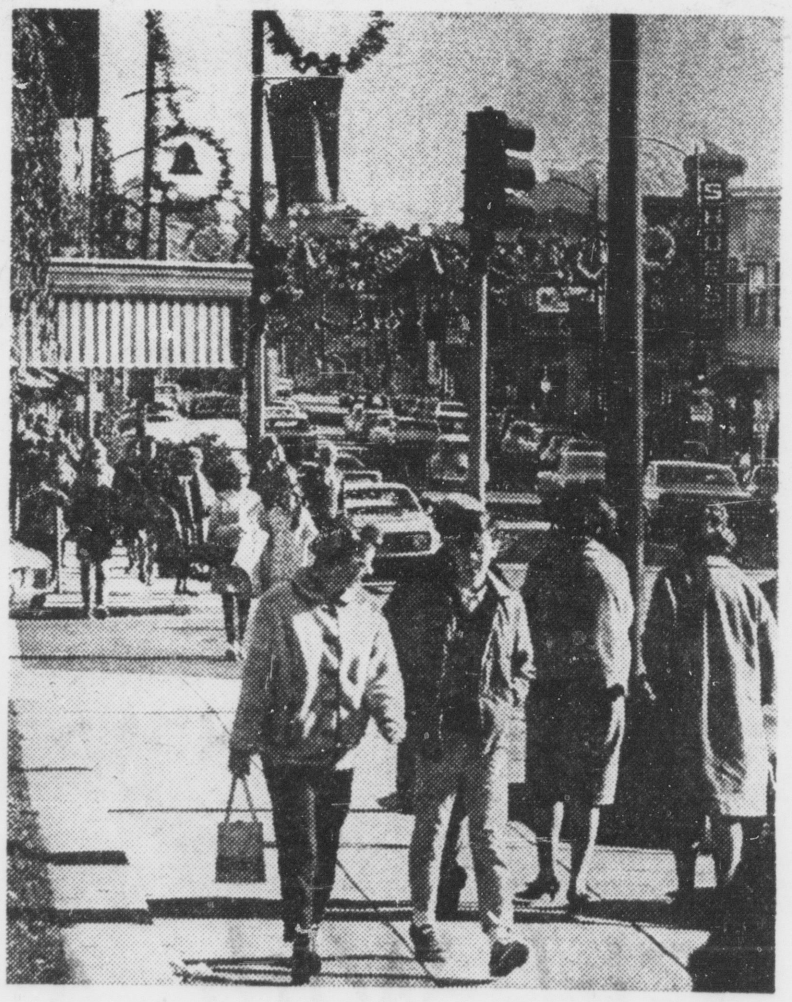
Contra Costa had 33.7 per cent commuters out of its resident workers according to the 1960 census; Marin, 37.3 per cent; and San Mateo, 42.2 per cent. Let's not demean them: commuting workers enjoy a better than average income, and the more shopping and entertainment facilities we have in the county to suit their preferences the more they're inclined to spend here. But, let us not demean the county's ability to find employment for its citizens either.

PERIODICALLY, the U.S. Census Bureau publishes "County Business Patterns" which includes employment figures within counties based on Social Security reports. The 1962 and 1966 issues provide interesting evidence of employment growth by type within Marin. They are important to us all so here are a few more figures:

Retailing — 30.6 per cent of county total in 1966, up 30.7 per cent from 1962, with 8,007 employees; services — 24.5 per cent of the county total in 1966, up 49.2 per cent from 1962, with 6,409 employees; manufacturing and distribution, 16.8 per cent, up 55.5 per cent, 4,383 employees; construction, 11 per cent, down 5.2 per cent, 2,871 employees; transportation and public utilities, 7.9 per cent, down 4 per cent, 2,071 employees; finance, insurance and real estate, 6.6 per cent, up 19.5 per cent, 1,714 employees.

While from available data it cannot be tied down definitely, there is some evidence that the proportion of our employed residents working within the county is increasing. But we will have to await the 1970 census to get a measurement.

In the 1962-66 period, our population increased 18.1 per cent while employment within the county grew 27.7 per cent. That's a relatively modest pace. However, there are intriguing ways that it may be appropriately freshened in a compatible and assimilative manner.



LARGE THRONGS of shoppers during the just-ended Christmas season, such as this one in downtown San Rafael, pleased Marin County merchants.

IN ADDITION to continued manufacturing and distributive expansion, visitors (tourists and short-period recreation seekers), administrative offices, and professional and technical facilities are all good potential targets. All of them represent assessed valuation, employment and new business directly and indirectly plus a spreading of the local tax load.

Visitors can leave a lot of money in the areas they visit. The longer they stay, the more you attract and the more facilities you have to incite their interest or satisfy their wants, the greater benefit they become to the area involved.

About Jan. 1, 1968, the Marin County Chamber of Commerce will become the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau through the merger of two separate organizations. The spadework in the visitor field has been done by the Marin Visitors Bureau, and, while the means to push forward will be meager initially, new ideas and approaches are emerging that will have their useful impact.

ON ANOTHER tack, the administrative and professional facility market has an interesting potential. Witness the precedents, all recent:

Commerce Clearing House — purchased the 82-acre Quaill Hill in Northgate for their own western headquarters and 100 employees, plus about three times their space for rent for other administrative offices, plus an Asilomar-type conference center capable of handling 200 attendees at a time.

A Year Of Transition For Marin's Economy

Upward Trend Should Continue In County During The New Year Of 1968

(Editor's Note: In the article that follows, Carroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, recapitulates the 1967 economy picture for Marin County, and offers some insight into what Marin residents can expect in the new year ahead.)

By CARROLL A. SNYKER

"A year of transition" probably best can describe the economic trend in Marin during 1967.

Transition in the sense that during the forepart of the year several of the major available indices of activity were slightly on the down side, but along in April and May an upward change occurred.

In some cases the shift was relatively slight, in others somewhat more dramatic, and these latter were of a nature to pretty well assure that an upswing in general will continue in 1968.

I don't pretend to be an economic prophet, but let's say it will last for six months anyway.

SINCE CHAMBER of Commerce personnel are popularly suspect of being incurable optimists, here are a few pieces of data to support those statements:

Marin's Senior Realtor

•Dick De Witt Has 48 Years In Profession

By HARRY CRAFT

In length of service, C. R. (Dick) De Witt holds the distinction of being Marin County's senior active real estate broker.

He is also one of the best-loved men in his profession, though he may regard this accolade with some skepticism. He has not been one to sacrifice his principles when compromising differences with others, even at the risk of being thought old-fashioned.

Dick De Witt counts his years in real estate (all of them spent in Marin) from early 1920 when he went to work selling property for Rocca Bros., an early brokerage and land development firm in Fairfax.

The Roccas had first opened their office at San Anselmo in 1908 and then moved to the neighboring community in 1912. A street in Fairfax named after them survives today as evidence of their many activities in this area.

BY 1929 DICK had purchased the business, which then became C. R. De Witt Real Estate. The firm was to flourish under his ownership for 36 years.

Two years ago he sold out, name and business to T. W. O'Donoghue, who has since closed out the office at 1914 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. It had been De Witt headquarters from the time he took over from the Roccas — and the Roccas' office for a few years before that.

But his name still remains listed among Marin's active realty brokers — even if it does not appear on the map, like that of his predecessors. Today he is an associate of the Gallagher-Sturiale Realtors' office in San Anselmo.

WHEN THE chips were down he simply could not retire — completely.

The year 1920 when Dick joined the Roccas was the year he was discharged from the Army. He had enlisted for World War I in 1917, but was never shipped overseas. Instead, he was assigned to stateside motor transport service. This was also the year of the founding of Marin County Real Estate Board, later to play an important part in his professional life.

"At that time there were only about 25 members and the board was not well organized," Dick recalls. "It went along somewhat indifferently until its complete reorganization in 1934."

BY THEN HE was well established in his own real estate business, which also included some home construction and remodeling. He became the reorganized board's third president in 1936 — an office to which he was re-elected again in 1946. He was also the board's secretary for 10 years.

For the first 10 years that he was with the Roccas, Dick was a "reverse" commuter from San Francisco — except during the warm weather months when he joined the hundreds of other city dwellers who either owned or rented summer cottages in Fairfax and parts of San Anselmo. But after he had his own business and was acquiring a name for himself he decided it was more fitting and also more convenient for the head of the office to be a full-time resident.

"In the early days this part of Marin was considered a place for summer living," he said.

"EVEN MANY of the big homes in the county were occupied only part of the year. The big change in population came after the Golden Gate Bridge was opened and Highway 101 was substituted for the Corte Madera Grade as the main artery for automobile travel.

"San Anselmo and Fairfax had almost as many real estate offices as San Rafael — Leach Realty, Croker and Co., Bob Carey, August Lang, Kent and Minto and some others. We sold and resold homes maybe four or five times. But people bought them to live in and sold them when they grew tired of them — not for speculation.

"Our customers were mostly referrals from other customers.

"MAYBE WE were lacking foresight or too close to the forest to see the trees — but at that time Marin was just 'country' and a nice, healthy place to live. Not many, if any of us, visualized it as it is today, nor did many of our clients. I can remember that I used to beg people to buy lots for a few hundred dollars in Hawthorne Hills (San Anselmo), now conveniently close to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and bus service."

More in demand, according to Dick, were lots near the old funicular railway, that years ago carried summer commuters to and from their cottages high in the Fairfax hills. They did not drive or ride by bus to San Francisco then, but went by train and ferryboat.

Some old-timers remember that it was not uncommon for many part-time residents of Fairfax to leave their keys with Dick, with carte blanche instructions to rent their homes, entirely confident in his judgment to choose desirable tenants and a proper rental figure.

IT IS REPORTED that invariably their trust was rewarded and, on returning, they often found the premises in better condition than when they left — and a check waiting.

For a number of years he operated as the only real estate broker in Fairfax. Anyone considering a property purchase, rental or sale there thought of his name automatically.

During my own acquaintance with him, which goes back to about 1950, my recollections are that he always seemed to be fully informed on virtually every piece of property available in the community.

DICK MARRIED Margaret Carley in 1923. When they met they found they had somewhat similar environmental backgrounds. He was a native of Yreka, and Siskiyou County was then productive in gold mining as well as in lumber. His grandfather had come there in the 1850s and his father was county assessor.

Margaret, a registered nurse, had come from another gold producing area, the Mother Lode country, where her father was an electrical engineer associated with many of the mining ventures.

They met in San Francisco where Dick had come in 1910 to study at Heald's Business College. Later he worked for the wholesale grocery firm of Wellman Peck and Co. He had become acquainted with the Rocca brothers before he entered the service, though he gave little thought to entering their real estate business until the war was over.

A SAND-LOT baseball player as a boy, Dick has always had an enthusiastic interest in the game, and remains an ardent fan of the St. Louis Cardinals. He likes the outdoors and welcomes almost any excuse to get away from his desk in fair weather.

Both Dick and Margaret came from large families and are fond of children, though they never had children of their own. They have occupied a number of homes in Marin — from Fairfax to San Rafael. Their most recent is at 100 Sycamore Avenue, San Anselmo.

Dick has been active in the Masonic Order for many years and he was elected president of the Marin County Shrine Club in 1962. He is also a member of the American Legion and is chairman of the Salvation Army in Marin.

STILL ACTIVE in real estate, though he has given up the Fairfax brokerage firm bearing his name, is C. R. (Dick) De Witt, a veteran of 48 years in handling Marin properties. De Witt was one of the earliest members of the Marin County Real Estate Board and became its third president after its reorganization in 1934.

"At that time there were only about 25 members and the board was not well organized," Dick recalls. "It went along somewhat indifferently until its complete reorganization in 1934."

BY THEN HE was well established in his own real estate business, which also included some home construction and remodeling. He became the reorganized board's third president in 1936 — an office to which he was re-elected again in 1946. He was also the board's secretary for 10 years.

For the first 10 years that he was with the Roccas, Dick was a "reverse" commuter from San Francisco — except during the warm weather months when he joined the hundreds of other city dwellers who either owned or rented summer cottages in Fairfax and parts of San Anselmo. But after he had his own business and was acquiring a name for himself he decided it was more fitting and also more convenient for the head of the office to be a full-time resident.

"In the early days this part of Marin was considered a place for summer living," he said.

"EVEN MANY of the big homes in the county were occupied only part of the year. The big change in population came after the Golden Gate Bridge was opened and Highway 101 was substituted for the Corte Madera Grade as the main artery for automobile travel.

"San Anselmo and Fairfax had almost as many real estate offices as San Rafael — Leach Realty, Croker and Co., Bob Carey, August Lang, Kent and Minto and some others. We sold and resold homes maybe four or five times. But people bought them to live in and sold them when they grew tired of them — not for speculation.

"Our customers were mostly referrals from other customers.

"MAYBE WE were lacking foresight or too close to the forest to see the trees — but at that time Marin was just 'country' and a nice, healthy place to live. Not many, if any of us, visualized it as it is today, nor did many of our clients. I can remember that I used to beg people to buy lots for a few hundred dollars in Hawthorne Hills (San Anselmo), now conveniently close to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and bus service."

More in demand, according to Dick, were lots near the old funicular railway, that years ago carried summer commuters to and from their cottages high in the Fairfax hills. They did not drive or ride by bus to San Francisco then, but went by train and ferryboat.

Some old-timers remember that it was not uncommon for many part-time residents of Fairfax to leave their keys with Dick, with carte blanche instructions to rent their homes, entirely confident in his judgment to choose desirable tenants and a proper rental figure.

IT IS REPORTED that invariably their trust was rewarded and, on returning, they often found the premises in better condition than when they left — and a check waiting.

For a number of years he operated as the only real estate broker in Fairfax. Anyone considering a property purchase, rental or sale there thought of his name automatically.

During my own acquaintance with him, which goes back to about 1950, my recollections are that he always seemed to be fully informed on virtually every piece of property available in the community.

DICK MARRIED Margaret Carley in 1923. When they met they found they had somewhat similar environmental backgrounds. He was a native of Yreka, and Siskiyou County was then productive in gold mining as well as in lumber. His grandfather had come there in the 1850s and his father was county assessor.

Margaret, a registered nurse, had come from another gold producing area, the Mother Lode country, where her father was an electrical engineer associated with many of the mining ventures.

They met in San Francisco where Dick had come in 1910 to study at Heald's Business College. Later he worked for the wholesale grocery firm of Wellman Peck and Co. He had become acquainted with the Rocca brothers before he entered the service, though he gave little thought to entering their real estate business until the war was over.

A SAND-LOT baseball player as a boy, Dick has always had an enthusiastic interest in the game, and remains an ardent fan of the St. Louis Cardinals. He likes the outdoors and welcomes almost any excuse to get away from his desk in fair weather.

Both Dick and Margaret came from large families and are fond of children, though they never had children of their own. They have occupied a number of homes in Marin — from Fairfax to San Rafael. Their most recent is at 100 Sycamore Avenue, San Anselmo.

Dick has been active in the Masonic Order for many years and he was elected president of the Marin County Shrine Club in 1962. He is also a member of the American Legion and is chairman of the Salvation Army in Marin.

STILL ACTIVE in real estate, though he has given up the Fairfax brokerage firm bearing his name, is C. R. (Dick) De Witt, a veteran of 48 years in handling Marin properties. De Witt was one of the earliest members of the Marin County Real Estate Board and became its third president after its reorganization in 1934.

A Hopeful Future For Little Sandy

March Of Dimes Brightens Prospects For Marin Tot

It was that supreme moment in the life of a woman when her child is wondrously emerging from the protection of her body into the world.

Mrs. William Stewart glanced at her husband and saw the look on his face deepen from concern to shock. Her eyes turned instantly to the large mirror focused above the delivery table so that the mother can see the entire birth proceedings but, frowning slightly, the doctor stepped in front of the mirror and her view was blocked.

As the doctor swiftly completed his work Mrs. Stewart was not held long in suspense. He showed her the baby — a beautiful, perfect-looking little girl, except for a deformed right arm attached in the shoulder area (but lacking a ball and socket in the shoulder) and two loose little appendages for thumbs. This was what was immediately apparent.

THE PEDIATRICIAN was soon to discover serious internal complications and it would be weeks, possibly months, before there would be assurance that there was not the mental retardation which so often accompanies physical birth defects.

While still on the table Mrs. Stewart asked to hold her baby for a few moments before she would be taken to an incubator in the nursery and Mrs. Stewart would be gurnied to the room where she would suffer the most intense mental anguish for the next three days. The small soul she had just borne was a victim of the nation's second largest killer and crippler, birth defects.

For the parents "the absolute bewilderment of not being able to do a single thing" was a cruel condition that simply had to be endured. Here is where you draw on whatever spiritual depth you have, says Mrs. Stewart. . . . "In utter helplessness you are completely dependent on God and He does help."

A MOTHER cannot wholly turn even to her husband, discovered Mrs. Stewart, because of his overwhelming concern for his wife. As necessary as his presence is, an objective person outside of the family often provides a healthy perspective.

In Mrs. Stewart's case an elderly nurse who had recently returned to nursing after many years was able to help with the sympathy and understanding of much experience. She offered courage, not pity.

"It was comforting just to be able to talk about it," explained Mrs. Stewart. "One searches one's mind over and over, what could it be and how could it have happened?"

WEIGHING ONLY four pounds, 11 ounces, tiny Sandra was born in Seattle last April 8. On April 9 a geneticist examined her and made a complete diagnosis. She did not fit any known pattern of defects such as results from maternal exposure to German measles or thalidomide during pregnancy.

Like most birth defects, blood tests showed that Sandy's problems are the result of a presently inexplicable chromosomal accident. These problems included a trachia and gastric tube grown together which would prevent the baby from swallowing. Surgical separation was immediately essential.

Probably the initial great joy following birth is when the babies are wheeled from the nursery in their little cribs to each waiting mother.

YOU HEAR them all crying as the nurses bring them down the corridor and then the babies are with their mothers and there is no more crying — but they don't bring you a baby. You just lie there and, beginning with the third day, approximately every four hours the milk will surge in your breasts, wetting the front of your gown.

In hospitals the babies visit five times each day, the mothers being permitted to sleep, if they can, during the night. For someone like Mrs. Stewart whose baby must remain in an incubator for whatever reason, each feeding time is a new ordeal.

Finally she saw her baby again when the ambulance was brought to transfer little Sandy to the University of Washington Hospital for the operation. "She was crying and seemed so helpless," said Mrs. Stewart, "and I thought they had already taken her."

"IT WAS A difficult time, but that day I went home and began to care for my other children."

The Stewarts are also the parents of two children born in perfect condition — Stephanie, 7, and Scott, 3. Since Sandy's birth, Mr. Stewart, art director for an advertising agency, was transferred to the agency's San Francisco office and the family now lives in Terra Linda. They chose to settle near the Marindale School for the Handicapped which Sandy will attend when she is 3.

Following the surgery separating the trachia from the gastric tube, Sandy was hospitalized for four weeks. The National Foundation's March of Dimes contributed to both the surgery and the after-care through its birth defects treatment center at the University of Washington Hospital.

MRS. STEWART brought Sandy to this clinic regularly and always saw little children at least as badly off and many in far worse condition than her baby. This center is only one of 100 birth defects centers thus far established throughout the United States by the March of Dimes.

Sandy is now being treated at the University of California Hospital in San Francisco where a clinical research and treatment center is being started. Her prognosis is for hopeful results with lengthy treatment. There will be many more doctors and possibly more operations in Sandy's life.

But at this point she is an extremely active, alert, typical little eight-month old who smiles at everyone.

HER BROTHER and sister love her dearly. To them she seems combination of toy, pet and baby sister. She loves to be carried around by them and their friends and wants always to be in the midst of other children. They all treat her as if she were not different in any way.

Also an artist, Mrs. Stewart feels that with the special adeptness with their hands that she and her husband share, they will be able to help Sandy develop skills with the four normal fingers she does have on each hand.

There is also the possibility of prosthetic devices when she is older. Here, again, the March of Dimes will help.

The need for research and treatment in birth defects is well illustrated by the 91 Marin County children who have received treatment at Children's Hospital in San Francisco since 1963 through the March of Dimes. This does not take into account during the same four-year period Marin children receiving help at the other National Foundation centers, those not known to the March of Dimes and the hundreds of miscarriages and infants who were unable to be saved during the crucial first two weeks of life.

MARCH OF Dimes research is covering the entire spectrum of birth defects from the miscarriage in early pregnancy to those found in full-term babies.

The March of Dimes which took the lead in conquering polio through treatment and research made possible largely by the generosity of the American people now asks all its well-wishers to "give so that all babies may have a happy BIRTH day."

Marin residents who wish to donate time or money and parents with children with birth defects are invited to call Marin County Chapter March of Dimes President, Mrs. Walter Johnson, or Mrs. Melvin Hammond, patient-care chairman. Upon referral by their physicians, children may go directly to any of the three birth defect centers now set up by the March of Dimes in the Bay Area; at Children's Hospital, San Francisco; Children's Hospital of the East Bay, Oakland; and at Stanford University Hospital, Palo Alto.

Teacher Aides In Tam District Performing Invaluable Services

WITH HER FIVE children all in school, Mrs. Eileen Quinn finds she can well spare the few hours a week from her Mill Valley home to work as an aide with English teachers at Tamalpais High School.

For 20 years Eileen Quinn has been hankering to get back into the professional world. But five children, plus a meteorologist husband whose work shift varied, kept her busy as "anchor man" for the home operation.

Now she's being "phased back" into the outer world of work more compatible with her inclinations and training. She has a college degree, major in English and minor in philosophy plus experience in university and advertising positions.

MRS. QUINN IS one of 22 teacher aides in the Tamalpais Union High School District. Her load of 12 hours a week in the Tamalpais High School English department is a little less than typical; her background and reasons for getting back to work are pretty close to typical.

The 22 aides at Tam, Drake, and Redwood work from 9 to 40 hours weekly. All have bachelor degrees, most have done graduate work, a few have master's degrees and some have teaching credentials.

Money is certainly not the motivation. They get $2.65 per hour.

FASCINATING work is part of the answer, but some of the clerical and secretarial duties can't be all that engrossing for such professionally trained people.

Being able to choose the number of hours, pretty much, that one works is probably the biggest attraction — plus the feeling of doing something worthwhile, something different from home and community.

"I find it restful," Mrs. Quinn said. "Well, I don't mean 'restful' really, because that sounds as if it's not work. It is. It's so different, it's restful."

ZENA FISH has a teaching credential. She works 10 hours a week for the Redwood social studies department.

She likes the "varied duties and interesting people," adding: "It occupies enough of my free time, yet it is not as confining as a full time occupation. When my children are in school, I am bored at home."

Several aides are former teachers, some of them in the Tam District, who "retired" to raise a family. Roberta Koss, a young and outstanding math teacher at Redwood for five years, was "reluctant to leave," but home and family made increasing demands.

"NATURALLY," Mrs. Koss said, "I was delighted to learn I could spend a few hours a week working with my former colleagues. Besides being useful, it interjects some adult conversation into my child-oriented life."

Sometimes called "para-professionals," teacher aides are not new, dating back to the early 1900s in England. Agitation to relieve teachers, especially those in high school, from the proliferating non-teaching tasks has been strong the past 20 years. By 1960 the practice was becoming acceptable.

In the Tamalpais District, a program for volunteer aides was begun in 1963, stimulating a research study by mathematics teacher Richard Newman, of Tam on a possible paid-aide plan to supplement the volunteer program. By 1965 it happened.

SOME OF THE volunteers became paid aides, but interestingly enough the volunteer program continues to thrive.

The aides work comfortably with teachers and administrators. The feeling is that having a degree helps their "status." The one concern voiced is in the area of student discipline. What's expected of them seems "ambiguous." The district's working on that, according to Robert J. Maner, who coordinates the aide program.

THE DISTRICT last year authorized each school 80 hours of paid aide time, to be distributed by department and hours as the principal saw fit. In addition, federal and state special programs like reading laboratories, special math projects, and library service, often pay for additional aides.

For the community and its schools, that's nice help if you can get it.

JANE ROBBINS, with an extensive educational background in psychology, anthropology, philosophy and English, assists 20 hours a week in Tamalpais High's unusual learning laboratory.

Several aides are former teachers, some of them in the Tam District, who "retired" to raise a family. Roberta Koss, a young and outstanding math teacher at Redwood for five years, was "reluctant to leave," but home and family made increasing demands.

"NATURALLY," Mrs. Koss said, "I was delighted to learn I could spend a few hours a week working with my former colleagues. Besides being useful, it interjects some adult conversation into my child-oriented life."

Sometimes called "para-professionals," teacher aides are not new, dating back to the early 1900s in England. Agitation to relieve teachers, especially those in high school, from the proliferating non-teaching tasks has been strong the past 20 years. By 1960 the practice was becoming acceptable.

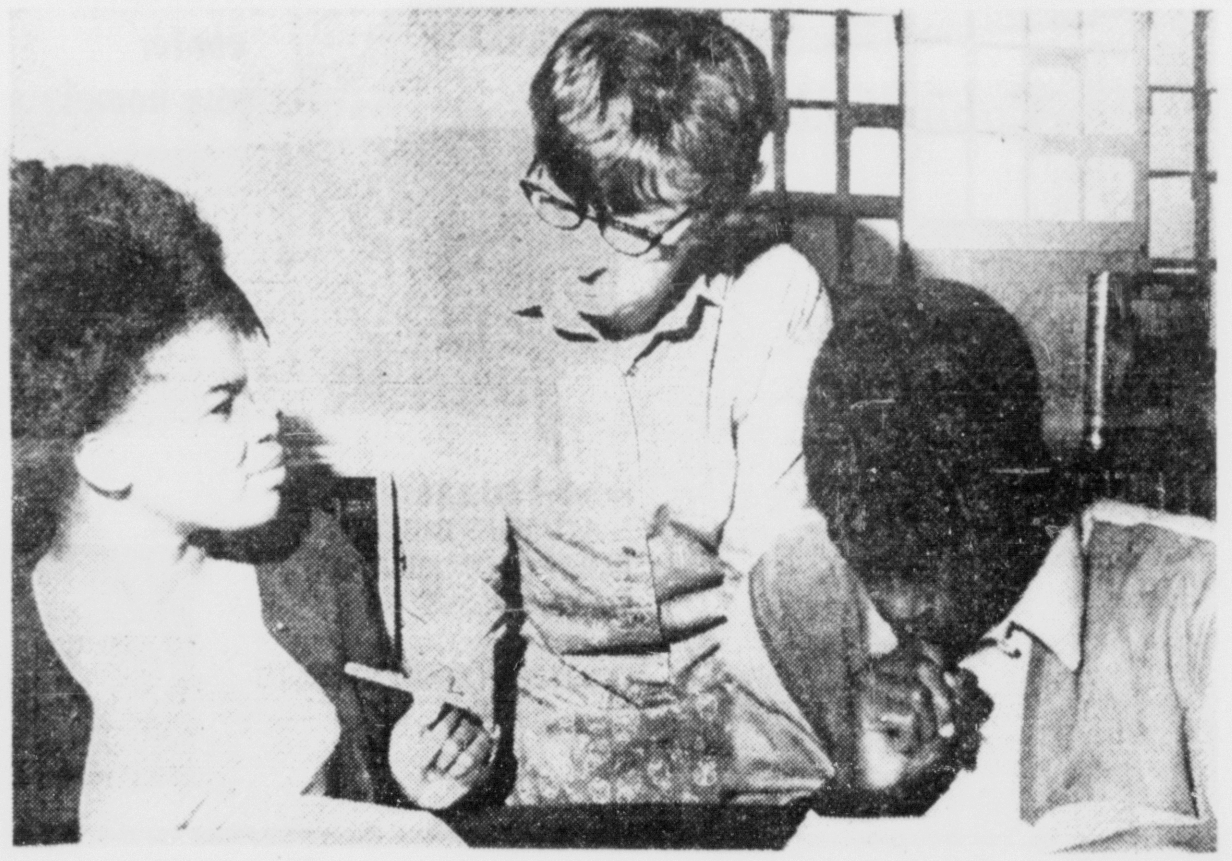
In the Tamalpais District, a program for volunteer aides was begun in 1963, stimulating a research study by mathematics teacher Richard Newman, of Tam on a possible paid-aide plan to supplement the volunteer program. By 1965 it happened.

SOME OF THE volunteers became paid aides, but interestingly enough the volunteer program continues to thrive.

The aides work comfortably with teachers and administrators. The feeling is that having a degree helps their "status." The one concern voiced is in the area of student discipline. What's expected of them seems "ambiguous." The district's working on that, according to Robert J. Maher, who coordinates the aide program.

THE DISTRICT last year authorized each school 80 hours of paid aide time, to be distributed by department and hours as the principal saw fit. In addition, federal and state special programs like reading laboratories, special math projects, and library service, often pay for additional aides.

For the community and its schools, that's nice help if you can get it.



JANE ROBBINS, with an extensive educational background in psychology, anthropology, philosophy and English, assists 20 hours a week in Tamalpais High's unusual learning laboratory.

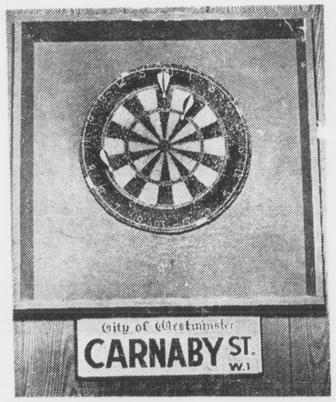
'Covering' Marinites And Their Activities

THIS, THE final issue for 1967, marks the completion of another year by the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine of covering and picturing the varied activities and interests of Marinites. Something of that diversity can be gathered from the cover photographs of 1967 issues of the magazine reprinted on these pages. How many of the stories do you recall? Starting at the top row, left to right, we have the fast action of rugby and the Olympic Club team with which many Marinites compete; the more serene activity of knitting as demonstrated by a Belvedere member of the Sunny Hills Guild; the Sisters of the Holy Family in the tranquility of their wooded grounds in San Anselmo; young Todd Stewart ready for the fun of Halloween "trick or treating"; Don Brown saddling a horse for one of the trail rides he leads over the Point Reyes National Seashore paths; artist Bruce Lauritzen at work in his Larkspur studio, and Darleen Bordner demonstrating the grace of synchronized swimming. In the middle row, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hugh Gregory Coleman enjoy a spin in their 1921 Model T Speedster; craftsman Jim Marsico fashions a gun stock, and the girls of Dominican College prepare for their annual Christmas presentation of "St. George and the Dragon." In the bottom row, Paul Ricci displays a piece from his driftwood collection; Air Force 1st Sgt. Charles Withrow looks at another longtime stalwart of Uncle Sam, a C-47 at Hamilton Air Force Base; a dartboard testifies to the accuracy of Marinites addicted to that game; school nurse Margaret Feldstein and pupil Janet Winterhalder conduct a vision test at West Novato School; women of the Garden Society of Marin admire the garden of Mrs. Thomas Kent; Mrs. Fred Sloat gathers eucalyptus for the Decorations Guild Greens Sale, and children of Operation Head Start in Novato romp under the supervision of volunteer Susan Gross from Dominican College. (Photos by Independent-Journal staff photographers Bob Hax, Jim Kean, Walt Lynott and Stuart Albrecht, by U. S. Air Force photographers, and by Sam Clark)

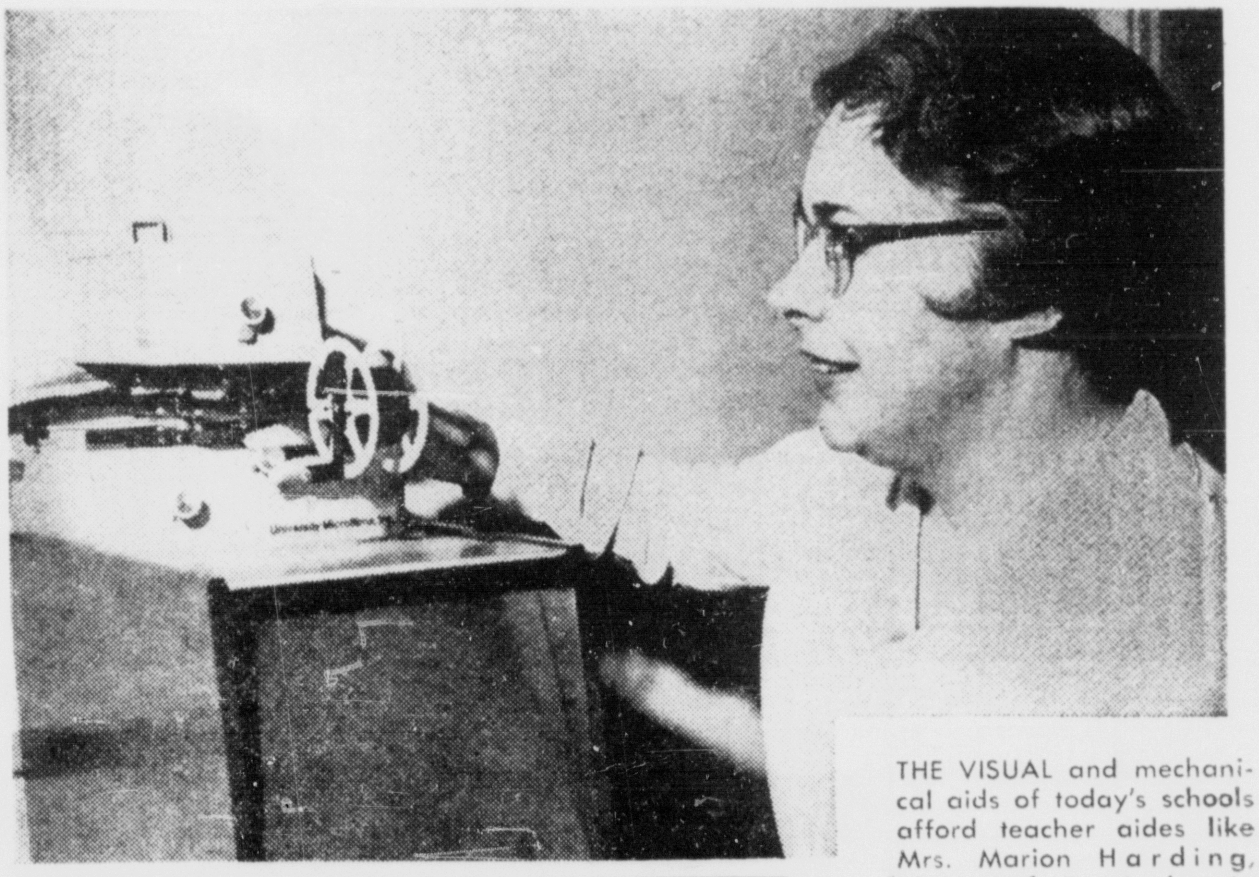


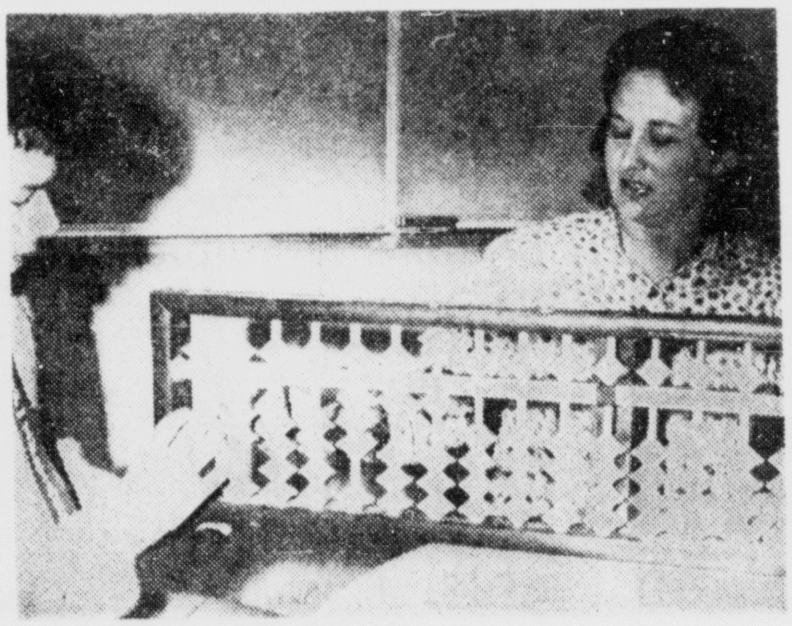
TEACHER AIDES such as Barbara Reem at Sir Francis Drake High School are invaluable to Tamalpais District teachers in performing clerical work.

JACQUELINE HALL is one of the Tam District's two full-time teacher aides, working in the library at Drake High School.

PATRICIA ESTES' qualifications as a home economics-dietetics professional are invaluable to the Tamalpais High home economics department where she works 30 hours a week.

THE AIDES ARE usually assigned to the department of their college major in the Tamalpais District schools. Greta Nelson, with a Master's Degree and several teaching credentials, works in the English department at Drake High School.





THE VISUAL and mechanical aids of today's schools afford teacher aides like Mrs. Marion Harding, above, of Tamalpais High's business education department opportunities for valuable service in the schools. At left, a giant abacus is used by Nancy Martin as she works with inductive mathematics students. She also assists in girls' physical education classes.

Yellowstone With Snow

The scenic wonderland of Yellowstone National Park takes on a new and fascinating face with its winter covering of deep, glistening snow.

Those who travel by automobile into the Old Faithful and Grand Canyon areas get a completely different view of the park from that seen by the two million summertime visitors.

DAY-LONG snowmobile trips present a fairyland of snow-shrouded trees, waterfalls turned to ice, fantastic ice formations creeping up to the edge of steam pots and geysers, and immense clouds of steam, whiter and more dense in the crisp, cold air.

Ten 12-passenger, enclosed snowmobiles take visitors for a daily tour from Mammoth to Old Faithful Geyser area and from Mammoth to Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone River. These large over-the-snow vehicles also operate out of the small mountain community of West Yellowstone, Mont., at the Park's west entrance.

The winter touring season normally starts mid-December and closes mid-March.

Snow piled up to second story windows and several feet deep on rooftops give famous Old Faithful Inn a storybook alpine look.

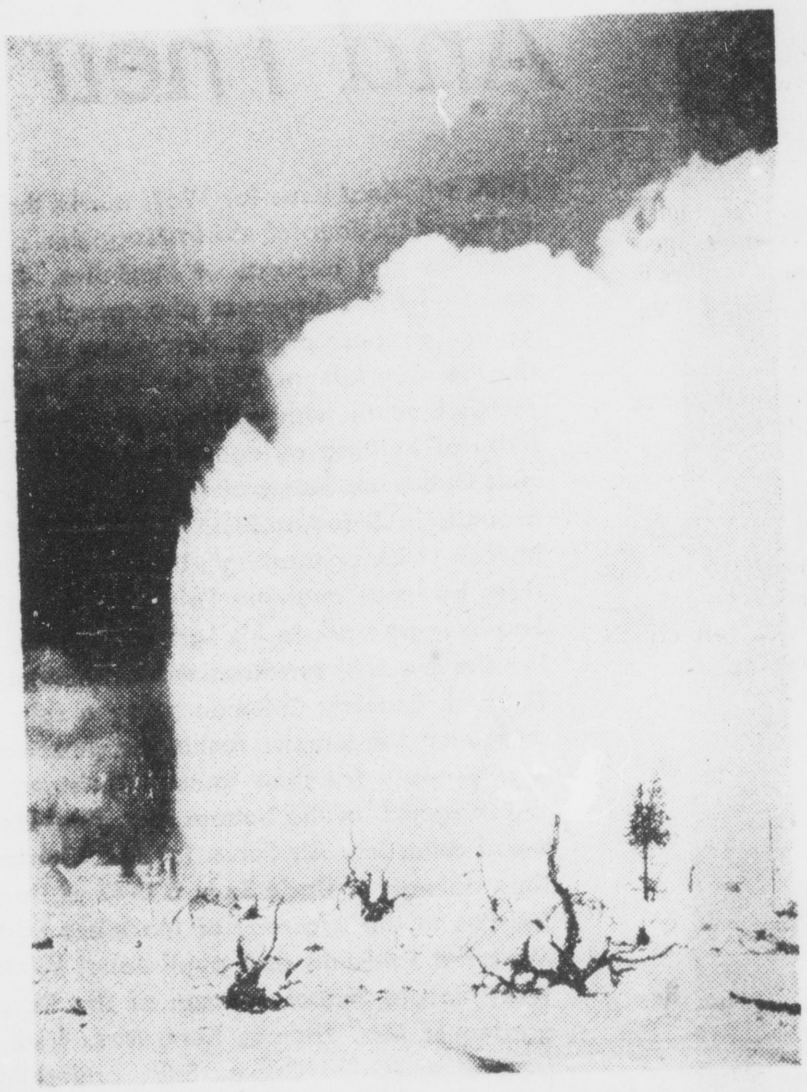
During the winter months, roads are open to public travel in the Mammoth area and through the scenic Lamar Valley to Cooke City, Mont. Mammoth Motor Inn is open for wintertime visitors.

Snowmobile passengers photographing this high mountain plateau country miss the famous Yellowstone bears, now hibernating, but there are buffalo, elk, moose and other species of wildlife in the winter foliage areas.

A natural ice skating rink is located immediately below the steaming colorful hot spring terraces at Mammoth. Excellent ski areas are located at Bozeman, Red Lodge, and West Yellowstone, Mont. Convenient rail and bus schedules to Livingston, Mont., and air schedules to Bozeman, Mont., afford travelers an exciting and different vacation this winter.

Yellowstone has been called, by many summer tourists, the world's most unusual national park. But, during the winter months, under a soft mantel of white, it might be labeled the most beautiful national park.

SNOW COMES early to the high plateaus of Yellowstone National Park, but there is still animal life, such as this foraging American bison in the Mammoth Hot Springs area, to be seen by park visitors. There are an estimated 450 of these huge beasts in the park.



THE GEYSER SHOW goes on at Yellowstone National Park, often with a special spectacular fury during the winter months. In the cold, clear mountain air, the steam seems to go higher and last longer. And the white surroundings add to the beauty of the display.

Death Valley Lures Winter Vacationers

The Travel Pages

Once a feared desert, today Death Valley is a popular winter vacation area which draws thousands of scenic - minded tourists from all over the country.

There's no resort in the country that can match Death Valley for sunshine. The year averages about 350 sunny days, with rainfall during that time of only one and one-half inches. The weather is perfect with daytime temperatures in the 80s and the evenings cool and clear.

This, of course, is during the season which begins in early November and ends the latter part of April. The summer record highs have reached 120 degrees.

THERE IS A touch of the supernatural in this 140-mile long valley. Names like Coffin Canyon, Devil's Cornfield, Hells' Gate Pass and Funeral Mountains haunt this desert basin and whet the imagination of the sightseer.

The sights themselves add to the eerie aura of Death Valley — foot-high salt pinnacles, incredible geological formations and craters of extinct volcanoes.

Death Valley itself was formed over millions of years when stresses in the earth's crust uplifted mountains and dropped the floor.

THE REMAINS of ancient lake beds exist in the basin, too. Lake Manly, estimated to have been 600 feet deep, left evidence of its existence through the rock-hard salt crust of Devil's Golf-course.

Beauty too can be found in Death Valley. From Dante's View the highest point in the area, you can see the lowest point in Death Valley — sheer drop of 282 feet below sea level at Badwater. In the distance are the snowcapped peaks of the High Sierra.

One of the most colorful sights in the valley is Artist's Drive, a one-lane road that winds through nine miles of pastel-colored mud and clay hills. Oxidation have turned some mounds red, pink and yellow; decomposing mica glows green and manganese deposits make hills of purple.

DEATH VALLEY is a land of contrast.

No doubt, greenery, palm-lined paths, pools and cool shade do not fit your mental picture of Death Valley. But visitors to Furnace Creek Inn and Ranch, in the center of the basin, can find exactly this.

Furnace Creek Inn, nestled against a hillside, sits in a cluster of date palms looking off to the whole length and breadth of the valley floor. Here buffet lunches are served around a swimming pool which is filled with spring-fed water from an underground river. The water is a warm 80 degrees which insures comfortable swimming, no matter how cool the air.

THE INN offers luxurious hotel accommodations on the American plan with rates beginning at $36 a day for two. Tennis courts adjoin the inn and a nine-hole golf course is nearby.

GUESTS at Furnace Creek Inn can visit Zabriskie Point overlooking one of Death Valley's scenic spectacles. From the point, ancient lake beds deposited five to 10 million years ago can be seen. The beds have been tilted and pushed upward by earth forces and eroded by wind and water.

Only a mile away from the inn is Furnace Creek Ranch, which sits on the valley floor, 178 feet below sea level. Surrounded by date groves, it is a true oasis.

The ranch has one to four room guest cabins and cottages at rates which begin at $13 a day for two. A cafeteria provides moderately priced meals and the ranch has its own pool. Saddle horses are available at the nearby stables.

THE SEASON at both these Fred Harvey resort operations gets underway in November and continues through early spring.

No visitor to Las Vegas should overlook a trip to Death Valley which is only three hours away over excellent highways.

A two or three day mid-week trip from Las Vegas to Death Valley is suggested. The drive is an easy one via U.S. highway 95 to Lathrop Wells, State 127 to Death Valley Junction and State 190 to Furnace Creek.

THOSE WHO depend upon public transportation will use the facilites of Tanner Motor Tours or Wanderlust Tours, for Death Valley itself is not served directly by rail or air.

As a National Monument, Death Valley embraces nearly two million acres of wild, untamed desert, but the area is well patrolled by a corps of park rangers. Food and water are plentiful and travel is comfortable over some 500 miles of good roads.

There were many things that drew the early wayfarers to Death Valley — gold, copper, silver, borax and new land West.

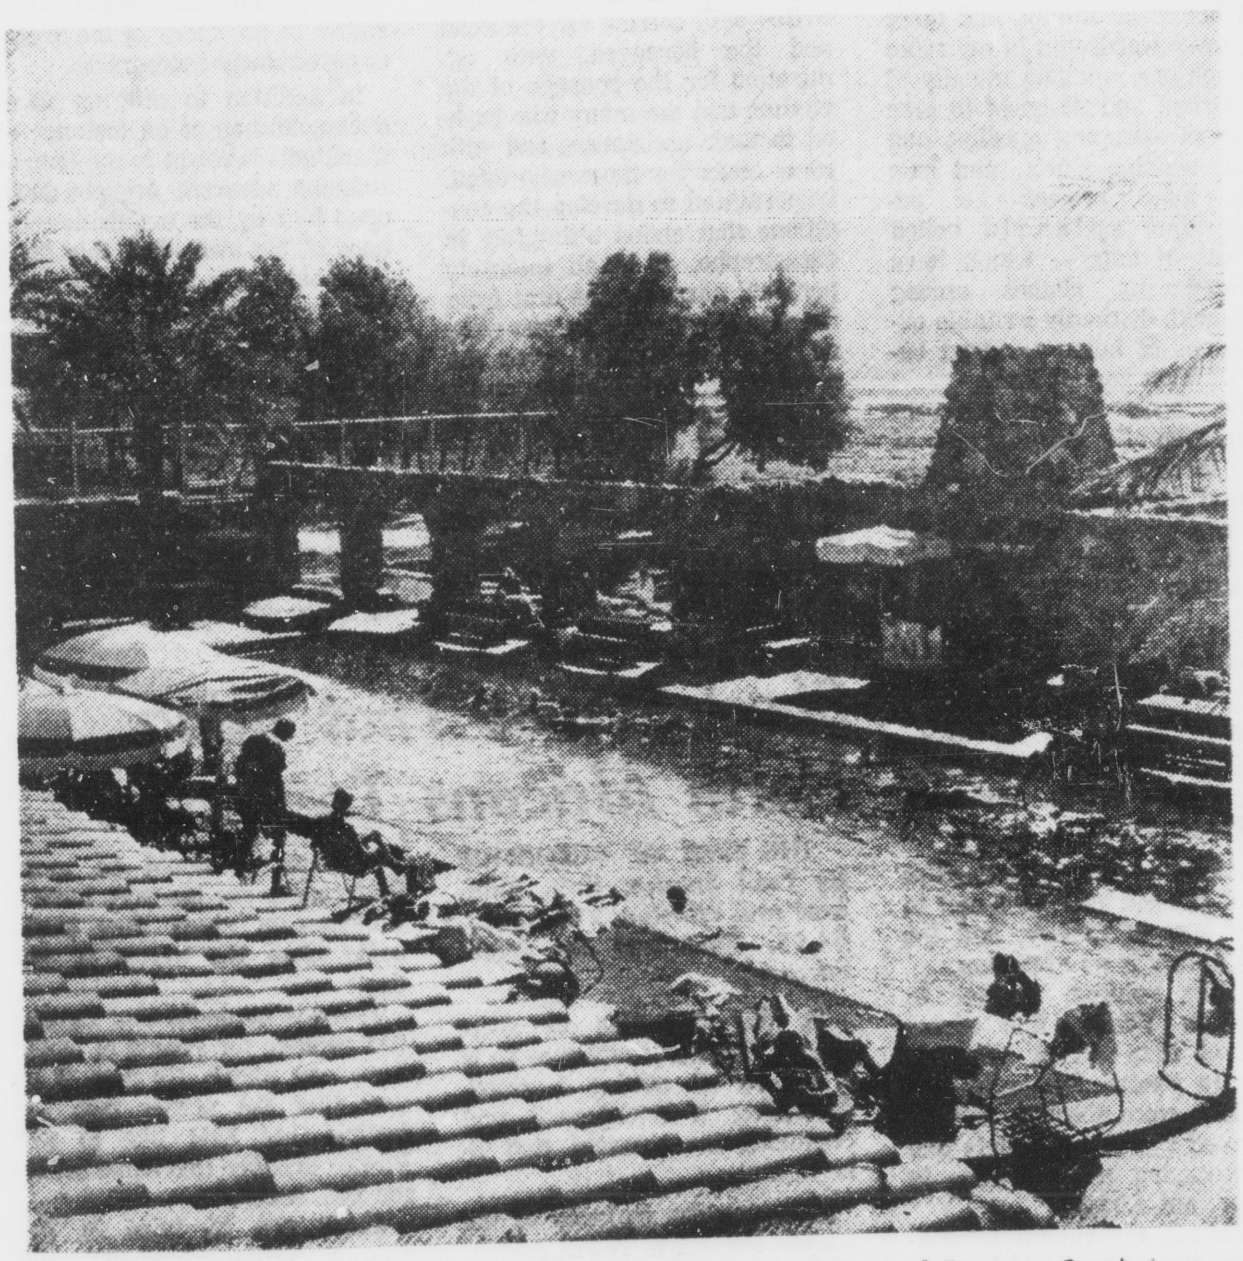
THE FIRST white men to venture across Death Valley were a wagon train of emigrants looking for a short cut to the newly discovered gold fields. They entered the valley the winter of 1849. When they became lost on the vast desert, the tired and starving wagon train separated into seven groups, each to find his own escape.

The most well-known of the groups was the Bennett-Arcane party, who camped for 26 days at Tule Spring and nearly starved while William Lewis Manly and John Rogers were sent ahead to find a way back to civilization. When Lewis Manly and Rogers returned to lead the party out over the Panamint Mountains, they looked back across the valley that had caused them so much privation and suffering — and cried out, "Goodbye, Death Valley."

The legendary wealth of the desert beckoned many and there are still attempts to mine the valley. But the towns of Rhyolite, Skidoo, Greenwater, and Panamint, which yielded fortunes in gold and silver, have died just as their lodes ran out.

BORAX WAS discovered in the 1880s. The company that developed the borax mining activities in the valley, and became known for its "20 Mule Team" hauls of borax over 160 miles through Wingate Pass to Mojave, contributed greatly to the development of Death Valley.

Today's prospector in Death Valley is a different breed. He swims in a heated pool, drives a golf cart over the links and sightsees in areas where his predecessor feared to go.



THIS HARDLY looks like the Death Valley of old, long feared and shunned by man. But it is. Guests of Furnace Creek Inn enjoy a dip in the pool of the winter vacation resort in the heart of the desert.

A Splashy Novel With Pertinent Theme For Today

THE EXHIBITIONIST by Henry Sutton, Bernard Geis Associates, 410 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Norman Moser.

This is the highly controversial novel recently in the news for causing a rift within the firm that brought it out. It is plainly written to be a best-seller, and has become one.

Written by poet David Slavitt and set in Hollywood and New York with occasional flashes abroad and even to Montana, it is a big, splashy novel — perhaps also slated to become a grand marquee attraction. But the popular novel comes in many guises and packages, don't forget; not a few novels now regarded as classics were written originally for mass consumption.

"The Exhibitionists" chronicles, in unblushing fashion, the lives of two people, Meredith and Merry Houseman, both destined to become big box-office attractions in our peculiar world of sexational films made usually for profit instead of for any of a variety of other reasons such as pleasure, insight, character portraiture — all these characteristics we associate with art. We grow up with them, watch them at work and at play, and certainly life for these people is not always play or happiness or even giddiness.

Naturally there are sensational aspects of this novel, which out of context would only seem more sensational. On the other hand there are some moving passages, particularly towards the end when Merry finds herself involved with an extremely sensitive, probably sick, French director who cannot for psychic reasons be much of a man to her.

It is the Frenchman who reveals their secret motivations to exhibit themselves publicly or privately in such a way that nothing is sacred or just itself anymore. With this touch the theme is made extremely explicit, which leaves a great many loose implications lying about.

In this theme Slavitt hits on a crucial American dilemma: our deep-seated need to display ourselves, if only in the corner drugstore, coffee shop or church. This corresponds perfectly to our fast-paced, pressured culture always on the move and in need of moving images to keep up with it. Also to the tragic loss of meaning and fulfillment in so many areas of life. No theme could be more pertinent to our time and our culture. Yet, there is also a lack of corresponding depth in this narrative, so that Slavitt finally does not get the most out of his timely symbols.

For, with all their applicability and timeliness, the use of the symbols and the structure of this novel seems somehow fabricated. Perhaps the symbols are too much in the realm of symbols — a bit contrived, pat, slapped out with little regard for the people and the events.

Still, I do not relegate this to the popular trash heap. There is something compelling about Merry Houseman, even in her confusion and hurt — and it is her book. She will not be ashamed of her life: it is, after all, hers to live. It is as though she says, blandly, 'You can live only once, so live it up while you can!' In her own terms Merry can even be called honest.

Many people, of course, will misunderstand her. Just so: the Merry Housemans of this world are never understood.

Blooms To Brighten The House

FLOWERING HOUSE PLANTS MONTH BY MONTH by Jack Kramer; D. Van Nostrand, 128 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Jack Kramer is one of this country's most prolific writers on indoor gardening.

Here he has authored a book that is primarily a source of ideas for urban dwellers on plants they can grow inside their homes so as to enjoy the color and cheer of blooms throughout the year. Suggestions are given a calendar arrangement. There is, however, also information on their care, once you have chosen the plants.

Special subjects such as out-of-the-ordinary selections, large plants, and the display of plants are also covered, and there is a listing of plant societies and of growers producing the more unusual varieties. A quick reference chart provides at-a-glimpse cultural instructions for some 200 plants.

Plants discussed are shown in black and white drawings, and there is also a color plate section.

Kramer is a Chicagoan, but, of course, geography is far less a consideration for the indoor gardener than for the outdoor green thumber. This is not the comprehensive guide on plant culture some might desire, but it accomplishes its main objective well and in addition, provides considerable advice on nursing house plants along to good health and glorious bloom.

MOLLIE PANTER-DOWNES
A nostalgic style

Leisurely Living In India

OOTY PRESERVED by Mollie Panter-Downes; Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 134 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Elizabeth Von Kaul.

If you are English and/or like to spend hours puttering in a garden, you may delight in browsing through this book about Ootacamund, a Victorian Hill station in India.

It has a rambling, nostalgic style. Mollie Panter-Downes favors long sentences, whose details must be savored slowly.

"My nylons drop softly out of sight into a tall wicker dirty-clothes hamper that could swallow the laundry of a sahib and his whole family, and there are three wardrobes in my room — each one smelling mustily of the Orient and designed to take racks of sweeping muslins, and serge walking skirts, and hats with huge crowns to accommodate splendid coiled masses of hair — which have digested my clothes among them with distinctly irritable expressions of being on short rations." That sort of thing.

The book is a leisurely description of a leisurely way of life, foreign to many action-minded Americans.

It is a pleasant book for those who have time to reminisce with the author.

The 17th Century

AGE OF KINGS by Charles Blitzer; Time-Life Books, 192 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

It seems as though similarities to the present can be found in many eras of history, and the 17th Century is no exception.

In this volume, another in Time-Life Books' fine Great Ages of Man series, there is much to ponder. Monarchs, not dictators, were absolute, science shattered traditional beliefs and the emerging nations were in Europe, not Africa.

All in all, the volume is well-written, well-oriented and, as to be expected, profusely illustrated in black and white and color.

When Nature Exacts Payment For Man's Abuse

THE MOUNTAIN THAT MOVED by Edward England; Eerdman's, 126 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Nature inevitably exacts her retribution when abused by man. But often the cost of this avarice or ignorance is so gradual or so subtle that only the more discerning are even aware of the payment.

Occasionally, however, Nature rebels against man's folly violently, and with terrible and tragic swiftness confronts mankind with the consequences of his greed and thoughtlessness. Too often the innocent must bear the brunt of the punishment.

One such instance took place in October, 1966, in the drab little Welsh town of Aberfan when a mountain tip, weakened by unwise exploitive mining, crashed down upon the unsuspecting people below, crushing the life from 144 of them, of whom 116 were children.

"The Mountain That Moved" is an account of that disaster, written by Edward England, a British religion writer and editor, and illustrated with photographs from the London Daily Mirror. All royalties from the book go to Save the Children Fund as a memorial to the Welsh boys and girls who died beneath those tons of slag and rock and earth.

England has written a moving, not unemotional account of the havoc and its aftermath. He writes with sorrow for the dead and the bereaved, with admiration for the courage of the victims and the many who rushed to their assistance, and with some anger for those who blindly permitted to develop the conditions that ended ultimately in catastrophe. It is an intensely personal narration, at first from the standpoint of those who were on hand and survived when the mountain moved, and then from his own point-of-view after he arrived on the scene as a journalist shortly after the horror had descended upon Aberfan.

Because of his professional capacity, England is interested, too, in the religious implications of the disaster. "Where was God?" many asked. But England found that in the end these people did not hold God responsible for man's misdeeds and negligence, and, indeed, turned to Him with a fresh, new understanding and acceptance of His presence.

The book has been printed with very wide margins — almost half the page. In the cynical reviewer this sometimes arouses suspicions that it is more a padding device than a design technique. But in consideration of the all-around good taste with which the project has been executed, one must give this publisher the benefit of any doubt.

The photographs, all black and white prints and reproduced very dark, are appropriately somber. The suffering, the bravery and the determination shown in the faces of the Welsh is particularly memorable.

In addition to offering us a documentation of an instance of mankind's heroism in the face of stunning adversity brought down upon him by the acquisitive actions of his own kind, this book also holds some lessons for those who can learn from history's past mistakes. For instance, will those who build on earthquake faults attempt, too, to turn the blame upon God when Nature presents yet another reckoning to mankind for his wanton disregard of the principles of common sense? Will those who denude the watersheds point to the Deity while floods rampage?

Short Stories That Bring North Africans To Reader

THE TIME OF FRIENDSHIP by Paul Bowles; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 215 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

In this collection of short stories, Bowles proves that he is a master at setting a mood, describing a background and capturing the moment that illuminates.

However, the majority of the stories are set in North Africa, where Bowles lives, and somehow with the rapid change in world affairs, they seem almost quaint.

Perhaps, it would be more flattering to say the tales have a timelessness since they stand aside from the events of the day.

There is no doubt that Bowles can capture the people of North Africa on paper. He does it so well that the reader gets the feeling that he'd like to see Bowles practice this same art on the U.S. scene.

There are 13 tales in the volume, written since 1950, and some of them previously were published in magazines such as "Harper's Bazaar," "Esquire" and "The London Magazine."

Death Valley Lures Winter Vacationers

The Travel Pages

Once a feared desert, today Death Valley is a popular winter vacation area which draws thousands of scenic - minded tourists from all over the country.

There's no resort in the country that can match Death Valley for sunshine. The year averages about 350 sunny days, with rainfall during that time of only one and one-half inches. The weather is perfect with daytime temperatures in the 80s and the evenings cool and clear.

This, of course, is during the season which begins in early November and ends the latter part of April. The summer record highs have reached 120 degrees.

THERE IS A touch of the supernatural in this 140-mile long valley. Names like Coffin Canyon, Devil's Cornfield, Hells' Gate Pass and Funeral Mountains haunt this desert basin and whet the imagination of the sightseer.

The sights themselves add to the eerie aura of Death Valley — foot-high salt pinnacles, incredible geological formations and craters of extinct volcanoes.

Death Valley itself was formed over millions of years when stresses in the earth's crust uplifted mountains and dropped the floor.

THE REMAINS of ancient lake beds exist in the basin, too. Lake Manly, estimated to have been 600 feet deep, left evidence of its existence through the rock-hard salt crust of Devil's Golf-course.

Beauty too can be found in Death Valley. From Dante's View the highest point in the area, you can see the lowest point in Death Valley — sheer drop of 282 feet below sea level at Badwater. In the distance are the snowcapped peaks of the High Sierra.

One of the most colorful sights in the valley is Artist's Drive, a one-lane road that winds through nine miles of pastel-colored mud and clay hills. Oxidation have turned some mounds red, pink and yellow; decomposing mica glows green and manganese deposits make hills of purple.

DEATH VALLEY is a land of contrast.

No doubt, greenery, palm-lined paths, pools and cool shade do not fit your mental picture of Death Valley. But visitors to Furnace Creek Inn and Ranch, in the center of the basin, can find exactly this.

Furnace Creek Inn, nestled against a hillside, sits in a cluster of date palms looking off to the whole length and breadth of the valley floor. Here buffet lunches are served around a swimming pool which is filled with spring-fed water from an underground river. The water is a warm 80 degrees which insures comfortable swimming, no matter how cool the air.

THE INN offers luxurious hotel accommodations on the American plan with rates beginning at $36 a day for two. Tennis courts adjoin the inn and a nine-hole golf course is nearby.

GUESTS at Furnace Creek Inn can visit Zabriskie Point overlooking one of Death Valley's scenic spectacles. From the point, ancient lake beds deposited five to 10 million years ago can be seen. The beds have been tilted and pushed upward by earth forces and eroded by wind and water.

Only a mile away from the inn is Furnace Creek Ranch, which sits on the valley floor, 178 feet below sea level. Surrounded by date groves, it is a true oasis.

The ranch has one to four room guest cabins and cottages at rates which begin at $13 a day for two. A cafeteria provides moderately priced meals and the ranch has its own pool. Saddle horses are available at the nearby stables.

THE SEASON at both these Fred Harvey resort operations gets underway in November and continues through early spring.

No visitor to Las Vegas should overlook a trip to Death Valley which is only three hours away over excellent highways.

A two or three day mid-week trip from Las Vegas to Death Valley is suggested. The drive is an easy one via U.S. highway 95 to Lathrop Wells, State 127 to Death Valley Junction and State 190 to Furnace Creek.

THOSE WHO depend upon public transportation will use the facilites of Tanner Motor Tours or Wanderlust Tours, for Death Valley itself is not served directly by rail or air.

As a National Monument, Death Valley embraces nearly two million acres of wild, untamed desert, but the area is well patrolled by a corps of park rangers. Food and water are plentiful and travel is comfortable over some 500 miles of good roads.

There were many things that drew the early wayfarers to Death Valley — gold, copper, silver, borax and new land West.

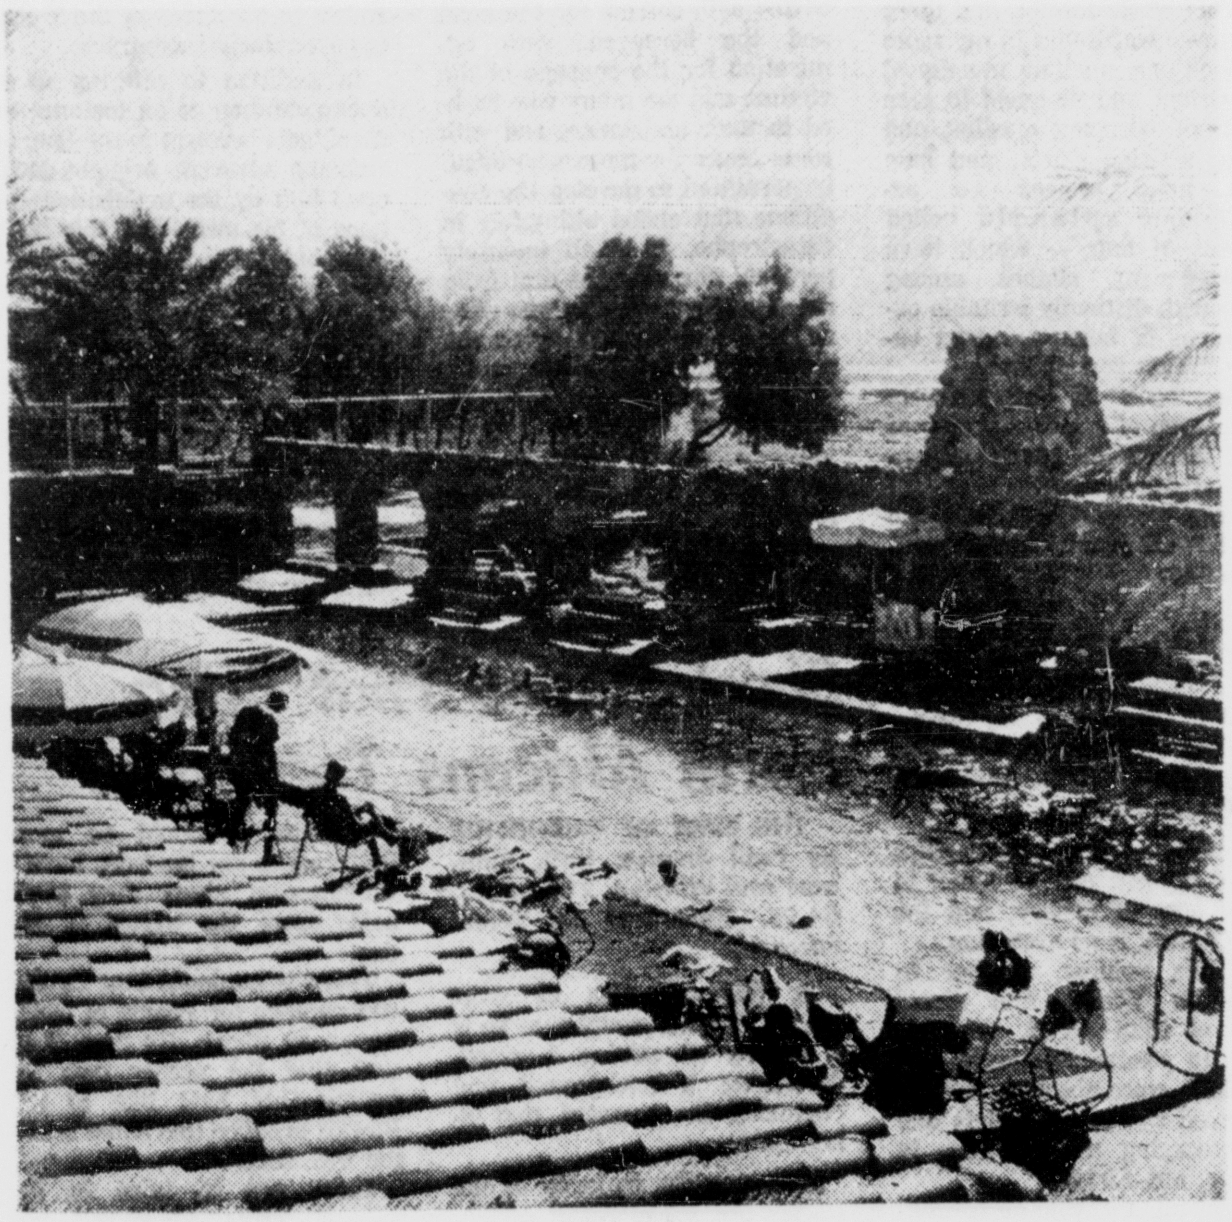
THE FIRST white men to venture across Death Valley were a wagon train of emigrants looking for a short cut to the newly discovered gold fields. They entered the valley the winter of 1849. When they became lost on the vast desert, the tired and starving wagon train separated into seven groups, each to find his own escape.

The most well-known of the groups was the Bennett-Arcane party, who camped for 26 days at Tule Spring and nearly starved while William Lewis Manly and John Rogers were sent ahead to find a way back to civilization. When Lewis Manly and Rogers returned to lead the party out over the Panamint Mountains, they looked back across the valley that had caused them so much privation and suffering — and cried out, "Goodbye, Death Valley."

The legendary wealth of the desert beckoned many and there are still attempts to mine the valley. But the towns of Rhyolite, Skidoo, Greenwater, and Panamint, which yielded fortunes in gold and silver, have died just as their lodes ran out.

BORAX WAS discovered in the 1880s. The company that developed the borax mining activities in the valley, and became known for its "20 Mule Team" hauls of borax over 160 miles through Wingate Pass to Mojave, contributed greatly to the development of Death Valley.

Today's prospector in Death Valley is a different breed. He swims in a heated pool, drives a golf cart over the links and sightsees in areas where his predecessor feared to go.



THIS HARDLY looks like the Death Valley of old, long feared and shunned by man. But it is. Guests of Furnace Creek Inn enjoy a dip in the pool of the winter vacation resort in the heart of the desert.

The Roots Of Violence: How Easily Can They Be Detected?

By DON KEOWN

One begins the reading of "Lee: A Portrait of Lee Harvey Oswald" with faint feelings of distaste and guilt.

Why has the brother of the man accused of slaying President John F. Kennedy chosen to re-rake once more the coals of what must have been a searing family tragedy? And are we justified in indulging our curiosity by sharing his personal remembrances?

The book can be justified over and above curiosity, of course, if Robert Oswald can shed some new light upon the factors that seemingly turned his brother from an ineffectual, confused nonenity into the fanatic who committed one of the 20th Century's gravest outrages.

With the help of his collaborators, Myrick and Barbara Land, Robert Oswald both fails and succeeds.

He shows that there was really very little in the years that had gone before that had indicated that Lee Harvey Oswald would some day commit terrible violence. True, he was the product of a broken, unstable home. Some minor warning signals can be detected in his boyhood now, but that is hindsight. It is not surprising these went unnoticed then. Hundreds of thousands of other boys and youths have or are living similar patterns.

Those signs became more noticeable in early manhood, culminating in his defection to the Soviet Union and his early disillusionment there. A craving for attention became apparent. But there was still little reason to suspect a potential for great violence.

But in pointing out that Lee Harvey Oswald's life prior to 1963 was not so very different from many other Americans, Robert Oswald may be making an important point. Are conditions such that society is producing many, many such potential assassins awaiting only the right combination of circumstances to trigger the explosion?

LEE: A PORTRAIT OF LEE HARVEY OSWALD by Robert Oswald with Myrick and Barbara Land; Coward - McConn, 246 pages, $5.95.

THE QUIET FURIES by Elton B. McNeil, Prentice-Hall, 207 pages, $5.95.

MOVE AHEAD WITH POSSIBILITY THINKING by Rev. Robert H. Schuller; Doubleday, 197 pages, $4.95.

Robert Oswald is willing to accept the guilt of his brother as fixed by the Warren Commission. He does quarrel with the commission's investigation in some respects (sometimes on surprising grounds). And he feels Lee Harvey Oswald may well have been encouraged by others in carrying out the assassination. But he is far more critical of those who have constructed theories contrary to the commission's finding that Lee Oswald fired the fatal shots, and fired them alone.

As with all books of this kind, one wonders how many of the words and ideas are Robert Oswald's own, and how many the suggestions of his professional collaborators.

Does that light which this book casts upon the formation of the twisted character of Lee Harvey Oswald justify the spectacle of one brother calling another a murderer, and implying that their mother's instability was a major factor behind that terrible act of violence? Frankly, we don't know.

IF YOU have been harboring the suspicion that all the world is somewhat off its rocker, except for yourself, you may have been over-estimating the ranks of the stable by one.

The point of "The Quiet Furies" by Elton B. McNeil, University of Michigan professor of psychology and clinical psychologist, is that in the jolts and tensions of life, every man has suffered some psychical damage.

The difference between what we have come to regard as normality and abnormality, then, is one of degree — how frequently those maladjustments occur, how quick and complete the recovery.

When the pressure proves unbearable, the neurotic slips into psychotic. When man confronts adversity, and bests it or moves on to other interests after a temporary struggle, he retains some mastery over the "quiet furies" of his subconscious. But they are still there. And will arise to do battle again and again.

To demonstrate the thin and tenuous line that runs between normality and abnormality, between the man-on-the-street and the Lee Oswalds, McNeil cites 19 slightly-disguised case histories of people who have struggled with mental disorder —the obsessive-compulsive, the anxiety-ridden, the anti-social delinquent, the alcoholic, the drug addict, the brain injury victim, the paranoid, the syphilitic, etc.

For each, there is a preliminary discussion of the sickness, followed by the narration of its pattern and symptoms and of the effort to locate its roots and cure. Some cases evolved happily in the recovery or improvement of the ill ones. Some did not. The results of others are still pending.

McNeil's hope is that his book will make its readers more aware of the upsets hidden within all of us, so that we will be in a better position to prevent their escalation and consequent damage such as was caused in the 19 life patterns he has related. The awareness is achieved, to an uncomfortable degree.

REV. ROBERT H. Schuller's "possibility thinking" in his "Move Ahead With Possibility Thinking" turns out to be a euphonism for our old friend "positive thinking." In fact, the high priest of positive thinking, Norman Vincent Peale, gives this book his stamp of endorsement on its dustjacket.

Schuller is well known himself as founder and pastor of the Reformed Church at Garden Grove, Calif., often referred to as the Walk-In-Drive-In Church, where a thousand worshipers can be seated indoors for services while other thousands can participate from their cars parked outside in the manner of the drive-in theater.

His book makes frequent mention of his unusual church and how it came about. But the theme is that man, with sufficient confidence in himself and in his religion, can accomplish almost anything, just as Reverend Schuller built his church and congregation from a shoestring start.

One hundred and ninety seven pages of this may strike most readers as too much of a good and often obvious thing.

Perhaps the best chapter in the book is the author's relatively practical discussion of time management. Otherwise, the book differs very little from what Peale and others have written and rewritten before him.

PUBLISHED by Vantage Press of New York is "Meditations on Faith and Selected Prayers," collected and introduced by Aileen Harmon of Tiburon.

The Marin woman has assembled expressions of faith from men and women of many times and creeds, both the famous and the not-so-well-known.

In her foreword, Mrs. Harmon says: "Without faith we exist. . . yes, only exist. With faith we live in the richness of God's love for us and for our fellow man."

A VALUABLE resource book for schools, libraries, civil rights organizations and leaders and for churches is "A Layman's Guide to Negro History" compiled by Erwin A. Salk, and now issued by its publisher, McGraw-Hill, in a new and enlarged edition selling for $5.95.

It offers a comprehensive bibliography of books and teaching aids plus listings of major events and personalities from Negro history and culture.

A Splashy Novel With Pertinent Theme For Today

THE EXHIBITIONIST by Henry Sutton, Bernard Geis Associates, 410 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Norman Moser.

This is the highly controversial novel recently in the news for causing a rift within the firm that brought it out. It is plainly written to be a best-seller, and has become one.

Written by poet David Slavitt and set in Hollywood and New York with occasional flashes abroad and even to Montana, it is a big, splashy novel — perhaps also slated to become a grand marquee attraction. But the popular novel comes in many guises and packages, don't forget; not a few novels now regarded as classics were written originally for mass consumption.

"The Exhibitionists" chronicles, in unblushing fashion, the lives of two people, Meredith and Merry Houseman, both destined to become big box-office attractions in our peculiar world of sexational films made usually for profit instead of for any of a variety of other reasons such as pleasure, insight, character portraiture — all those characteristics we associate with art. We grow up with them, watch them at work and at play, and certainly life for these people is not always play or happiness or even giddiness.

Naturally there are sensational aspects of this novel, which out of context would only seem more sensational. On the other hand there are some moving passages, particularly towards the end when Merry finds herself involved with an extremely sensitive, probably sick, French director who cannot for psychic reasons be much of a man to her.

It is the Frenchman who reveals their secret motivations to exhibit themselves publicly or privately in such a way that nothing is sacred or just itself anymore. With this touch the theme is made extremely explicit, which leaves a great many loose implications lying about.

In this theme Slavitt hits on a crucial American dilemma: our deep-seated need to display ourselves, if only in the corner drugstore, coffee shop or church. This corresponds perfectly to our fast-paced, pressured culture always on the move and in need of moving images to keep up with it. Also to the tragic loss of meaning and fulfillment in so many areas of life. No theme could be more pertinent to our time and our culture. Yet, there is also a lack of corresponding depth in this narrative, so that Slavitt finally does not get the most out of his timely symbols.

For, with all their applicability and timeliness, the use of the symbols and the structure of this novel seems somehow fabricated. Perhaps the symbols are too much in the realm of symbols — a bit contrived, pat, slapped out with little regard for the people and the events.

Still, I do not relegate this to the popular trash heap. There is something compelling about Merry Houseman, even in her confusion and hurt — and it is her book. She will not be ashamed of her life: it is, after all, hers to live. It is as though she says, blandly, 'You can live only once, so live it up while you can!' In her own terms Merry can even be called honest.

Many people, of course, will misunderstand her. Just so: the Merry Housemans of this world are never understood.

Blooms To Brighten The House

FLOWERING HOUSE PLANTS MONTH BY MONTH by Jack Kramer; D. Van Nostrand, 128 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Jack Kramer is one of this country's most prolific writers on indoor gardening.

Here he has authored a book that is primarily a source of ideas for urban dwellers on plants they can grow inside their homes so as to enjoy the color and cheer of blooms throughout the year. Suggestions are given a calendar arrangement. There is, however, also information on their care, once you have chosen the plants.

Special subjects such as out-of-the-ordinary selections, large plants, and the display of plants are also covered, and there is a listing of plant societies and of growers producing the more unusual varieties. A quick reference chart provides at-a-glimpse cultural instructions for some 200 plants.

Plants discussed are shown in black and white drawings, and there is also a color plate section.

Kramer is a Chicagoan, but, of course, geography is far less a consideration for the indoor gardener than for the outdoor green thumber. This is not the comprehensive guide on plant culture some might desire, but it accomplishes its main objective well and in addition, provides considerable advice on nursing house plants along to good

Leisurely Living In India

OOTY PRESERVED by Mollie Panter-Downes; Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 134 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Elizabeth Von Kaul.

If you are English and or like to spend hours puttering in a garden, you may delight in browsing through this book about Ootacamund, a Victorian Hill station in India.

It has a rambling, nostalgic style. Mollie Panter-Downes favors long sentences, whose details must be savored slowly.

"My nylons drop softly out of sight into a tall wicker dirty-clothes hamper that could swallow the laundry of a sahib and his whole family, and there are three wardrobes in my room — each one smelling mustily of the Orient and designed to take racks of sweeping muslins, and serge walking skirts, and hats with huge crowns to accommodate splendid coiled masses of hair — which have digested my clothes among them with distinctly irritable expressions of being on short rations." That sort of thing.

The book is a leisurely description of a leisurely way of life, foreign to many action-minded Americans.

It is a pleasant book for those who have time to reminisce with the author.

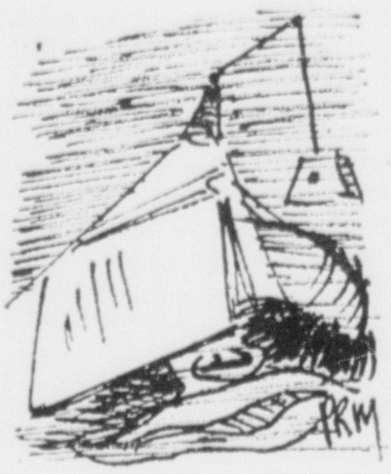
In this volume, another in Time-Life Books' fine Great Ages of Man series, there is much to ponder. Monarchs, not dictators, were absolute, science shattered traditional beliefs and the emerging nations were in Europe, not Africa.

All in all, the volume is well-written, well-oriented and, as to be expected, profusely illustrated in black and white and color.

When Nature Exacts Payment For Man's Abuse

THE MOUNTAIN THAT MOVED by Edward England; Eerdman's, 126 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.



Nature inevitably exacts her retribution when abused by man. But often the cost of this avarice or ignorance is so gradual or so subtle that only the more discerning are even aware of the payment.

Occasionally, however, Nature rebels against man's folly violently, and with terrible and tragic swiftness confronts mankind with the consequences of his greed and thoughtlessness. Too often the innocent must bear the brunt of the punishment.

One such instance took place in October, 1966, in the drab little Welsh town of Aberfan when a mountain tip, weakened by unwise exploitive mining, crashed down upon the unsuspecting people below, crushing the life from 144 of them, of whom 116 were children.

"The Mountain That Moved" is an account of that disaster, written by Edward England, a British religion writer and editor, and illustrated with photographs from the London Daily Mirror. All royalties from the book go to Save the Children Fund as a memorial to the Welsh boys and girls who died beneath those tons of slag and rock and earth.

England has written a moving, not unemotional account of the havoc and its aftermath. He writes with sorrow for the dead and the bereaved, with admiration for the courage of the victims and the many who rushed to their assistance, and with some anger for those who blindly permitted to develop the conditions that ended ultimately in catastrophe. It is an intensely personal narration, at first from the standpoint of those who were on hand and survived when the mountain moved, and then from his own point-of-view after he arrived on the scene as a journalist shortly after the horror had descended upon Aberfan.

Because of his professional capacity, England is interested, too, in the religious implications of the disaster. "Where was God?" many asked. But England found that in the end these people did not hold God responsible for man's misdeeds and negligence, and, indeed, turned to Him with a fresh, new understanding and acceptance of His presence.

The book has been printed with very wide margins — almost half the page. In the cynical reviewer this sometimes arouses suspicions that it is more a padding device than a design technique. POET'S CORNER

CHRISTMAS BY THE 'TELLY'

nor fearless of planes,
This Christmas (stocked with lots of bread and jelly)
I spent Christmas with my "telly."
And in retrospect:
I think I've seen the entire work of Dickens—
There was Oliver Twist going to see
Miss Haversham with Tiny Tim . . .
And Scrooge sledding with Donald Duck
Not to omit Pip stealing apples to give to Little Nell. All this provided a neat backdrop for Loren Green
And Ray Conniff to take on Carmen the Dragon.
With apprehension I watched the Grinch almost spoil Mr. Magoo's Xmas and was relieved when the Miracle on 34th Street
traditionally occurred with Bing's White Christmas.
But then to top it all
there was ole Truman recalling memories
(en compote)
and the other Truman with Christmas music
from Europe.
About that time I gave up.
I mean, sitting by the "telly" is no way to spend Christmas.
From now on,
it's the radio.

ODE TO A DYING YEAR

Goodbye, old year, you're fading fast,
And so farewell to thee.
You'll soon join years gone past,
And move into eternity.
The plans we made when you were new,
Some of them have come true,
And so we'll part as friends, old year,
We owe a lot to you.

The whole world waits, it won't be long,
A few more hours and you'll be gone.
We'll sing and dance and merry be,
And wish to all prosperity.
Whistles, horns and bells we'll hear,
And shouts to all — "Happy New Year."

The din and roar, the pomp and show
Doesn't mean we're glad to see you go—
It only means we're glad we're here
To welcome in a brand new year.
So sing out the old, ring in the new—
Farewell, old year, goodbye to you.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

SPANKY AND OUR GANG — Mercury SR 61124:

"Sunday Will Never Be The Same" is the title track of this first LP by a mostly-vocal quartet patterned almost too closely after The Mammas and Pappas. This one tune is great, and so are several others in the fancy double-fold package full of candid photos of the group.

There seems to be a trend toward omitting liner notes entirely from rock album sleeves. Considering some of the drivel found on sleeves of jazz albums, perhaps this is a good thing.

These kids are doing a fine job; it's just unfortunate that Cass and Her Gang have done it first.

BLUES MAGOOS — "Electric Comic Book". — Mercury SR 61104:

This Chicago-based group of youngsters already has one LP out. While their work lacks maturity and density, they do have some trenchant comments to make in their lyrics and their sound is quite professional.

The notes refer to their music as the shotgun marriage of Pop Art and Looney Tunes, which is fairly accurate. It just appears Chicago is out of it as far as the rock scene goes — San Francisco is where it's really happening.

JOHNNY RIVERS — "Rewind" — Imperial LP 12341:

The majority of rock fans in this area put down Johnny Rivers because he seems rather dated since the big explosion of San Francisco rock. However, I find him frequently enjoyable because of his highly polished professionalism. This is a quality many of the newer groups could use a bit of. He also has a very pleasing voice.

His hits, "Baby I Need Your Lovin'" and "The Tracks of My Tears" are found in this album. "Sweet Smiling Children" makes pithy comment on mass conspicous consumption, while actual television commercials provide counterpoint in the background.

While this is not exactly rock, it has recently become such a popular "new" sound that perhaps it will follow hard on the heels of the sitar as Greece's contribution to Western pop music.

This is the most enjoyable LP of bouzouki music I have heard since the original "Never On Sunday" soundtrack album. Actually taped in Greece, a poor country without stereo production facilities, the album has been re-channeled for stereo effect with unusually good results. "Zorba's Dance" is included.

One will hardly be able to keep oneself from hopping up and spinning around to the infectious music.

The Roots Of Violence: How Easily Can They Be Detected?

By DON KEOWN

LEE: A PORTRAIT OF LEE HARVEY OSWALD by Robert Oswald with Myrick and Barbara Land; Coward - McConn, 246 pages, $5.95.

THE QUIET FURIES by Elton B. McNeil, Prentice-Hall, 207 pages, $5.95.

MOVE AHEAD WITH POSSIBILITY THINKING by Rev. Robert H. Schuller; Doubleday, 197 pages, $4.95.

One begins the reading of "Lee: A Portrait of Lee Harvey Oswald" with faint feelings of distaste and guilt.

Why has the brother of the man accused of slaying President John F. Kennedy chosen to re-rake once more the coals of what must have been a searing family tragedy? And are we justified in indulging our curiosity by sharing his personal remembrances?

The book can be justified over and above curiosity, of course, if Robert Oswald can shed some new light upon the factors that seemingly turned his brother from an ineffectual, confused nonenity into the fanatic who committed one of the 20th Century's gravest outrages.

With the help of his collaborators, Myrick and Barbara Land, Robert Oswald both fails and succeeds.

He shows that there was really very little in the years that had gone before that had indicated that Lee Harvey Oswald would some day commit terrible violence. True, he was the product of a broken, unstable home. Some minor warning signals can be detected in his boyhood now, but that is hindsight. It is not surprising these went unnoticed then. Hundreds of thousands of other boys and youths have or are living similar patterns.

Those signs became more noticeable in early manhood, culminating in his defection to the Soviet Union and his early disillusionment there. A craving for attention became apparent. But there was still little reason to suspect a potential for great violence.

But in pointing out that Lee Harvey Oswald's life prior to 1963 was not so very different from many other Americans, Robert Oswald may be making an important point. Are conditions such that society is producing many, many such potential assassins awaiting only the right combination of circumstances to trigger the explosion?

Robert Oswald is willing to accept the guilt of his brother as fixed by the Warren Commission. He does quarrel with the commission's investigation in some respects (sometimes on surprising grounds). And he feels Lee Harvey Oswald may well have been encouraged by others in carrying out the assassination. But he is far more critical of those who have constructed theories contrary to the commission's finding that Lee Oswald fired the fatal shots, and fired them alone.

As with all books of this kind, one wonders how many of the words and ideas are Robert Oswald's own, and how many the suggestions of his professional collaborators.

Does that light which this book casts upon the formation of the twisted character of Lee Harvey Oswald justify the spectacle of one brother calling another a murderer, and implying that their mother's instability was a major factor behind that terrible act of violence? Frankly, we don't know.

IF YOU have been harboring the suspicion that all the world is somewhat off its rocker, except for yourself, you may have been over-estimating the ranks of the stable by one.

The point of "The Quiet Furies" by Elton B. McNeil, University of Michigan professor of psychology and clinical psychologist, is that in the jolts and tensions of life, every man has suffered some psychical damage.

The difference between what we have come to regard as normality and abnormality, then, is one of degree — how frequently those maladjustments occur, how quick and complete the recovery.

When the pressure proves unbearable, the neurotic slips into psychotic. When man confronts adversity, and bests it or moves on to other interests after a temporary struggle, he retains some mastery over the "quiet furies" of his subconscious. But they are still there. And will arise to do battle again and again.

To demonstrate the thin and tenuous line that runs between normality and abnormality, between the man-on-the-street and the Lee Oswalds, McNeil cites 19 slightly-disguised case histories of people who have struggled with mental disorder —the obsessive-compulsive, the anxiety-ridden, the anti-social delinquent, the alcoholic, the drug addict, the brain injury victim, the paranoid, the syphilitic, etc.

For each, there is a preliminary discussion of the sickness, followed by the narration of its pattern and symptoms and of the effort to locate its roots and cure. Some cases evolved happily in the recovery or improvement of the ill ones. Some did not. The results of others are still pending.

McNeil's hope is that his book will make its readers more aware of the upsets hidden within all of us, so that we will be in a better position to prevent their escalation and consequent damage such as was caused in the 19 life patterns he has related. The awareness is achieved, to an uncomfortable degree.

REV. ROBERT H. Schuller's "possibility thinking" in his "Move Ahead With Possibility Thinking" turns out to be a euphonism for our old friend "positive thinking." In fact, the high priest of positive thinking, Norman Vincent Peale, gives this book his stamp of endorsement on its dustjacket.

Schuller is well known himself as founder and pastor of the Reformed Church at Garden Grove, Calif., often referred to as the Walk-In-Drive-In Church, where a thousand worshipers can be seated indoors for services while other thousands can participate from their cars parked outside in the manner of the drive-in theater.

His book makes frequent mention of his unusual church and how it came about. But the theme is that man, with sufficient confidence in himself and in his religion, can accomplish almost anything, just as Reverend Schuller built his church and congregation from a shoestring start.

One hundred and ninety seven pages of this may strike most readers as too much of a good and often obvious thing.

Perhaps the best chapter in the book is the author's relatively practical discussion of time management. Otherwise, the book differs very little from what Peale and others have written and rewritten before him.

ROBERT OSWALD, businessman brother of Lee Harvey Oswald, writes of his ill-fated brother and especially his early life in "Lee: A Portrait of Lee Harvey Oswald."

Eighteen members of the Mystery Writers of America have supplied the contents of this anthology of crime short stories.

It makes for a varied and entertaining reading treat for the mystery buff, one of the better recent anthologies of its kind.

David Ely, Baynard Kendrick, James McKimmey, James Michael Ullman and Henry Slesar are five whose stories struck us as superior. But there are few if any weak selections in this collection, and you, no doubt, will discover other personal favorites.

THIS PLYWOOD cabinet can be easily adapted to storage for a variety of sporting equipment through simple variations of shelving. It can even form the basic unit for a row of cabinets in garage or basement for general household storage.

For New Sports Gear

Every sportsman needs a place to stow his gear where it will be safe from the ravages of common storage and prying hands — especially if his collection has been increased by Christmas gifts.

With that in mind, the American Plywood Association has developed a quickly-built three-way sport cabinet that is easily adapted to storage of camping-hiking gear, hunting-fishing equipment, or the necessities for ski, golf and tennis.

IF YOU'RE NOT a sportsman, the cabinet is great for other storage purposes such as tools, paints, garden equipment, canned goods, or cleaning and laundry supplies — nearly anything you might need storage for, in fact.

The hunting-fishing version has a rack that can be locked to prevent unwanted hands from tampering with your guns. There also is a locking ammunition pistol drawer, and shelves for cleaning equipment and other materials.

Fishing poles and nets are neatly stored in the cabinet's deep door, which also has shelves for small items of tackle. Your tackle box goes on the large bottom shelf of the main unit.

THE BASIC cabinet is the same for ski, golf and tennis equipment. The interior of the main unit, however, contains only three sections — one full-height with a drop-bar that guards against a tangle of falling poles and skis, two others opposite and divided by a shelf that leaves room for golf clubs below and tennis rackets above.

The handy storage door holds small items associated wtih the three sports.

The hiking-camping cabinet is a simple collection of well-spaced shelves. A detailed plan showing all three cabinets is available for 10 cents from the American Plywood Association, 1119 A Street, Tacoma, Wash., 98401.

How To Apply A Clear Finish

It would seem, wouldn't it, that if you got together with a group of professional wood finishers you'd come away with valuable information on the proper ways and means of selecting and applying clear finishing materials to your home projects?

Don't you believe it.

ACTUALLY, IF you followed the advice of any single professional, taking into account that he has more experience and possibly better equipment, you'd get fairly good results.

One example would be in the matter of what to do after the top coat has been applied. There are advocates of various types of sanding, steel-wooling, rubbing, waxing, etc., as well as those who maintain that none of this is necessary if the proper finish has been used in the proper manner.

Many old-timers insist that nothing smoothes the irregularities and gives as good a sheen to a final coat as rubbing with powdered abrasives. When this is planned, it is important that the varnish or other finish be completely hard before the rubbing. This means a wait of several days rather than a few hours or overnight.

A MIXTURE is made of powdered pumice (available in any hardware, paint store or lumberyard) and machine oil, oil, motor oil or water.

The matter of which liquid to use is another of those controversial points we mentioned. Anyway, the mixture should be pasty and rubbed into the wood with moderate pressure parallel with the grain, using a soft, lintless cloth. When the surface feels very smooth, wipe off all the excess with a separate, clean cloth.

If your intention was to get a dull finish, you can stop right there. But if you want a satiny appearance, make another similar mixture, this time using powdered rottenstone instead of pumice. Follow the same procedure as with the pumice, but after all the excess has been wiped off, take a third clean cloth and rub long and hard.

That Old Bugaboo — The Leaky Faucet

Handyman's Page

It is now more than a year since we have discussed the subject of leaky faucets.

Our mail indicates that it requires more attention than that. Also quite evident is that women are showing a decided interest in tackling the problem. This could mean that (1) men know how to stop faucet leaks and don't need any advice or (2) men are less likely to admit they need help in handling such a basic maintenance chore or (3) women simply would rather do it themselves.

WHATEVER the reason, stopping a faucet from dripping can be accomplished effectively by any woman without help from a male member of the household.

The one essential is that she be aware of how to turn off the water at the nearest shut-off valve or the main shut-off valve. Which, by the way, is something she should know in case of an emergency even if she never undertakes a faucet repair. Knowing how to turn off the water can prevent an ordinary pipe leak from turning into a flood.

The most common type of faucet leak is that occurring from the spout of a compression faucet, still in use in the large majority of sinks in the country, despite the inroads being made by single-lever and other types of modern faucets, some of which do not even use conventional washers.

WHEN YOU have determined whether it is the hot or the cold water that is leaking, turn off the shut-off valve. Place adhesive tape round the packing or cap nut just under the faucet handle. Using a flat-faced wrench, turn the nut counterclockwise.

When the cap is loose, turn the handle in the same direction as when you turn on the water. Keep turning until the shaft or stem comes completely out of the faucet.

At the lower end of the stem, you will find a washer, probably worn or chewed up, held in place by a round-headed screw. Using a screwdriver, remove the screw and dispose of the washer. Put a new one in its place, replace the parts in the opposite order to which they are removed, turn on the water and the leak will be gone.

OF COURSE, there could be complications.

You might not be able to turn the screw. Or it may be that the faucet seat needs to be smoothed. Or the threads of the stem may be stripped. But, more than 90 per cent of the time, the simple procedure described here will solve the problem.

When it does not, take the faucet stem to your hardware dealer and ask his advice.

A less likely but occasional type of leak is that which occurs at the cap nut. This can be corrected by loosening the nut and replacing the packing, a kind of cord-like material that fits under the cap.

Packing is available at a hardwares store and costs but a few cents. Washers can be purchased individually (be sure you get the proper size) or in a box that has assorted sizes and screws to fit.

POET'S CORNER

CHRISTMAS BY THE 'TELLY'

Unwilling to brave highways
nor fearless of planes,
This Christmas (stocked with lots of bread and jelly)
I spent Christmas with my "telly."
And in retrospect:
I think I've seen the entire work of Dickens—
There was Oliver Twist going to see
Miss Haversham with Tiny Tim . . .
And Scrooge sledding with Donald Duck
Not to omit Pip stealing apples
to give to Little Nell. All this provided a neat backdrop for Loren Green
And Ray Connif to take on Carmen the Dragon.
With apprehension I watched the Grinch
almost spoil Mr. Magoo's Xmas and was relieved when the Miracle on 34th Street
traditionally occurred with Bing's White Christmas.
But then to top it all
there was ole Truman recalling memories
(en compote)
and the other Truman with Christmas music
from Europe.
About that time I gave up.
I mean, sitting by the "telly" is no way
to spend Christmas.
From now on,
it's the radio.

ODE TO A DYING YEAR

Goodbye, old year, you're fading fast,
And so farewell to thee.
You'll soon join years gone past,
And move into eternity.
The plans we made when you were new,
Some of them have come true,
And so we'll part as friends, old year,
We owe a lot to you.

The whole world waits, it won't be long,
A few more hours and you'll be gone.
We'll sing and dance and merry be,
And wish to all prosperity.
Whistles, horns and bells we'll hear,
And shouts to all — "Happy New Year."

The din and roar, the pomp and show
Doesn't mean we're glad to see you go—
It only means we're glad we're here
To welcome in a brand new year.
So sing out the old, ring in the new—
Farewell, old year, goodbye to you.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

SPANKY AND OUR GANG — Mercury SR 61124:

"Sunday Will Never Be The Same" is the title track of this first LP by a mostly-vocal quartet patterned almost too closely after The Mammas and Pappas. This one tune is great, and so are several others in the fancy double-fold package full of candid photos of the group.

There seems to be a trend toward omitting liner notes entirely from rock album sleeves. Considering some of the drivel found on sleeves of jazz albums, perhaps this is a good thing.

These kids are doing a fine job; it's just unfortunate that Cass and Her Gang have done it first.

BLUES MAGOOS — "Electric Comic Book" — Mercury SR 61104:

This Chicago-based group of youngsters already has one LP out. While their work lacks maturity and density, they do have some trenchant comments to make in their lyrics and their sound is quite professional.

The notes refer to their music as the shotgun marriage of Pop Art and Looney Tunes, which is fairly accurate. It just appears Chicago is out of it as far as the rock scene goes — San Francisco is where it's really happening.

JOHNNY RIVERS — "Rewind" — Imperial LP 12341:

The majority of rock fans in this area put down Johnny Rivers because he seems rather dated since the big explosion of San Francisco rock. However, I find him frequently enjoyable because of his highly polished professionalism. This is a quality many of the newer groups could use a bit of. He also has a very pleasing voice.

Wisteria Vines Offer Fabulous Floral Displays

Winter Is Planting Time For These Exotics In California

It's been said of the Wisteria that, with room enough to grow, one vine could cover a city block with its wonderful blooms.

This is an exaggeration, of course, unless the city block is a short one. But it's the happy truth that one of these fabulous vines can cover your home with beauty.

THERE ARE venerable plantings of Wisteria throughout our state which annually attract sightseers from miles around. These are tremendous old vines with sturdy, multiple trunks twisted about each other as they ramble and climb up a wall to cover an eave two or three stories above the ground or to smother a trellis with their growth.

There are also some fabulous tales about the size of the Japanese Wisteria's blooms.

One form of this species reportedly produces blooms that are three and even four feet in length. Perhaps in Japan this is true. Here in California we get racemes of color two feet long and are happy to have them occasionally longer.

THERE ARE two varieties commonly grown in this state — Chinese Wisteria and Japanese Wisteria. Of the two, the Japanese Wisteria has longer clustered flowers.

The Chinese Wisteria has flowers opening simultaneously while the Japanese Wisteria flowers open progressively starting at the base.

The variety Longissima Alba, a pure white strain, comes closest to producing the legendary blooms mentioned above. Nurserymen report blooms that occasionally are better than three feet in length and two to three feet is commonplace..

THERE IS also a pink form of Japanese Wisteria and a new Royal Purple form which offers a richer color than the traditional violet form most of us see and grow.

These should all be planted during the winter.

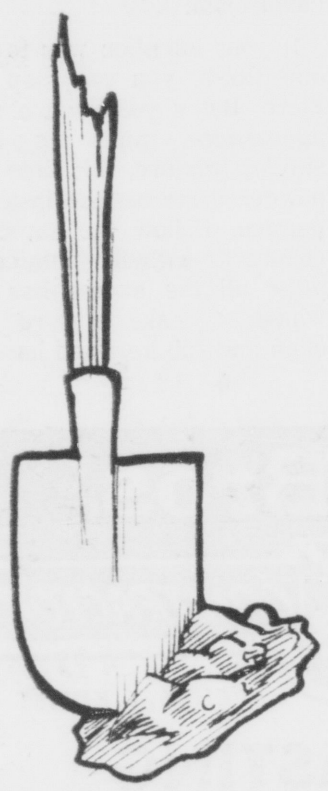
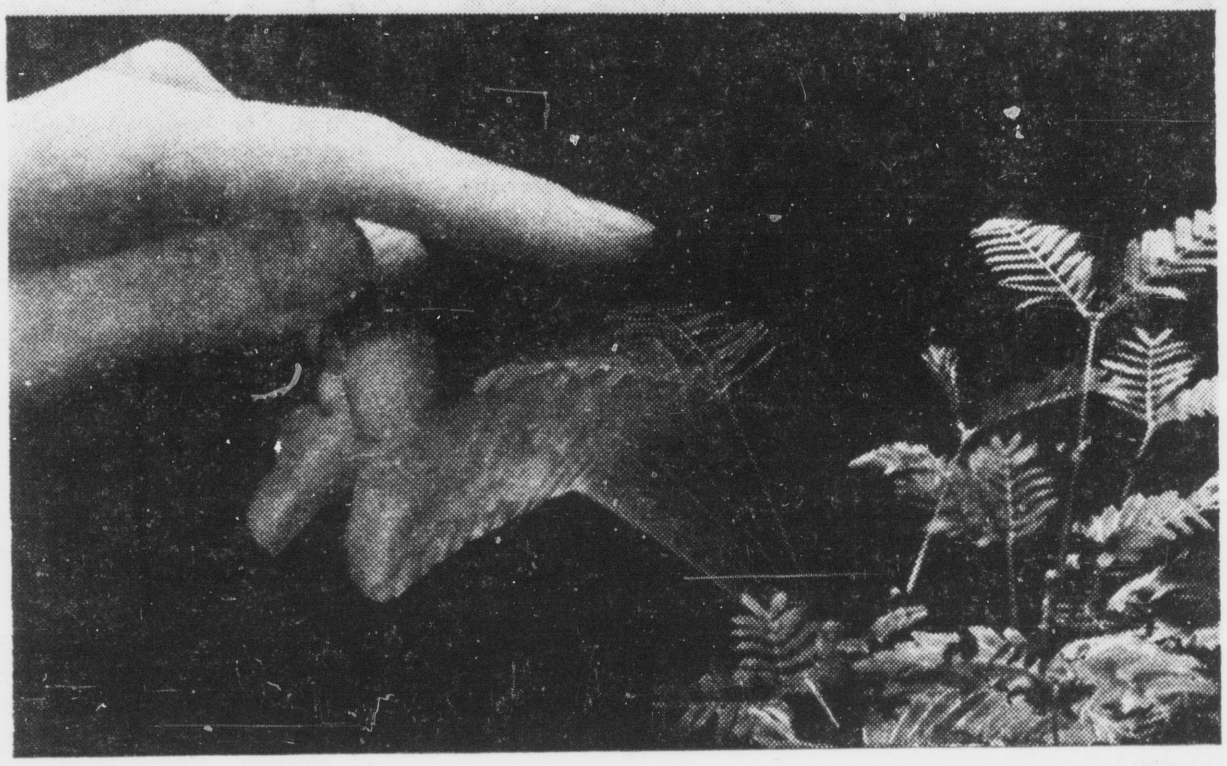
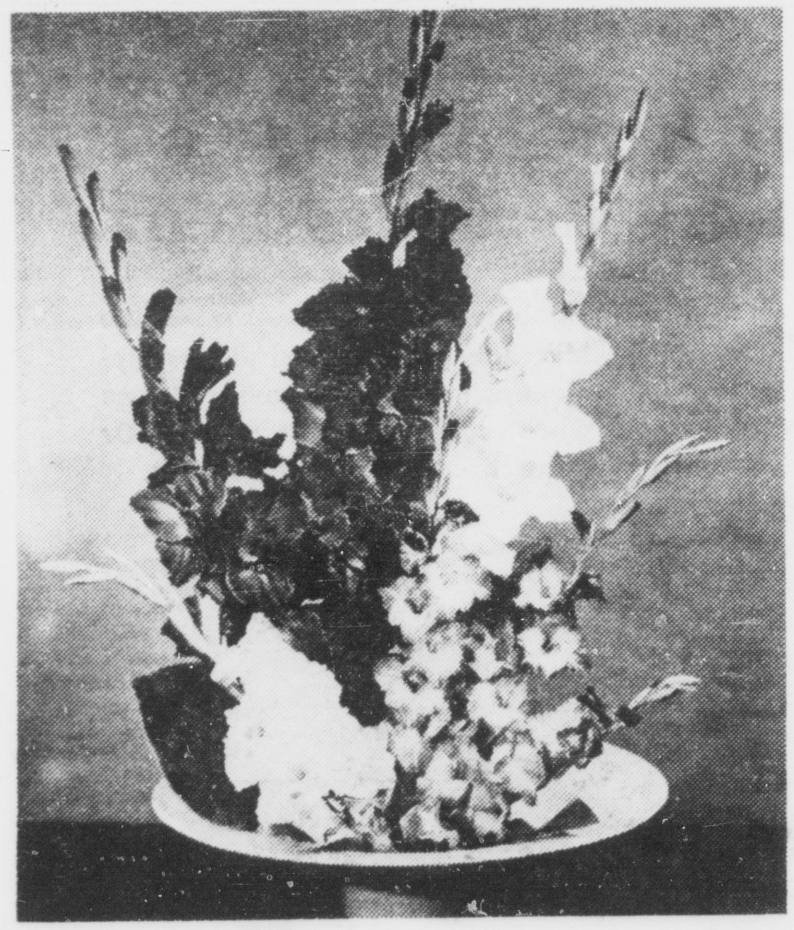
In a few years your Wisteria may attract sightseers, too.



The Touchy Mimosa Pudica



THE SENSITIVE PLANT is one of those unusual and fascinating curiosities that sometimes crop up in the botanical world. Touch a single leaf, and it immediately folds up. Then, successive leaflets along the stem will also fold, and the entire branch will bend downward toward the base of the plant. Left alone, the plant will recover and become fully sensitive again. Repeated stimulation does not harm the plant. Scientificolly, it's the Mimosa pudica, of semi-tropical origin, suited to outdoor use in full sunlight, or to indoor growth. Northrup, King & Co. of Minneapolis, Minn., is offering it in one of its Punch 'n Gro planter kits, with seeds already planted at the proper spacing and depth for germination.



SPOTLIGHTED as the three 1968 All-American gladiolus selections are these three beauties — the velvety, rich rose red Royalty, center and left; the pure white Purity, bottom and right; and the miniature, gloriously blue Bluebird, lower right. Thus the honored threesome come in the appropriate All-America colors this year.

Planting Under The Trees —

Because of the dense shade beneatn trees, few gardeners attempt to plant color to set off the green foliage of their favorite tree.

Trees also have hungry root systems which deplete the soil of nutrients.

Your nurseryman advises you to consider both these problems with trees and then convert an often wasted space into a featured attraction in your garden.

HERE ARE his directions for that added dash of color: First, get some light and air at the base of the tree with the proper use of pruning shears and saw. If the tree is of great size, let a professional handle the job.

Second, to allow for a tree's voracious roots, it is often advisable to raise the soil slightly in a bed around the base of the trunk. Be sure you leave air space between trunk and raised bed so that dirt won't encourage crown rot.

Extra food and water are needed too—the amount depending on the size of the tree.

IT IS MUCH easier to plan your tree-ground relationship when you plant the tree. Keep in mind that such attractive specimens as the White Birch are enhanced by a base planting of ornamentals and evergreens. Flowering Cherry or some other star performer in spring is extra special when it blooms over an azalea or bulb bed.

A conifer can be nicely complemented with a "woodsy" planting such as Dwarf Juniper or azaleas at its base.

Consult a nurseryman or landscaper and seek his ideas on this. For every good idea you might come up with on the subject, he can probably offer you a dozen or more.

Avoid Oaks In Storms

No tree is a safe refuge during a thunderstorm, the tree expert says. The oak is described as the most unsafe of all.

Elm, pine, ash, willow, poplar, spruce and maple are next in order of susceptibility to a bolt of lightning, and beech is seldom struck by lightning.

Why does lightning have a liking for oaks? There is no scientific explanation but that several undisputed studies show that oaks are struck most often.

The "best possible reason" was that oaks contain more tannic acid than other trees, while beeches contain comparatively little. Taking into account ionization factors, tannic acid seems to be an attractive conductor to lightning bolts.

Trees standing in the open, singly or in groups, or at the edge of a woods, or bordering streets, are prime targets for lightning.

How To Apply A Clear Finish

It would seem, wouldn't it, that if you got together with a group of professional wood finishers you'd come away with valuable information on the proper ways and means of selecting and applying clear finishing materials to your home projects?

Don't you believe it.

ACTUALLY, IF you followed the advice of any single professional, taking into account that he has more experience and possibly better equipment, you'd get fairly good results.

Follow the same procedure as with the pumice, but after all the excess has been wiped off, take a third clean cloth and rub long and hard.

Handyman's Page

It is now more than a year since we have discussed the subject of leaky faucets.

Our mail indicates that it requires more attention than that. Also quite evident is that women are showing a decided interest in tackling the problem. This could mean that (1) men know how to stop faucet leaks and don't need any advice or (2) men are less likely to admit they need help in handling such a basic maintenance chore or (3) women simply would rather do it themselves.

WHATEVER the reason, stopping a faucet from dripping can be accomplished effectively by any woman without help from a male member of the household.

The one essential is that she be aware of how to turn off the water at the nearest shut-off valve or the main shut-off valve. Which, by the way, is something she should know in case of an emergency even if she never undertakes a faucet repair. Knowing how to turn off the water can prevent an ordinary pipe leak from turning into a flood.

The most common type of faucet leak is that occurring from the spout of a compression faucet, still in use in the large majority of sinks in the country, despite the inroads being made by single-lever and other types of modern faucets, some of which do not even use conventional washers.

WHEN YOU have determined whether it is the hot or the cold water that is leaking, turn off the shut-off valve. Place adhesive tape round the packing or cap nut just under the faucet handle. Using a flat-faced wrench, turn the nut counterclockwise.

When the cap is loose, turn the handle in the same direction as when you turn on the water. Keep turning until the shaft or stem comes completely out of the faucet.

At the lower end of the stem, you will find a washer, probably worn or chewed up, held in place by a round-headed screw. Using a screwdriver, remove the screw and dispose of the washer. Put a new one in its place, replace the parts in the opposite order to which they are removed, turn on the water and the leak will be gone.

OF COURSE, there could be complications.

You might not be able to turn the screw. Or it may be that the faucet seat needs to be smoothed. Or the threads of the stem may be stripped. But, more than 90 per cent of the time, the simple procedure described here will solve the problem.

When it does not, take the faucet stem to your hardware dealer and ask his advice.

A less likely but occasional type of leak is that which occurs at the cap nut. This can be corrected by loosening the nut and replacing the packing, a kind of cord-like material that fits under the cap.

Packing is available at a hardwares store and costs but a few cents. Washers can be purchased individually (be sure you get the proper size) or in a box that has assorted sizes and screws to fit.

Choose Trees To Fit Needs

Remember – They'll Stay For Generations

The everlasting permanence of a tree dictates special care in its planting.

We can plant many shrubs in the wrong place and either move them or remove them later on with no great problems. But with few exceptions, a tree can only be moved in its infancy, and then with maximum care and trouble.

TREES ARE the most important single item in landscaping a garden, for it is beneath them we live and through them that we view the world. And when you remember that future generations will probably be living with the same trees you plant today, it's a sobering thought.

A single large tree can dominate our landscapes, which may or may not be desirable.

In large gardens a giant Southern Magnolia, a towering elm or a spreading oak can become a focal point for living and play; but in small gardens they can be overpowering. Therefore the selection of trees for landscape purposes should be made with forethought.

UNLESS YOU know your trees and exactly what you want, their variety can be perplexing. Visit a nursery and ask the employee to help you. Go armed with a rough plan showing your house and its exposure, including outdoor living areas existing or proposed. Other details he will want include size of lot, proximity to neighboring houses and distance of house from the street.

Bear in mind that trees serve a variety of uses.

We plant them for shade on the south or southwest side of the house. This type of shade tree is usually deciduous so that winter sun will penetrate the leafless branches. We also plant trees for screening, to block a view or afford privacy. We plant them to frame a view, also.

And finally we plant them as specimens simply to give us pleasure from their framework or blossoms or both.

Questions And Answers About Growth Of Trees

Some questions and answers about trees:

Will an iron nail hammered into the trunk of a fruit tree increase its yield?

No, it will not. Nails do not provide enough iron to affect fruit production. Soil feeding to overcome an iron deficiency is the recommended method of promoting fruit growth.

Do squirrels injure trees?

Very little, if at all. They live in tree cavities caused by insects and fungi, and thus do not make the cavity. But their frequent travels may prevent the formation of callus tissue over the cavity mouth. And they may chew twigs if food is scarce.

Will a copper nail driven into the trunk kill a tree?

No, it will not. Copper is poisonous in quantities to some plants, and it is an ingredient in fungicides. But a low concentration of copper is not harmful.

Can trees die from suffocation caused by smoke, dust, soot or other materials collected on leaves and bark?

Indeed they can. Soot and smoke are more injurious than dust. Thousands of tiny openings permit trees to absorb water and air. If these are clogged, the tree suffers, sometimes fatally.

Are any elms immune to Dutch elm disease?

No, none is immune. This disease, caused by the fungus Ceratocystis ulmi, attacks all elms. However, it hits some harder than others. The American elm is one of the most severely affected. Siberian and Chinese elms are the most resistant.

1967 Will Be Year For Garden Room

If you received house plants for Christmas, you're lucky.

If you didn't, add to your collection now. Decorators say 1968 will be the year of the garden room, and glossy, living greenery is the smartest thing you can buy.

LEAFY TREES in tubs, flowers and leaves to trail from above, squat foliage plants to station on the floor, and graceful varieties to deck tables and mantles and window sills—you can mass them all together at a dining room window if you like, to make a natural garden setting for meals. Or furnish a living room with their refreshing good looks.

The more the merrier, say the experts. There's no such thing as too much or too many.

Don't be afraid you'll be taking on lots of work. The most popular house plants these days thrive on very little care. Just normal soil and moisture, and the same room temperatures that you enjoy yourself.

AS FOR LIGHT, it depends on the plant. A dracena or aspidistra, for instance, can live all its life in the darkest corner you own, but a wax plant or geranium would prefer to have plenty of light. Most house plants are pretty adaptable to ordinary home conditions, and do well in any normal indoor light.

Look for tall-growing plants to make a dramatic start.

THE QUEENSLAND Umbrella tree is another excellent tall grower. And the Weeping Chinese Banyan (a form of evergreen fig) is one of the most charming small trees you can grow.

Then add to your "garden room look" by featuring dieffenbachias with their clear, brilliant colors. Pepperomias, Grape Ivies, Boston ferns, philodendrons, sansivierias, Moses-inthe-Cradle spathiphyllum and crossandras are other easy to grow house plants. when you browse your nursery you'll see more.

Botanically, some of the above are Kentia Palm (howeia forsteriana); Queensland Umbrella Tree (brassaia actinophylla); Weeping Chinese Banyan (ficus benjamina); Grape Ivy (cissus rhombifolia); Moses-in-the-cradle (rhoeo spathacea).

CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

The Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- If you received spring-blooming bulbs for Christmas, plant them forthwith. They shouldn't stay out of the ground much longer.
- New roses may be held a short while until you are ready to plant them by burying them in moist ground, peat moss or sawdust. But plant as soon as possible.
- Winter spraying will eliminate many of the "bugs" from your garden pleasure next spring and summer.
- Lily bulbs are still available for planting. Give them a well drained soil, rich in humus.

Wisteria Vines Offer Fabulous Floral Displays

Winter Is Planting Time For These Exotics In California

It's been said of the Wisteria that, with room enough to grow, one vine could cover a city block with its wonderful blooms.

This is an exaggeration, of course, unless the city block is a short one. But it's the happy truth that one of these fabulous vines can cover your home with beauty.

THERE ARE venerable plantings of Wisteria throughout our state which annually attract sightseers from miles around. These are tremendous old vines with sturdy, multiple trunks twisted about each other as they ramble and climb up a wall to cover an eave two or three stories above the ground or to smother a trellis with their growth.

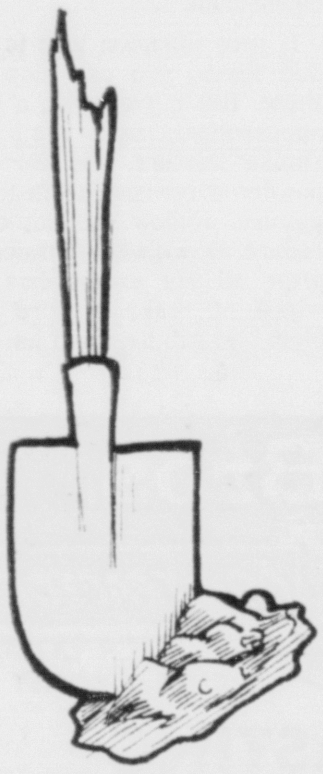
There are also some fabulous tales about the size of the Japanese Wisteria's blooms.

One form of this species reportedly produces blooms that are three and even four feet in length. Perhaps in Japan this is true. Here in California we get racemes of color two feet long and are happy to have them occasionally longer.

THERE ARE two varieties commonly grown in this state — Chinese Wisteria and Japanese Wisteria. Of the two, the Japanese Wisteria has longer clustered flowers.

The Chinese Wisteria has flowers opening simultaneously while the Japanese Wisteria flowers open progressively starting at the base.

The variety Longissima Alba, a pure white strain, comes closest to producing the legendary blooms mentioned above. Nurserymen report blooms that occasionally are better than three feet in length and two to three feet is commonplace..



THERE IS also a pink form of Japanese Wisteria and a new Royal Purple form which offers a richer color than the traditional violet form most of us see and grow.

These should all be planted during the winter.

Dig a large hole and work some fertilizer into the soil before planting the vine. Then stand back and watch it grow.

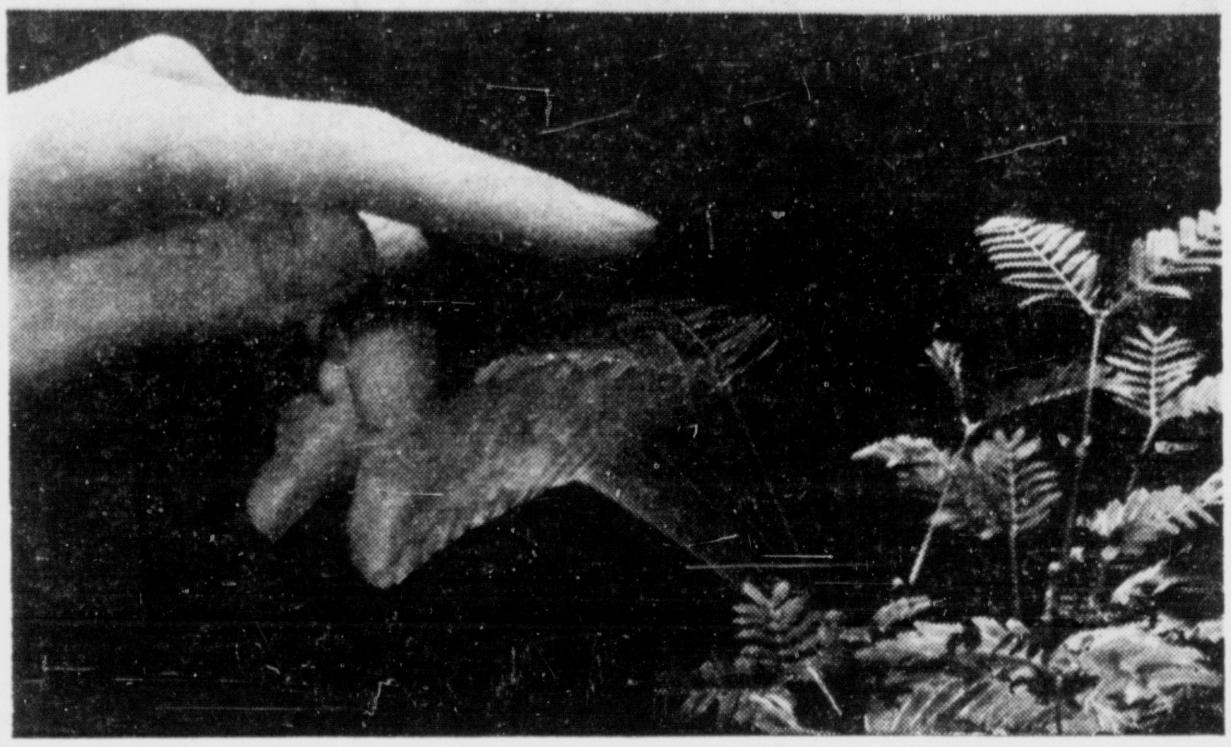
The Touchy Mimosa Pudica



THE SENSITIVE PLANT is one of those unusual and fascinating curiosities that sometimes crop up in the botanical world. Touch a single leaf, and it immediately folds up. Then, successive leaflets along the stem will also fold, and the entire branch will bend downward toward the base of the plant. Left alone, the plant will recover and become fully sensitive again. Repeated stimulation does not harm the plant. Scientificolly, it's the Mimosa pudica, of semi-tropical origin, suited to outdoor use in full sunlight, or to indoor growth. Northrup, King & Co. of Minneapolis, Minn., is offering it in one of its Punch 'n Gro planter kits, with seeds already planted at the proper spacing and depth for germination.

SPOTLIGHTED as the three 1968 All-American gladiolus selections are these three beauties — the velvety, rich rose red Royalty, center and left; the pure white Purity, bottom and right; and the miniature, gloriously blue Bluebird, lower right. Thus the honored threesome come in the appropriate All-America colors this year.

Planting Under The Trees —

Because of the dense shade beneath trees, few gardeners attempt to plant color to set off the green foliage of their favorite tree.

Trees also have hungry root systems which deplete the soil of nutrients.

Your nurseryman advises you to consider both these problems with trees and then convert an often wasted space into a featured attraction in your garden.

HERE ARE his directions for that added dash of color: First, get some light and air at the base of the tree with the proper use of pruning shears and saw. If the tree is of great size, let a professional handle the job.

Second, to allow for a tree's voracious roots, it is often advisable to raise the soil slightly in a bed around the base of the trunk. Be sure you leave air space between trunk and raised bed so that dirt won't encourage crown rot.

Extra food and water are needed too—the amount depending on the size of the tree.

IT IS MUCH easier to plan your tree-ground relationship when you plant the tree. Keep in mind that such attractive specimens as the White Birch are enhanced by a base planting of ornamentals and evergreens. Flowering Cherry or some other star performer in spring is extra special when it blooms over an azalea or bulb bed.

A conifer can be nicely complemented with a "woodsy" planting such as Dwarf Juniper or azaleas at its base.

Consult a nurseryman or landscaper and seek his ideas on this. For every good idea you might come up with on the subject, he can probably offer you a dozen or more.

Avoid Oaks In Storms

No tree is a safe refuge during a thunderstorm, the tree expert says. The oak is described as the most unsafe of all.

Elm, pine, ash, willow, poplar, spruce and maple are next in order of susceptibility to a bolt of lightning, and beech is seldom struck by lightning.

Why does lightning have a liking for oaks? There is no scientific explanation but that several undisputed studies show that oaks are struck most often.

The "best possible reason" was that oaks contain more tannic acid than other trees, while beeches contain comparatively little. Taking into account ionization factors, tannic acid seems to be an attractive conductor to lightning bolts.

Trees standing in the open, singly or in groups, or at the edge of a woods, or bordering streets, are prime targets for lightning.

FRED MAYER, Sausalito pharmacist and president of Mayer Research Laboratories, tells a customer about "Reprieve," a tablet he and Greenbrae resident Joe Rotenberg invented to prevent suffering from "over-indulgence." Mayer will appear on Rolfe Peterson's "POW!" show Sunday at 4 p.m. on Channel 5, to brief potential "hangover" victims on the benefits of his product.

FOOTBALL AND PARADES highlight the television fare this holiday weekend. The sportsfest will include three major college bowl games Monday on Channels 3 and 4, starting with the Sugar Bowl at 10:45 a.m., and followed by the Rose Bowl at 1:45 p.m. and the Orange Bowl at 4:45 p.m., a full day of football for father to enjoy from his armchair. Heading the list of parades will be the Tournament of Roses spectacle from Pasadena with Linda Jean Strather, at right, as the reigning queen, to be covered on both NBC (Channels 3 and 4) and CBS (Channels 5 and 10) outlets beginning at 8:30 a.m. Monday.
